

DYNAMITE PLOTTED BY EXPLOSION ON P. R. R. TRACKS NEAR ALTOONA

Discharge After Local Train Passes Bellwood—88 Sticks Found Along the Line

TRAFFIC HALTED AN HOUR

Investigators Believe Time Fuse Was Attached by Conspirators—No Clue to Them

ALTOONA, Pa., July 12.—A dynamite plot, the object of which may have been to blow up a passenger train, was disclosed last night when a heavy charge exploded on the Pennsylvania Railroad main line, just west of Bellwood, seven miles east of here, a few minutes after Altoona local No. 669 passed that point. A second explosion followed.

Officers and employes were rushed to the scene to make an investigation. They found 88 sticks of dynamite, eight sticks to a charge, distributed along four main line tracks at the water troughs, where locomotives take water on the "fly."

It was at first believed the dynamite had fallen from a passing train, but the manner in which the sticks were scattered, together with the fact that the dynamite which exploded had been in large quantities led the officers to the conclusion that it was the result of a carefully laid plot.

All trains were halted for an hour or more until the track and roadbed could be inspected to make sure that all of the explosive had been found. At 1:30 the line was opened, but only one train was moved at a time.

While the officers have not determined the exact manner in which the dynamite was placed, they are satisfied that a time fuse had been attached to the sticks which exploded, which indicates a criminal conspiracy. A great hole was torn in the roadbed and all the tracks were slightly damaged.

It is reported that two women were seen passing along the railroad half an hour before the explosion occurred.

While the Pennsylvania's representatives were still investigating the explosion on the main line, another explosion occurred at Bellwood. A charge of dynamite had been placed on the air reservoir of a passenger coach standing 50 yards from the station. The windows of the coach were shattered and a large hole torn in the floor of the car. A second coach standing nearby was also damaged, as was the Bellwood division inspector's office.

FIREMEN FIND BLAZE IN 8TH STREET FORGE

Automobilist Entangled in Crush of Apparatus Near Chestnut Street

An automobilist made an earnest effort last night to keep out of the way of the fire apparatus at 8th and Chestnut streets and succeeded in getting into the midst of a "jam" while firemen hunted for a blaze at 167 South 8th street.

The motorcar driver turned into 8th street at Chestnut about midnight when he heard the clanging of fire autos. He chose a cozy place on the east side of the street and stopped to let the apparatus rush by. A man, evidently a watchman, came out from No. 167 and remarked politely, "Please go away."

"Why?" queried the driver of the auto. "We pulled in here to get out of the way of the apparatus."

"The apparatus is going to stop here," was the response. And it did. The watchman, having shooed the auto out of the way, requested the fire apparatus to come into the curb. He also suggested, with a gesture to the building, that the firemen "look in there."

They pulled the fire escape down and began "looking." But they couldn't find any fire except in a forge in one of the rooms that had been throwing off smoke, and that solved the mystery of the watchman's perturbation.

"JOSIE" COHAN DEAD; NOTED COMEDIENNE AND DANCER

Youngest Member of "Four Cohans." Successful in Antipodes

NEW YORK, July 12.—Mrs. Fred Niblo, known to the theatrical world as Josephine Cohan—sister of George M. Cohan, and youngest member of the "Four Cohans," well known farceurs of a few years ago—died in her apartments in the Hotel Belloc, today. She had been ill several months.

Mrs. Niblo was born in Providence and was married in 1901. She was more than "George's sister," possessing great individual talent. She had considerable ability as a comedienne, but was especially notable for her dancing, fancy, acrobatic and grotesque. With her husband she took the Cohan successes to Australia and South Africa and won great success, as well as made a fortune. She last appeared in Philadelphia in "The Yankee Prince."

48 LEADERS RECOGNIZED IN GIVING OF CITY JOBS

Mayor Announces He Will Consult With 32 Vars and 16 McNichol Men

Thirty-two of the Republican Organization leaders allied with the Vars faction and 16 Penrose-McNichol leaders, including the wards where leaders are still to be named, will be recognized by Mayor Smith and municipal departmental heads in the future division of patronage and places under the city government.

This final division has been decided upon after many conferences in the last few days at City Hall and in the future appointments will not be made until the leaders chosen by the Mayor have been consulted or given an opportunity to submit men eligible for places. The men obtaining provisional appointments in this way will have to pass civil service tests before their names go on the city payroll.

The two most important leaders missing from the list are Harry Trainer, of the 3d Ward, and William Campbell, of the 25th. These men are to be punished for their opposition to Mayor Smith's candidacy for national delegate and for delaying tactics employed in Congress by members opposed to the administration.

MEN SELECTED BY SMITH. The leaders, as recognized by the Mayor, are as follows:

- Wards: 1—George Hoag, 2—Sheriff H. Eisner, 3—Samuel Salas, 4—James J. Kelly, 5—Clas R. Love, Jr., 6—Charles J. Kelly, 7—James M. Neely, 8—Jas. P. McNichol, 9—John H. K. Scott, 10—Frederick Zwick, 11—John Virdin, 12—David Martin, 13—Dave Lane, 14—Thomas Watson, 15—Congressman Vars, 16—Edw. W. Patton.

DENIES FORCING LEGISLATION

Mayor Smith today issued a denial of the statements that he was using the powers of his office to create certain legislation in Council. He insisted that he recognized all the Republican City Committeemen, but for personal reasons he made three exceptions. The Mayor refused to tell who the three exceptions among Republican ward leaders were.

The Mayor's exceptions, it is believed, in political circles are directed toward former Magistrate William S. Campbell, of the 25th Ward; Harry J. Trainer, of the 3d Ward; and Oscar Neil, of the 37th Ward, all of whom are loyal supporters of Senator McNichol.

"How about McNichol and Penrose?" the Mayor was asked. "McNichol and Penrose have had their fight and they can fight their battles as in the past," he replied.

Councils will adjourn for the summer next Thursday.

3000 Persons Leave in Special Trains for Annual Outing at Atlantic City

Business is rather dull in Tioga today, but the business men are happy anyway. Most of them are at Atlantic City, where the Tioga Business Men's Association is holding its annual excursion.

About 3000 persons left the North Philadelphia Station in three special trains this morning, and the first thing they did when they reached their destination was to take a plunge into the surf. Many of them went sailing this afternoon, while others whiled away the time on the Boardwalks and piers. Each child on the trip received a small bucket and shovel with which they could dig in the sand. Each youngster also received a block of ice cream.

Headquarters were established at the Hotel Continental in Atlantic City. A committee of 11, representing the 309 men who are members of the association, made the arrangements for the trip. The members of the committee are John M. Gross, chairman; Michael Walker, Charles Adams, George Lohr, George Steas, William Alexander, Wilbur H. Zimmerman, Dr. F. F. Kribba, Frank C. ABSENCE OF PENROSE LOSES SHIPBUILDING FOR LOCAL NAVY YARD

Philadelphia Cut Out of Navy Bill Authorizing Construction of Capital Warships, Lacking a Spokesman

MAY YET BE INCLUDED

By a Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 12.—That the elimination of the Philadelphia Navy Yard from the list of those to be equipped for the construction of modern battle cruisers and superdreadnaughts was due to the absence of Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, is attributed by Senator Poindexter, of Washington.

As the naval bill stands before the Senate today, favorably reported by the Naval Affairs Committee of which Senator Penrose is a member, it commands the Secretary of the Navy to have the navy yards at Puget Sound, Norfolk and Boston equipped "forthwith" for the construction of capital ships.

The naval bill, as it passed the House, named Puget Sound, Philadelphia, Norfolk and Boston.

It was Senator Poindexter who offered an amendment in the committee, making it mandatory on the part of the Secretary of the Navy to equip the Puget Sound yard immediately for the construction of the largest naval vessels.

"Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, was at the meeting to speak for Boston, and Senator Swanson, of Virginia, was there to speak for Norfolk, so they were included in my amendment," said Senator Poindexter.

"There was no one there to speak for Philadelphia, otherwise I presume Philadelphia would have been included in the number."

As a matter of fact there is no reason why Puget Sound, Boston and Norfolk should all be equipped at once, but in legislation it is often necessary to make concessions. That is why the other two yards were included in my amendment."

Senator Poindexter pointed out that the naval bill as it passed the House simply "authorized" the Secretary of the Navy to equip Puget Sound, Philadelphia, Norfolk and Boston to build big ships, but the return of the Navy to equip only Puget Sound, Norfolk and Boston.

Committee has reported instructs the House amendment which the Senate Naval Affairs Committee, Norfolk and Boston.

Poindexter said it might be possible for Senator Penrose to get Philadelphia incorporated when the bill goes to conference if he returns to Washington to make a fight for it. Penrose has been absent from Washington almost the entire time that the naval bill has been under consideration in the Senate Committee.

FRIENDS' EDUCATORS FAVOR "SEX HYGIENE" TEACHING IN SCHOOLS

Personal and Social Purity is Topic of Round Table Conference at Cape May

YOUNG PEOPLES' SESSION

CAPE MAY, N. J., July 12.—Purity was the subject discussed this morning by Friends at the round-table conference in the Presbyterian Church, Cassandra T. Carr, who has for years devoted her life to the question of teaching sex hygiene in the schools, said she believed it to be a most important factor in the education of boys and girls and read two letters from the two heads of Friends' Central School, Bertha L. Broomfield and W. Harriet, the retiring principal of that school. The letters follow:

"Dear friend—I do not know that I can give thee any thought that can be of any use to thee in the round table at Cape May. However, as thou knowest, I am strongly of the opinion that we must teach sex hygiene in our schools until we have a generation of parents who are both capable and willing to teach their children this important subject. Perhaps if they were, they might be more willing. In Friends' Central

School at least four-fifths of our boys have had little or no instruction in this field by parents.

We are making wonderful strides in the improvement of domestic animals, our farm products, etc., and I sometimes wonder whether we are giving the same effort to improving the human race. The proper time of course is to train a child to begin with his grandparents, but since we cannot do this, we can at least begin at an early age to interest him in nature study and through the various lessons of importance.

The lessons thus learned from parents and teachers, I think, should be supplemented by some one technically trained, preferably some strong athletic physicalian.
