PENNSYLVANIA TROOPS' WATER SUPPLY WILL BE IN OPERATION TODAY

Extensive System of Pipes to Be Completed Before Sundown at Camp

Stewart SICKNESS CONQUERED

By CARL L. ZEISBERG

Svening Ledger Staff Correspondent EL PASO, Tex., July 22.-There is nothing remarkable about the fact that water will flow by sundown from every faucet at Camp Stewart when the handle is turned. But Camp Stewart has been a much discussed subject.

Cussed subject.

The drinking water system will have been finished by the time evening purples the mountains and adds a mystic touch to the mesa, endless at dusk. From that time every soldier now encamped there may quench his thirst by walking to any of the spigots that stud the pipe line at intervals of 60 feet. The city water wagons, which have been delivering the precious fluid to the cavalry since its arrival, were returned today, because the troopers, the last of the soldiers now on the ground to be supplied with water, have been drinking gallons of it fresh from the pipe. it fresh from the pipe.

There are 2500 feet of 4-inch feed main, some 11,000 feet of 3-inch main, about 10,000 feet of 2-inch main and approximately the Lord only knows how many feet of smaller lateral pipe in the system as it lies today. Work on doubling the pipes began this morning when Mexican laborers laid the first lengths of the bath-Rouse pipe line. When that is finished a double cordon of pipes will form a rectangle two miles long and 1500 feet wide ground the roomy home of the Pennsylvania troops.

The transfer of the 2d Brigade from rockstrewn Camp Pershing to Camp Stewart, the largest site that even accommodated a division of militia, was finished today when the 10th Regiment marched the dirty three miles to the new camp. Colonel Coul-ter asked for six trucks to move his equip ment. Genera Clement sent 12.

Every man jack who came from Penn sylvania will be under canvas in the new camp by the end of next week, excepting Company B. Engineers, of Philadelphia. which is at Nogales, Ari., and the batta-lions of the 2d and 10th Regiments, which are in the Big Bend country. After a day of rest tomorrow, with religious serv-ices in every command, the 1st Brigade of Philadelphia will begin moving, starting with the 3d Regiment, on Monday.

Pots in every company mess tent began brewing early this morning for Sunday's dinner. With the commissaries rounding into form this meal, from the southernmost point of Camp Pershing to the northernmost trip of Camp Stewart, now occupied by the First City Troop, of Philadelphia, will be of sufficient aroma, tastiness and all-round gustatory excellence to set beall-round gustatory excellence to set be-fore Epicurus or any of his followers. Here is a sample dinner that will be served: Fricassee of chicken and mashed potatoes, stewed corn, green peas, giblet gravy, iced tea, bread, rice pudding and vanilla sauce a la Smith. Frank Smith is the cook of Company D of the 2d. Because his menu singled out does not signify that he is a best cook in the division. But he truly

Battle Off American Coast Presaged by Report Second Subsea Liner Approaches Under Guard

DUE TO ARRIVE MONDAY

BALTIMORE, July 22.-Application for clearance papers for the German merchant submarine Deutschland was filed at the Custom House here at 11:55 this morning, just as the Custom House was closing for the day, it was learned this afternoon.

The Deutschland may be cleared after business hours of the Custom House, officials say.

BALTIMORE, July 22 .- A naval battle at the very doors of America is a possibility as a result of the German venture of send ing subsea freighters here.

Two mighty war submarines are reported convoying the freight U-boat Bremen to the Virginia Capes, intending, also, to take the Deutschland out. This story, told by a naval expert here today, may mean that the Allies' patrol off the capes will clash with the submersibles, or it may mean that Germany plans the bold stroke of tor-pedoing the Allied cordon outside the American three-mile limit.

Captain Hinsch, of the Ozean Rhederel refused to confirm or deny the story. The German merchant submarine Deutsch land, laden with nickel, rubber and perhaps gold, for the Fatherland, is still here. Ap-parently, she is in shape to take the open sea. There is much speculation about the reason of her delayed start, but the only persons that know why she walts refuse to tell. Until a storm or two developed there was some wise talk to the effect that the Deutschland was waiting for rough weather under cover of which to escape to the ocean unobserved by the Allies' watchers on shore and the Allies' warships off shore. Others said a submersible didn't need a storm in which to escape detection.

Heavy weather in Baltimore harbor was not what Captain Koenig was looking for. He had it last night. A series of heavy squalls accompanied by a driving rain, made the soing choppy on the Patapsco, and the rain brought a heavy mist. Not even the heavy searchlights of the tug Timins, moored just outside the barrier of mins, moored just outside the barrier of booms and scows that surrounds the Deutschland, could pierce the muggy atmos-Deutschland, could pierce the muggy atmosphere. The storm lasted from early evening until nearly dawn, but the Deutschland made no move, and observers on tugs that jogged through the rain watched in vain for the twinkling lights that would mark the activities of departure. Just before dawn the Timmins opened up the boom across the mouth of the slip and ranged alongside the Deutschland. But there was no activity on the submarine herself.

Captain Hinsch ordered discontinued all passes to the steamship Neckar, lying along side, from which heretofore favored guests have been allowed to look at the Deutschland. All the lines about the pler were tightened, and inquirers and observers met with early warnings to keep away. The new shore leave plans of the Deutschland allowed the captain and a large part of the crew to attend a local volksfest for the benefit of the German Red Cross. The sailors were the heroes of the occasion, and Captain Koenig was forced to make a little speech thanking Baltimore for its friendly reception to the German ship. The captain caused some excitement by nearly succumbing to the terrific heat. He recovered quickly, however.

NEGRO ELUDES COP FUSILLADE, BUT IS CAUGHT UNDER A BED

Alleged Southwest Philadelphia Robber Gives Police a Merry Chase

The Smiths witnessed the athletic end of the chase. They were still up in their house when Russin came hurtling in the back way, leaped over the table around which they were seated and disappeared upstairs. Be-fore they quite realized the feat it was twice repeated for them, and the policemen, too, disappeared upstairs. There they found the negro.

There have been many robberies recently in that part of southwest Philadelphia, which is known as the Meadow. When the two policemen saw the negro prowling around 85th and Eastwick avenue he ran They started after him and when he didn't heed their word to stop they began to shoot. The revolver chase lasted for almost a mile over fields, fences and brooks. Once the negro fell and his pursuers thought they had nipped him, but he got up again and kept his lead.

Before Magistrate Harris today Mrs. Bessie Gates, of 3022 South 84th street, appeared and testified Russin was the man who took a gold watch from her dresse while she lay in bed. The Magistrate held him in $600 batl.

BLACKLIST AND MAILS MAY STRAIN U. S. RELATIONS WITH ALLIES

Department of State Becoming Very Impatient, Acting Secretary Polk Declares

ISSUE CALLED SERIOUS

LONDON, July 22,-The British reply to the American note protesting against interference with the United States mails by the British navy was handed to Ambassador Page last night. The contents will be made public Monday morning.

WASHINGTON, July 22—A very serious controversy between the United States and Great Britain and her Allies is impending. This was made plain in official circles to-Two very serious matters of difference have arisen between this country and Great Britain. They threaten the friendly relations so far existing.

Of greatest importance is the British boycott, attempted to be enforced against American merchants. But involved so deeply that it cannot be separated in the British and French interference with American mails.

That the latter situation is considered most serious was shown by the following authorized statement by Acting Secretary State Polk today:
"The Department is becoming very patient over the failure of Great Britain to reply to our mail inquiries." The State Department unofficialy has brought all pressure to bear upon the Brit-ish and French Embassies to get a reply to the mails protests. In each instance the reply has been that "the embassy officials ire too busy."

The holding up and reading of mail en oute to and from the United States and candinavian countries has placed certain British mercantile interests in possession of American trade secrets. These letters have been extracted from the mails and the con-tents diverted to British rivals of American nerchants and exporters.

The State Department today received from Ambassador Page, at London, a cabled summary of what the British Foreign Office told him regarding the blacklist.

On the information already received the lepartment today commenced framing its protest. Meanwhile Mr. Page officially will sk two questions, as follows: First, on what basis of international law in British Government has framed its ac-

Second, in what manner the British Gov-ernment, and its allies, can deblare to be proper any interference with the business affairs of the citizens of a friendly neutral On the replies so made must depend the anguage of the official protest.

LONDON WOMEN MARCH IN PATRIOTISM PARADE

They Also Serve Who Stay at Home and Work," Slogan of Monster Procession

LONDON: July 22.—'They also strown to stay at home and work' was the shogan borne home to Londoners today by a monster procession of women, which paraded Whitehall and nearby thoroughfare appenling for more thorough co-operating by women in the business of war.

There were thousands of women in the parade. It was under the auspices of the Woman's Social and Political Union—which organization once was branded as an enemy of the Government and the object of extermination because it included the milliant suffrageties in its ranks.

The demonstration was to bring home graphically to London woman's interest in the war and to stage an appeal for more women munitions workers to make the shells. It was to voice a demand for more vigorous protection of British war prisoners; more drastic steps for interament of enemy allens and the cancelation of naturalization papers of pro-Germans in England. Finally, it was the women a cryfor no compromise in any peace that might he in the making.

for no compromise in any peace that might be in the making.

Most popular of all the parade's features to the Londoners with a tableaux of banners bearing slogans expressing these sentiments and a section where women marchers were the uniforms of the Allies. In another detachment marched manfully many women munition workers clad in men's overalls and preceded by a huge banner with the motto, "They Also Serve Who Stay at Home and Work."
