LEON ERROL IN 'SUBWAY' PICKFORD TURNS UP BIG HIT AT KEITH'S

Other Comedians, Prove Popular in Varied Program

Variety, doubtless, is a spice of life. Although Leon Errol of Ziegfeld Follies' was the topnotcher in the bill at Keith's New Theater last night and kept the house in an uproar of laughter, there were igh attractive numbers on the program of almost endless variety to assure its success regardless of the weather or anything else as far as that is concerned.

True, there's nothing unusual in Errol making a hit. That seasoned Tyrus Raymond of the footlights scored from the start as "Fuller Rye" in "The Subway," slated as the funniest scene in the "Follies of 1916." It was "The Subway's" first appearance in variable.

The famous Errol hop was shown to advantage and his antics rocked the house. In short, it was "reel." He is assisted by Harry McBride, Alfred P. James, May Hennessy, Frank McDermott and Walter Fel-

Herbert Williams and Hilds Wolfus gave a more than creditable performance in their comedy musical sketch, "Hark! Hark! Hark! Williams's feats and feet alike were noticeable and made hit after hit; also his playing. A more natural comedian is sel-

Some one once suggested that there would be a flerce battle of jealousy and a gor-geous display of hair-pulling if the christen-ers of apartment houses and Pullmans ever happened to meet. The same idea might be applied to originators of jokes. Although they are making their first appearance in this city on Chestnut street, Crawford and Broderick, in their sketch, gave a delightful rapid-fire volley of snappy jokes that bors every evidence of the brand-new variety. They were well worth hearing.

Lovers of dancing and music welcomed Toots Pake and her Hawailan players and the Ukalele. Their number also includes native dances, weird, but interesting.

In all the bill is unusually good. Other numbers included Keno, Keys and Melrose, comedy gymnasts; Majorie Bonner and Billy Power, in "Bits of Nonsense"; William Englistics and his peaks does William Egdirettee and his posing dogs and horses, in "The Act Beautiful"; the Cycling Brunettes, in their act, "Defying Gravity"; Lydia Barry, the lyrical re-

Down On the Farm-Nixon Grand A true to life picture of farm life is shown in "Down on the Farm" the head-liner at the Nixon Grand. The act is pre-sented by a very capable cast and was well received.

The show is well balanced and is com posed of a number of well known standard acts, including Moss and Frie, two excep-tionally funy blackface comedians; Galia-gher and Martin, Gray and Edwards, cyclists, and De Pinna.

Peaches and Pair-Globe

Songs of summer time and rapid-fire comedy figure conspicuously in "Six Peaches and a Pair." which is the feature attraction at the Globe. The peaches are pretty and harmonize well with their surroundings. Bob Hall sings songs of his own manufacture with good results. The bill also includes Sylvia in a posing act, "The Family," a comedy sketch; Anthony Marlows Chausery Marlows and the Sylvia in the State of the Sylvia in Marlowe, Chauncey Monroe and company, Shelvey Brothers and Lexey and O'Connor.

Boarding School Girls-Cross Keys There is pienty of fun and music in the "Boarding School Girls," a timely tabloid which heads the bill at the Cross Keys. Margaret Dawson and company in a sketch, "Big Bill of Fairmount," also scored a hit. The act is ful of laughs and has a surprise finish which brings many curtains. Other good acts on the bill are Sacker and Winifred, Rich and Stewart, Moore and Wright and Libby and Barton.

Renew Complaints of Odors

More complaints have been made about unpleasant odors coming from the Harrison Chemical Works at Thirty-sixth street and Gray's Ferry road. Chief Vogelsong, of the Bureau of Health, has started an investigation to learn whether his previous orders to the plant were obeyed. On July 14 he ordered the management of the plant

AFTER LONG ABSENCE

> By the Photoplay Editor To put it in the famous Carolinan phrase, "It's a long time between Pickfords." The first Pickfordian potion administered to Paramount playgoers in many weeks is "Hulda From Holland," shown yesterday at the Stanley and to be seen > there all the week. Hulda is about the usual Pamous Players version of the beautiful and talented young actress whose beauty and talent haven't shown to best advantage since she went into the five-part feature field. It gives her a chance to be sweet and humorous and charming, but, somehow, the old vitality isn't quite there.

The story is about as long and about as thick as the average. It brings a little motherless Dutch girl to America and puts her in the arms of the son of a Wall street "octopus," who is trying to engineer a deal which involves a fight over some land with Hulda's Pennsylvania Dutch uncle. There have been more exciting, more entertaining and more humorous stories-but all too few in the five-part features.

A new Metro comedy, "Ducks to Ducks," with Max Figman, is pleasantly added to

At the Arcadia the feature film is one of the very highest excellence. Given a story, "In the Carquinez Woods," by Bret Harte. Mr. Allan Dwan made only such changes as the capacities of his stars demanded and filmed the narrative with extraordinary taste and skill. The story of a half-breed, suffering injury and insult at the hands of even his own white father, is affecting, and the incidents are dramatic in themselves, well connected and each one presented with

The first half of the week the Palace is showing "The Dupe," with Blanche Sweet, a Lasky-Paramount production. The last three days comes "The Smugglers," with Donald Brian, of the Famous Players.

The Victoria has a long and varied program. Monday and Tuesday, "The Captive God," with W. S.
