SANDY M'NIBLICK HAS PROOF THAT GOLF WAS PLAYED IN CHINA FIVE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

BIG TUGGER WHISKERS RAMPANT OVER GOLFING BAG COUCHANT SHOW 1400 A. D. CHINESE 'CHAMP'

Tapestry 500 Years Old Would Seem to Prove Age of Golf—Open Date Unsettled

By SANDY McNIBLICK

AN OLD Chinese feller with white tugger mustache lengths pulling down his face dolefully, and with a golf bag laid athwart the part of his lap not taken up by a voluminous paunch, is solemn proof that the game of golf existed more than 500 years ago.

There is a picture of this Oriental golfer brought to this country by a former Minister to China. He recently presented it to the Chicago Golf Club, where it now hangs. The picture is more than 500 years old.

Records of golf first began to appear in the history of the Scots long before Columbus was sailing the blustering seas, America ahoy. But the picture of the Chinese gentleman would seem to prove that golf goes back of that by some years.

The picture would indicate that golf styles have changed. His golfship wears a skull or chef's cap on his head and is wound in a flowery kimono.

Bare of Calf

It was the custom to tuck the flowing robes up into the girdle and to skip into the rough after the slices minus the heavy woollen stockings of the present age.

Those inspecting the picture may be looking on a former champion of the flowery kingdom. Spots on his bosom seem to be either medals, or pansies, or perhaps his chop sticks slipped. One of the clubs in his bag resembles the Scottish spoon, popular a century ago. It is a long-faced wooden club.

It was no doubt a treat in the old days to see the ancient Orientai playing the bunkers and lunging pinward.

One of the season's most popular young golf fanatics expects to open the eyes of some of his friends shortly when he appears in the creation of one of his fair friends. It is to be a hand-knitted sweater of the loose-link variety. Daniel Swab Whiteman, the receiver, was rather cautious about the matter and wanted an expert opinion on the subject.

"Any of the golfers wear 'em?" he wanted to know.

"Quite some," he was told.

"Then I'll look like a golfer, anyhow," opined the boy fanatic.

Hoffner Looks Good

Several phone calls to this office broke the peace and quiet of our little parlor yesterday. Various pros wished to know the date of the Philadelphia open, after it had been stated in these columns that the date had been changed. Nothing new on the matter has developed today, the only definite information being that the tourney will not be held next week, as originally scheduled.

The feat of Charles Hoffner, Philmont's young wizard, in hanging up a 68 over this difficult course, makes him look like one of the best bets in the local open, which will be held on that course.

Jim Barnes will be the main figure, however, since he will be able to play, now that the local open does not conflict with the western. He was determined to win back the laurels he lost in that big event last year, and can now do so unimpeded.

Mrs. Clarence H. Vanderbeck, golf champion of these United States, is at Atlantic City these days. She prefers the salt waves to the heat waves of Philadelphia, and finds plenty of chance for golf withal at the seashore playground.

The Morning Mail

Sandy McNiblick—I want to tell you how much I enjoy your wonderful * * * (We modestly blush) * * * I read it every (etc.) and think * * * Your stand on the Cobb's Creek Golf Club has pleased me particularly. Your picture of H. Wellington Wood and Arthur Edgecomb Rendle kissing each other on the brow was superb. I take it that you feel that a club at the municipal course would go very well if it were properly organized. Aren't these your sentiments? With best regards,

A DAILY READER.

Philadelphia, Pa.

Those are our sentiments. First notice of the proposed club appeared in this column. The news was obtained from H. Wellington Wood, later elected president, and the editorial part was also gleaned from Wood between snatches of tales on high silk hats that had been stolen from him at prayer meetings and other things. All the material obtained has been from the "big blueberries" of the new club. The first organization meeting of the Cobb's Creek Golf Club, according to many present, was irresponsible and indefinite. The club reminds us of the feller that was three times snatched from the electric chair, his head shaved each time, his death suit donned and his farewells said.

Sandy McNiblick—Two of us had a dispute. I say Jim Barnes finished after Tom McNamara in every tournament last year. B. says he won the Connecticut open. Which is right? TWO PROS.

Cynwyd, Pa.

Barnes beat McNamara in the Connecticut. Barnes finished fourth in the Massachusetts open. He finished ahead of McNamara at Shawnee.

Queries on matters of golf will be answered in this column. Address all communications of this nature to Sandy McNiblick, Golf Editor, Evening Ledger. Club schedules, anecdotes, scores and other linklore will also be printed in this column. The name of the sender will not be printed without permission.

Tomorrow's Tournaments and Today's Tee Talk

Qualifying round, 18 holes, annual invitation tournament of the Bala Golf Club, Bala, Pa.

Three sixteens to qualify, first for Bala Cup; second, for President's Cup; third, for Governors' Cup.

Open tourney at Shawnee-on-the-Delaware.

Privilege of playing over the links of the Old York Road Country Club offered to all members of the Women's Golf Association of Philadelphia.

Nearly all the men that play golf in England now are too old for military service. Nearly all the caddies are girls. They are doing the caddying while their small brothers make munitions.

Girls, as caddies, are immensely popular on the other side of the water, and they are making a name for percentage that the small boys never had.

The feminine caddy, it is said, takes just as keen an interest in the game as the boy caddies do, besides which she has much more sympathy for the struggling golfer and a better understanding of his wishes. She does not wander off at every opportunity, knows the rules, spots the balls, and tags right along at the golfers' heels.

She is not given to laugh at a poor shot and she has praise unending for a good effort.

Praise from his caddy is worth fine jewels to a golfer.

SCRAPS ABOUT SCRAPPERS

By LOUIS H. JAFFE

When Fred Kelly answers the gong in the final at the Ryan Club tonight against Ed Hinckle the former will have no excuse whatever, in the event that his showing is not what is expected of him. Freddy has trained faithfully for the mix and, while he has a tough proposition on his mitts, Kelly is in the best of shape, which should serve him in good stead to make an impression.

Wally Hinckle, youngest of the Hinckle family of boxers, will make his first appearance at the Ryan Club in the semi and the cash customers may look for a mighty clever mitt artist. While Wally lacks a hard punch, he is fast on his feet, and Johnny Gallen, his opponent, may see a dozen fists shooting at him continually. The other bouts: Frankie Conway vs. Willie Spencer, Joe Kurtz vs. Frankie Baker and Bob Driscoll vs. Wally Nelson.

When the season starts a new boxing club will be in the field. The latest arena will be situated in West Philadelphia, and negotiations are on now for the opening. The matchmaker is a new entry in local boxing.

We pulled a prize bone yesterday. Instead of Johnny Tillman being knocked out by "Cor de Lene" Boyden at Wallace, Ia., the former was the knocker-out; not the knockedout. The information came via Joe Lewis, but because of a misunderstanding the error was made. Well, no harm done, only Tillman got his name in the paper two successive days.

Eddie O'Keefe was offered the job to spar with George Chaney, who engages in a championship tilt with Johnny Kilbane Labor Day at Cedar Point, O. However, Moe Greenbaum says O'Keefe has a lot of work in view in New York and for that reason he may be unable to train with the Baltimore contender.

Because of illness, Irish Patsy Cline was forced to pass up a bout in New York last week. The Irisher was a great favorite last year at the National Club and it is probable he will get back before the Philadelphia fans at an early show.

Johnny Kilbane may be taking his George Chaney set-to real seriously; nevertheless, he will not pass up any matches between now and the title-defending date. The featherweight king has agreed to meet Eddie Morgan in New York August 17. They boxed here twice and each contest was a hummer.

Young Julio, the Spanish-Indian bantam who started his career with a knockout and whose future looks bright, will remain on the side lines until his father's consent is received from Colombia, South America. Julio is still in his teens, and although he has had but one contest, he showed sufficient form to develop into a star.

Boxers who are a few pounds over the featherweight limit and too light for lightweight competition should have a merry muss here this season. With such men as Frankie White, Abe Kabakoff, Johnny Mealy and Young Jack Toland in good shape, local fans may expect some rattling good contests. Toland's hand, which he hurt in his match with White, is knitting and he may be ready when the season opens.

The great war raging in Europe is keeping another ring star from invading these shores. While Les D'Arcy is postponing his trip here until peace is declared Jimmy Wilde, the English boxer, is in the same boat. The latter is said to be a "marvelous fighting machine, done up in a small package."

Young Erne Trims Hauber

Young Erne outgeneraled Henry Hauber in the final bout at the Broadway Athletic Club last night. Hauber fought in his usual aggressive manner, but the wily "Yi Yi" uncorked several of his favorite old-time tricks, and experienced little difficulty in placing his blows.

Joe Dorsey stopped Joe Gavin in the fifth round of the semiwind-up. Young Augatis knocked out Freddy Wolgast in the third round. Bobby Wright finished Harry Stevenson in the third, while Dick Fennessy earned the decision over Freddy Russell.

BROOKLYN RECALLS EIGHT PLAYERS FROM MINORS

BROOKLYN, Aug. 8.—Charles H. Ebbets has announced the recall of eight Brooklyn players, who were farmed out with minor leagues at the start of this season—Hickman, Nixon, Smyth and Zimmerman, outfielders; Mack Wheat, catcher, brother of Zack, and Cadore, Colwell and Hunter Goodbred, pitchers. These men, along with Jack Kelleher, recently purchased from the Denver Club, and the 22 players under contract, raise the total number of players under contract to Brooklyn to 31. Under the league rules a club may not carry more than 35 players at any time of the season.

HOFFNER TURNS IN A 75

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE, Pa., Aug. 8.—One of the best entries since the inception of the tournament has been received for the fifth annual open tournament of the Shawnee Country Club. Over 50 of the best golfers in the country have already arrived here and there will be keen competion for the prizes, which amount to $625, put up by the Shawnee Country Club. Nearly all the competitors were out practicing today.

R. G. MacDonald, of Buffalo, and Clarence W. Hackney had the best scores with 73 apiece. Charles H. Hoffner had a 75, but apart from these no very low scores were recorded, the terrific heat undoubtedly affecting the play of many of the competitors. Among the entries are Gil Nichols, Great Neck, who won the tournament last year; Walter Hagen, the Metropolitan champion; Wilfred E. Reid, of Buffalo; James M. Barnes, of Whitemarsh, second in the Metropolitan championship; Charles Hoffner, of Philmont, third in the Metropolitan; James R. Thompson, Philadelphia Country Club; James B. Hackney, Aronimink; Clarence Hackney, Atlantic City; R. G. MacDonald, Buffalo; Jack Campbell, Old York Road.

MATTY MAKES BIG LEAGUE DEBUT AS PILOT HERE TODAY

Veteran Twirler of Giants Opens Five-Game Series With Phils

HANDLES PITCHERS WELL

By CHANDLER D. RICHTER

Christy Mathewson, for 16 years one of the greatest pitchers in baseball, will make his local debut as a major league manager this afternoon, when the Phillies and Reds open a five-game series. It is likely that a large crowd will turn out to welcome Mathewson, despite the fact that the Reds appear to be playing poorer ball than at any time this season. Matty always has been a local idol, even though nothing pleased the fans more than to see him driven from the mound when he was hurling for the Giants, and he will be given a warm welcome.

Matty probably now realizes better than any one else what an enormous task it is to make the Reds win games. The famous hurler is starting just as Herzog did and is trying to get work out of his team mates by kindness, but no doubt he will soon realize that the only way he can hope for success in Cincinnati is to clean house and build from the ground up.

The Reds as they are lined up at the present time are a powerful combination on paper, the team being particularly strong in pitchers, if they are handled properly, but the lack of harmony and the general lack of spirit among the players make rebuilding necessary.

Matty has been handling the pitching staff better than Herzog did, and the hurlers already are showing the benefit of his coaching, but as Grant Rice would say, "Thehellofitistheyaintwinning." When Matty took the team the Reds had won 36 and lost 51 games. Today they have 39 victories and 65 defeats, which shows that the team is going back instead of improving.

Losing Steadily

Out of the 14 games played under Mathewson the Reds have won only three, though several extra inning defeats, in which the breaks were against the Reds, are included in this list.

Matty admits that he cannot understand the failure of the Reds to win, but claims that he is well satisfied with the progress made. The veteran hurler was wise enough to insist upon a three-year contract, and he can well afford to experiment for the balance of the season. Next spring he probably will start rebuilding, and until the 1917 season is half over Matty's ability as a manager should not be judged by looking at the percentage column.

Slumping teams have a habit of coming to life just when the Phillies are looking for an easy series, and Manager Moran has warned his men that they must play better ball than they did against St. Louis if they hope to take the series.

Five games will be played with the Reds in four days, and the Phils must win four or the series will not be a success. Brooklyn took five out of six from the Reds, while the Braves won six out of seven, including three shutouts. As the Philly pitchers have been showing splendid form and the Reds are in a batting slump, the champions have a great chance to gain on the Dodgers.

Although the Reds are at the bottom of the ladder in the National League, the present series will be a most important one for the Phils. Brooklyn is certain to have trouble with the Cubs, judging by the way Tinker's pitchers are performing, and it behooves the Phils to make hay while the sun shines.

Rixey or Bender

Moran will send either Rixey or Bender to the mound in the opening game and both have proved troublesome to the Redlanders this season. Big Pete Schneider is due to appear in the deciding role for Matty and in the event that the big fellow does not warm up well, Knetzer, last year with the Feds, probably will get the call.

Bingles and Bungles

"Is Hal Chase or Jake Daubert the better first baseman?" asks a noncombatant. Chase is the first baseing genius of the age. But we'd be content to have Daubert play for us and let it go at that.

The White Sox drew first blood in the opening game of an important series with the Red Sox yesterday and handily trimmed the Boston contingent.

Two former Philadelphia representatives played important parts in the triumphs of their respective teams. It was Oldring's single that gave the Yanks a 3-to-2 win over Cleveland, and it was a triple, with the bases full, by Hans Lobert, acting as a pinch hitter, that enabled the Giants to trim Chicago, 3 to 2.

Sisler's timely double was responsible for another Browns' victory, this time at the expense of Washington. In the tenth inning. And the safe drive was made off Walter Johnson.

In the four-game series against the Cubs the Giants collected only 13 hits, but managed to take three out of the quartet.

The Braves sure made the most out of their hits in the double-header against the Reds. Every hit meant a run. In the first skirmish they defeated Toney with two hits, 2 to 0, and in the finals won by 6 to 0, registering only a half dozen safeties.

Jimmy Austin, of the Browns, and Catcher Thomas, of the Red Sox, were handed an indefinite suspension by Ban Johnson for their free-for-all staged on Sunday in St. Louis.

The National League will hold a meeting in New York tomorrow for the purpose of taking steps to curb umpire baiting.

Thomas to Coach Williams Nine

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 8.—The Williams College athletic council yesterday announced that Ira Thomas, the veteran catcher of the Athletics, has signed a contract to take charge of the baseball team for the next five years. He will commence his duties next February.

AMERICAN SOCCER PLAYERS ARRIVE IN CHRISTIANIA

Fourteen Stars Ready to Compete in Tourney at Stockholm

CHRISTIANIA, Aug. 8.—After an uneventful voyage of 12 days, the 14 American soccer players who will represent the United States Football Association in the five international matches over here this month arrived here yesterday morning with their manager and trainer on board the steamship Frederik VIII, of the Scandinavian Line.

In the evening the American party entrained for Stockholm, where the first of the three games to be played at the Swedish capital is scheduled to take place on August 15.

DEFAULTS MAR WESTERN TENNIS

Thirty-three Fail to Appear in Tourney at Lake Forest

LAKE FOREST, Ill., Aug. 8.—Eighteen defaults in the first round and 15 in the second round marred the second day of play in the western lawn tennis championship tournament yesterday, out-of-town players failing to appear or being unable to leave matches in other cities. As a result of this wholesale defaulting, only eight players residing outside of Chicago remain in play for the men's singles title.

Maurice McLoughlin and Kenneth Hawkes, of Los Angeles, who will arrive Wednesday for the first, second and third-round matches; Clifford Lockhorn, Kansas City; Seiford Stellwagen, Minneapolis; Ward Dawson, San Francisco; George Northrup, Minneapolis, and H. L. Beyer, Grinnell, Ia., remain in the tourney.

Literary and Dramatic Nine Wins

The Hiller brothers, J. and C., with seven hits between them, were the feature batsmen in the contest between St. Joseph's Literary and Dramatic Club and Haddon Heights. The former nine won by a score of 9 to 6. The game was decided in the tenth inning after a 6-6 tie, when the literary boys came through with three runs.

MIKAMI DEFEATS THROCKMORTON IN SEABRIGHT TENNIS

Behr, Davis and Niles Also Triumph in First Round of Achilles Cup Play

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 8.—The Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club threw open its courts yesterday for the annual invitation tennis tournament, one of the most popular fixtures of the year, and while only one of the leading players was defeated, several others traveled uncertain paths which several times led them to the brink of disaster.

Harold A. Throckmorton was the most prominent of those eliminated in the first round, Hachishiro Mikami, of Japan, causing the Jersey contestant's downfall in a three-set encounter at 2-6, 6-3, 6-3.

But just as interesting as this was the fact that Karl H. Behr, who played such sterling tennis against Willis E. Davis in the East vs. West series, had a real battle to nose out a victory over Harry S. Parker at 4-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Nathaniel W. Niles, a hero of the Eastern victories at Forest Hills, was passed to a three-set encounter by Francis T. Hunter, the former Cornell captain. Hunter took the first set from the Bostonian at 4-6, but Niles by an increase in pace was able to capture the following two sets at 6-4, 6-2. Summary:

FIRST ROUND SINGLES.

Nathaniel W. Niles defeated Francis T. Hunter, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2; S. Howard Voshell defeated Howard McMullen, 6-2, 6-1; E. M. Whitney won from Robert LeRoy by default; O. M. Cauren defeated F. C. Inman, 6-3, 6-0; W. M. Johnston defeated A. H. Coffey, 6-3, 6-2; Willis E. Davis defeated Edwin R. McCormack, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2; Hachishiro Mikami defeated H. A. Throckmorton, 2-6, 6-3, 6-3; Robert Lindley Murray defeated R. R. Coffin, 6-4, 6-0; Aldrich H. Man, Jr., won from H. VanDyke Johns by default; Hugh Tallant won from Clarence J. Griffin by default; Ichiya Kumazas defeated Hernon S. Prentice, 6-0, 6-3; Leopard Beekman defeated W. Merrill Hall, 6-4, 6-2; Karl H. Behr defeated Harry S. Parker, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4; Edwin P. Larned defeated Dr. William Rosenbaum, 6-2, 4-6, 6-0.
