THE Athletics not only have equaled the American League record for consecutive defeats by dropping 20 games in a row, but they also have broken the greatest record they also have broken the greatest pilot in the game, one would be inclined to believe that the team was mismanaged, because there generally is a reason why a team which outbats and outfields its opponents continues to lose. in the history of the game for defeats over long stretch. Since June 25 the Athletics have won only two games and have dropped ap out of the last 41 contests, which beats the greatest record of this sort ever made the greatest record of this sort ever made in the major leagues.

The previous record was made by Pittsburgh, in 1890, when it lost 36 out of 38 games, from July 27 to September 12. The second longest tosing streak in the history of the game over a stretch was made by Louisville in 1890, the Colonels losing 32 out of 35 consecutive games. which is the world's record.

The impression is general that Louisville lost 26 consecutive games, but a careful search of the back files reveals the fact that the total was only 25. Just how this mistake came to be recorded upon the recmistage ord books is a mystery, but such is the case, ord books is a mystery, but such is the case. The Louisville losing streak started on May 22 and ended on June 23, when the "Toad" Ramsey, considered one of the greatest southpaws the game has produced, held St. Louis to five hits and won to I to I game for the Colonels.

prior to starting on the present losing treak the Athletics had dropped 24 out of 26 consecutive games, which gives the Mackmen clear title to all records for defeats, although it is not likely that they will shatter the mark made by Cleveland in 1899, where it lost 134 games during the score of 3 to 0.

Bush also was credited with the only other victory gained by the Athletics until the present time, when he blanked Cleveland on July 20. When the losing streak was started the Marinen had won 17 and lost 39 games, while today the Mackmen have 19 won and 80 lost. With only 55 more games on the schedule, it would be necessary for the Mackmen to lose all but one to equal the 134-game defeat, the record now held by Cleveland. ard now held by Cleveland.

Macks Outhit Foe

The most remarkable part of the pres ent losing streak of the Athletics lies in the fact that the Mackmen have outhit and outfielded their opponents in many of the se-ries, but still they continue to lose. At times the pitching has been brilliant, but the breaks would not go to Connie's band and close games have been dropped day

As a rule, when a team runs into a long slump it is absolutely outclassed in every department, but such has not been the case with the Athletics. If it were not for the fact that the team is being handled by

Alexander Hurls Great Ball in Opening Game of Today's Double-Header

KILLEFER MAKES SCORE

By CHANDLER D. RICHTER

NATIONAL LEAGUE PARK, Aug. 9.— Hurling in great form, Grover Alexander that out the Cincinnati Reds in the first game of today's double-header. The score was one to nothing.

Alexander was opposed by Schultz, who Alexander was opposed by Schultz, who also pitched an excellent brand of ball. However in the third inning the Fhillies bunched two hits and a sacrifice, which netted them the only run of the game. The Phils' half of the third was opened with a single by Bill Killefer. He moved up on Alex's eacrifice and secred when Niehoff shot a long single to center field.

Pittsburgh's Record

A review of Pittsburgh's losing streak is of great interest at this time.

On July 26, 1870, Pittsburgh had won 17 and lost 60 games. On that day Ad Gumbert, later a Philly star and now a prominent politician in Pittsburgh, won a pitching duel from the famous John Clarkson, of Boston. Gumbert held Boston to three hits and the Pirates won, 4 to 3.

The following day Boston defeated the Pirates and started them off on a losing streak, which was not broken until August 11. when Bill Phillips, making his debut with Pittsburgh, defeated Chicago, 5 to 4, holding Anson's sluggers to five hits. This losing streak was of six games.

Chicago started Pittsburgh on its way to Matty had intended to use Pete Schneider today, but the big wreater, who has been the mainstay of the staff this season, pulled a strain in his side and was sent home this norning. It will probably be three weeks or almonth before Schneider is able to take his fegular turn in the box.

Niehoff was caught next three games, but had established a mark of only two victories in 35 games, which is the second longest losing streak in the history of baseball.

Cleveland in 1899 had a greater number of long losing streaks than any other team up to that period or since, but the Spiders always managed to win two or three games in a row after a long string of defeats, which enabled them to keep a trifle above the marks made by Loulsville and Pittsburgh. napping and run down, Schulz to Chase to Louden. SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE, Pa., Aug. .- Favorites continued to give a good account of themselves in the third round of the open professional golf tournament at the Shawnee Country Club today. Because they had headed the list at the end of the first day, Walter Hagen, the Metropolitan open champion from Bochester, and James Barnes, of Whitemarsh, were paired

At the cutset both got into occasional trouble and both had to make difficult recoveries. Coung to the minth hole, 465 yards. Hagen missed two shots, but after reaching the green on his third shot he brought off a 25-fot putt for a 4, a stroke latter than one. He was not in 59 and better than par. He was out in 59, as against 40 for Barnes. Coming back Hagen made few mistakes.

Coming back Hagen made few mistakes, but when he did leave himself a good deat to do after the approach his putting invariably proved equal to the demand. A 2 at the home hole gave him another 75, which made his third in succession for a total of 225. In the meantime Barnes, coming back in 37, took 77 for the round, which gave him 228 for the 54 holes. Hagen's card was as follows:
