

Division, embracing the central section of the city and including the Tenderloin, admitted on oath that he never acted without orders. Thus, when confronted with the testimony of Lieutenants Stinger and Van Horn that they remained inactive against the spreading wave of vice because Kenny, their superior, gave them no orders to raid the resorts, Kenny said that he failed to give such orders because he was not ordered to do so by his superior, Superintendent Robinson. The Superintendent, when he took the witness stand, is said to have stated that houses were raided when evidence could be obtained against them. In substantiation of this explanation, Captain Kenny had previously testified his opinion that when the case growing out of the big raid came to court they will fall for lack of evidence. The Superintendent said Captain Kenny is a good police officer. The Director of Public Safety, despite the fact that he suspended Kenny for dereliction of duty, is said to have sworn to his esteem for Kenny's efficiency as a police officer.

WEST VIRGINIA FLOODS DROWN 125 AND WASTE MILLIONS IN PROPERTY

Paint Creek, Cabin Creek and Coal River Valleys Devastated After Cloudburst. 10,000 Homeless

RAILROADS WASHED OUT

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 10. The town of Jarolds Valley, 500 population, on the Coal River, in Boone county, is said to have been washed away by yesterday's cloudburst. At least 75 persons drowned.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 10.—With a death toll now estimated at 125, property loss of more than $2,000,000 and the destruction of the homes of 10,000 persons, the greatest flood in the history of West Virginia swept through the narrow valleys of Paint Creek, Cabin Creek and Coal River last night.

Governor M. D. Hatfield has ordered the Second Regiment, West Virginia National Guard, to the scene of a special train with tents, clothing and food.

All wire communication with the flood-swept region is suspended, bridges are swept away and railroad tracks are destroyed. An official of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad estimated that it would be two weeks before traffic could be resumed.

FATHER McDERMOTT MAY EXPOSE A. O. H. SECRETS

upon which the pledge of secrecy does not apply. It is from these documents and their revelations of the inner workings of the A. O. H. and its members that Father McDermott intimates he will enlighten the public further upon his causes for condemning the A. O. H. It was on account of his possession of this knowledge, obtained in many instances at first hand from members themselves that made Father McDermott so obnoxious to the "Mollies" of the coal regions that his transfer to a remote pastorate was effected soon after the execution of the ring leaders.

The disclosures obtained apart from the confessional, it is held, are not within the control of the church, and, therefore, should Father McDermott choose to make them public, and this he hints he is likely to do if he deems it warranted by the subsequent course of events.

In the meantime, the parishioners of St. Mary's church have not recovered from their astonishment at the resignation of their rector after 31 years of labor among them.

"I have no intention of either quitting the priesthood or the Catholic Church, but I will not withdraw my resignation and I will let the whole truth be known. I will spare no one, and I feel I feel in my duty to protect the Catholic youth," the priest said at Mount Airy. "For many years I have been opposed to the Ancient Order of Hibernians, and my denials, which it became apparent that the Pottsville convention is to be opened with a mass."

Father McDermott has protested against the use of the mass in opening the convention "when it is well known it is not pious, but a desire to inveigle Catholic youth into its ranks that is the object of the Order of Hibernians to make use of the mass."

Father McDermott's resignation was sent to Archbishop Prendergast last Monday, and he does not yet know whether it has been accepted. The resignation caused a sensation among the Catholic clergy, as it is rare, indeed, that a priest resigns his charge under such circumstances.

Father McDermott has long had a reputation for independence. He has been called the "stormy petrel" of the Archdiocese, and a prominent official of the Cathedral expressed the views of many of the Catholic clergy yesterday when he said, "One is hardly surprised at anything Father McDermott does."

In his determination to prevent the church from giving recognition to the Ancient Order of Hibernians at its services, Father McDermott has prepared a statement containing a series of charges against that organization, some of which are said to be of a sensational nature. The statement, which covers some 44 foolscap pages, was sent to Archbishop Prendergast on July 31.

At the request of friends, he prepared a memorial to the Third Plenary Council at Baltimore, in 1914, asking the church to put its ban upon the A. O. H. The memorial was suppressed after it had been received by the Catholic authorities.

Father McDermott is opposed to having the Ancient Order of Hibernians meet in Pottsville, the former scene of the Molly Maguire's reign of terror, and erect a court of honor in the streets near the jail where some of the "Mollies" went to the scaffold. He deeply regrets that the Rev. Francis McGovern, rector of St. Patrick's Church, Pottsville, has consented to have solemn high mass for the A. O. H. in that church. "It looks like a brazen piece of impudence for the A. O. H. to hold their convention in Pottsville," said Father McDermott last evening. "I am grieved that Father McGovern has consented to have mass at St. Patrick's Church. I have a personal feeling against Archbishop Prendergast or against any member of the A. O. H., but I am unalterably opposed to having in this organization, which is endeavoring to recruit Catholic boys of 17 and 18 into its ranks under false pretenses, go to Pottsville in that brazen style."

A. O. H. OFFICERS SILENT.
Joseph McLaughlin, national president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, who lives at Fifteenth and Callowhill streets, and John O'Dea, State secretary, who lives at 1529 North Fifteenth street, were each asked for an expression on the resignation of Father McDermott.
"I have nothing to say," said Mr. McLaughlin.
"I think it would be indiscreet for me to speak in reply," was Mr. O'Dea's reply.

City News in Brief

The Dr. Brooks, a steel barge, built for carrying lumber between Mobile and Asheville, S. C., was launched today from the yards of the Clinton Shipbuilding Company, on the Delaware River at Toms river. The new vessel has a length of 194 feet and a beam of 34 feet. The christening was done by Miss Celestina A. McNulty, of this city. The barge will have a capacity for 850,000 feet of lumber.

The Presbyterian Church in the United States has 1,559,999 communicants, according to figures just published by the Rev. Dr. William H. Roberts, stated clerk of the General Assembly. During the year, there was a net increase in membership of 47,743. Presbyterian Sunday schools have an enrollment of 1,412,337. More than 27,000 new members were added to the churches during the year.

The total contributions of 9953 Presbyterian churches for the year amounted to $28,125,425. Contributions for the previous year were $27,785,056. More than $10,000,000 was given in contributions for the year. The offerings for home missions passed the $2,000,000 mark. Gifts for foreign missions dropped from $1,812,861 in 1915 to $1,718,141 in 1916.

Reynold Wollechlager, of New York, was held up and robbed of 40 cents at Juniper and Fifth streets early today by two men who took him into a nearby alley and beat him. The hold-ups were arrested, arraigned and held for court.

Charles Brink, a farmer of Rosemont, N. J., was held up and robbed of $1 at Marshall and Wood streets. The two hold-up men were captured by policemen as they attempted to escape. They were arraigned and held for court.

There has not been an automobile accident in this city since the new traffic rules went into effect last Monday. In this fashion Captain William H. Mills, of the traffic squad, summarizes the immediate benefits of the so-called drastic regulations.

The difficulties of shoppers will be obviated by new signs giving the nearest parking places. The 500 signs will indicate which are "one-way" streets and also will give the speed limits. Almost all theaters, clubs, department stores and hotels are near small streets where cars can be parked. A study of the regulations, which will be distributed by the Department of Public Safety, will show these streets. For instance, the South Broad street hotels have Locust, Chancellor, Thirteenth, Fifteenth, Moravian and Sanson streets for parking.

Vicente Cervera, a stowaway found in the hold of the fruit steamer Jose when she docked at Pier 3 North on arrival from Santa Marta Monday, will not have to go back to Colombia. A Philadelphia banker, having read his story, how he had been out of work and how his wife and two children in Cartagena, Colombia, were in need, came to Vicente's rescue. The man will be allowed to stay in the United States, will be given employment and he and his family will be cared for until the Spaniard becomes self-supporting.

Four suits in divorce were filed in Common Pleas Court No. 2 today as follows: Mary S. Beaman vs. William M. Beaman, Josephine Valentine vs. Joseph Anthony Valentine, George C. A. Haller vs. Anna Bertha Haller and Harry Klinger vs. Carlo D. Klinger.

Two petitions asking for charters were filed today in Common Pleas Court No. 2. The Vane Republican Association of the Twenty-fourth Ward and a sick and death benefit association to be known as the "Fatherland" were the applicants. The purpose of the Republican association is to "promote and disseminate the principles of good government, obtained in the past." William E. F. Radell, 3237 Spring Garden street, is president. Leopold Rutkowski, 3224 Prichard street, is president of the "Fatherland" society.

An unidentified white man, about 5 feet 9 inches tall, 160 pounds in weight and 44 years old, was killed this morning about 6 o'clock at Twenty-fifth and Wharton streets by a Pennsylvania Railroad train, the crew of which was arrested, but released upon the promise of railroad officials to produce the men upon order of the coroner. The man was seen to stagger on the tracks, suddenly become bewildered and fall under the cowcatcher. Death was instantaneous.

Anthony Lennon, a boy, whose arrest in Montgomery County started a controversy between the juvenile court and the authorities in Norristown, because the Montgomery County officials threatened to hold the ward in jail there until the October term of court, was brought back to the city this afternoon. J. Aubrey Anderson, District Attorney of Montgomery County, resigned the custody of the boy and the case of larceny against him to the juvenile court.

The thieves who looted Solomon Sherman's candy store and dwelling at 1509 South seventh street early today also gave the alarm to the sleeping occupants of the two floors above the store. Sherman, his wife and their six children, the oldest of whom is 14 years, together with Tony LaMastra, his wife and three children, fled to safety down a rear stairway. The flames ruined about $500 of Sherman's stock.

Sherman blames the fire on the fire's origin. They have been feasting on matches and other articles kept in the store, he says, and have helped themselves so liberally to various delicacies that it was a matter of opinion that human thieves were at work. When he found five pounds of sausage stowed away behind the soda fountain his suspicions fell upon rats.

The production of cigars and cheroots in this district for the fiscal year ending June 30 was $91,062,700, an increase of $49,500 over the previous year, according to Ephraim Lederer, Collector of Internal Revenue. This is the largest production of any district in the country, the second being the Ninth Pennsylvania, with headquarters at Lancaster, in which the production was $47,026,472. The third largest production was in the Third District of New York, which was $49,564,110.

Their share of an endowment of $1,000,000 to care for retired ministers and widows and orphans of ministers will be sought by the Methodist Episcopal Church in the Philadelphia, New Jersey, Wilmington and Delaware conferences this fall. The Rev. Dr. Joseph M. Hingelay, of Chicago, corresponding secretary of the board of conference claimants, will come to Philadelphia this week to confer with ministers and laymen of the four conferences on the nation-wide campaign.

Abolition of Ford automobile branches now maintained in 41 cities and the turning over of their business to a large number of dealers with garage and repair facilities, in order to make it more inexpensive to own a Ford, will not affect Philadelphia, it was announced today, because of the business of the plant in this city. The purpose of the garage is to avoid the complaint that, while one may buy a Ford at a price unusually low, the upkeep is frequently nearly as high as that for a storage of a high-priced automobile.

Mrs. Bertha McKelvey, 714 Cambridge street, entered the station house at Eighth and Jefferson streets last night and told the police that her son, John R. McKelvey, 11 years old, had been missing since August 2. Mrs. McKelvey described the boy as having dark brown eyes, dark hair, short, sunburned, wearing a white shirt with black stripes, dark gray trousers and brown shoes.

New York Man Arrested in Argentine
WILKES-BARR, Pa., Aug. 10.—Charles P. Mott, of Syracuse, N. Y., former superintendent of the Goodness County penitentiary, indicated following an investigation of a scandal growing out of the letting of Morgan Evans, the only employe in the building at the time. This is the second du Pont plant to be mysteriously destroyed in this section.

BROTHERHOOD MEN STANDING FIRM IN 8-HOUR DAY DEMAND

Head of Conductors' Body Says They Will Insist Upon Their Position and Reject Arbitration

BEFORE-MEDIATION BOARD

Federal Board's Power Simply Mediatorial

The United States Board of Mediation and Conciliation after hearing both sides of the controversy will draft a tentative agreement for submission to the railroads and their employes.

If the agreement is not approved the board can suggest the appointment of an arbitrator.

Should this suggestion be not accepted, the board will report to President Wilson its inability to prevent a strike, and in that contingency it is likely the President will use his good offices by summing up the leaders of each side to a conference at the White House.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—"We are standing firm" was the word brought from the conference with the Federal Board of Mediation on behalf of the 400,000 trainmen and conductors' brotherhood today.

Following sessions during which the Government mediators met first with representatives of the railway managers and then with the brotherhood heads, it was made clear that the trainmen had not given an inch in their demands for an eight-hour day.

Garrettson declared they would continue to stand their ground throughout the conference. It was evident that, armed as the representatives of the trainmen are with the Federal Board, they have no intention of yielding to suggestions of arbitration. Garrettson declared they would insist upon the granting of their demands in full.

After the conference no formal statement was issued by the board, but it was reported that a definite decision in some direction might be made within 2 hours.

G. W. W. Hanger, the third member of the Federal Board, was asked if an appeal would be made to President Wilson, but he replied that events had not proceeded to the stage where such action was necessary.

The board afterward made preparations to hold a second conference with the railroad presidents in the afternoon.

ARREST EXPECTED IN CLUBMAN'S DEATH

She denied, however, that he called at her house last night.

MURDER SUSPECTED

Suspicion that the man was murdered is entertained by reason of the peculiar circumstances of the case. The entire murder squad, under the direct supervision of Lieutenant Wood, is conducting a rigid investigation. A stick pin, a Lu Lu Temple emblem and more than $20 in money were found on the person of the man.

Another theory advanced is that Frankenstein was driving a swiftly moving vehicle, presumably an automobile, and was either hurled to the sidewalk at Sixteenth and Wallace street or was struck at a distance and conveyed to the spot where he was found.

Frankenstein was discovered on the sidewalk by Miss Evelyn Young, about 1:30 o'clock in morning, when she was on duty. She had entered her home a few minutes before, peered through the window of the vestibule door. The police of the Twenty-ninth and Buttonwood streets station, together with Sergeant Mahoney, Detective Mahoney and Policeman Cunningham hurried to the scene.

Frankenstein, placed on a large board found on a scaffold nearby, was taken care of at the North Sixth street trolley car to the St. Joseph's Hospital. Dr. Thomas Shallow, of 2415 Walnut street, was summoned, and after an operation performed, he found that Frankenstein was suffering from a crushed skull, a punctured lung and four fractured ribs. He died shortly after 5 o'clock.

HAD VISITED CLUB

Frankenstein was last seen before his injuries at Broad and Walnut streets, where he left three friends who had spent the evening with him at the Manufacturers' Club. They were Harold R. Shirley, a yarn manufacturer at 242 Chestnut street; Frederick Wolf, a manufacturer of curled hair, at the Church and Walnut street, and the name of Bosworth. The three friends said they did not know where the dead man was going.

Doctor Shallow and Dr. A. J. Storm, at the hospital, said they believed from the nature of the injuries that Frankenstein was struck by an automobile.

Frankenstein is survived by a wife, who is living in Wildwood, N. J. She left her home yesterday afternoon for a prolonged stay. The police are making every effort to find Mrs. Frankenstein and notify her of her husband's death.

$150,000 FIRE LOSS IN RICH SPICE STORE

Clawson building a few minutes before the discovery of the fire. William Monroe, of Camden, first saw the flames. He is an elevator man in the Jayne building and smelled smoke. Investigating, he found the lower floor of the Clawson property ablaze. Before he could sound the first alarm the flames had shot upward and within five minutes were bursting from upper windows and the roof of the building. Several firemen were affected by the smoke and fumes of the burning spices, but returned to duty after treatment at the hands of the ambulance surgeons on the fire grounds.

Fire Chief Murphy was across the street on another fire-escape, megaphoning his orders to the workers.

Many men were driven away from their battle temporarily on account of the smoke, and a number were cut by glass, but none so seriously that he had to quit the job.

parately in Atlantic City, knew nothing of the fire until he stepped off a ferryboat at the foot of Chestnut street.

"That looks like my place," he said in dressing a policeman. "It is," answered the bluecoat, who recognized Clawson.

Mr. Clawson declared the origin of the fire probably would remain a mystery, in as much as it did not start from a street entrance. All power is cut off of the building from this switch when the place is closed at night.

"Leak" in Publication of Treaty

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Senator Charles McNary, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, today criticized publication of the Danish treaty, and said he would introduce the Senate in executive session to investigate the "leak." WILLIAMS WAXES FACETIOUS OVER PENROSE ABSENTEEISM

Mississippi Senator Wants Pennsylvanian Identified When He Works
By a Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Another attack has been made on Senator Boies Penrose, of Pennsylvania, because of absenteeism. Senator John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, in the latest Democrat to criticize the Senator.
"As I grow older," said Senator Williams, "I think sometimes that I fall in my memory that my power of recollection seems to get less, but I have regained confidence. The other day when the Senator from Pennsylvania came into this body, notwithstanding the long lapse of time, I recognized him at once. After so long a time I regarded it as a test of my powers of observation and memory.
"I should like to move that hereafter whenever the Senator from Pennsylvania is present the secretary shall ipso facto read the names of those who are present."
