

ILLUSTRATED

Evening Ledger

WEDNESDAY
August 23, 1916

A DAY'S ACTIVITIES IN A BUSY WORLD GRAPHICALLY PORTRAYED BY THE CAMERA MAN

WHEN THE AMBER BREW RAN LIKE WATER THROUGH THE STREETS

The result of a collision between a beer delivery wagon and an automobile truck at Fifty-third and Pine streets. Thirsty citizens were almost overcome by the sight.

PAST AND PRESENT
PRESIDENTS OF THE
STATE CAMP OF
PATRIOTIC SONS
Samuel C. Wells and Clement
S. Nonemaker.

WIVES AND DAUGHTERS MAKE THEMSELVES AT HOME IN THE P. O. S. OF A. STATE CAMP

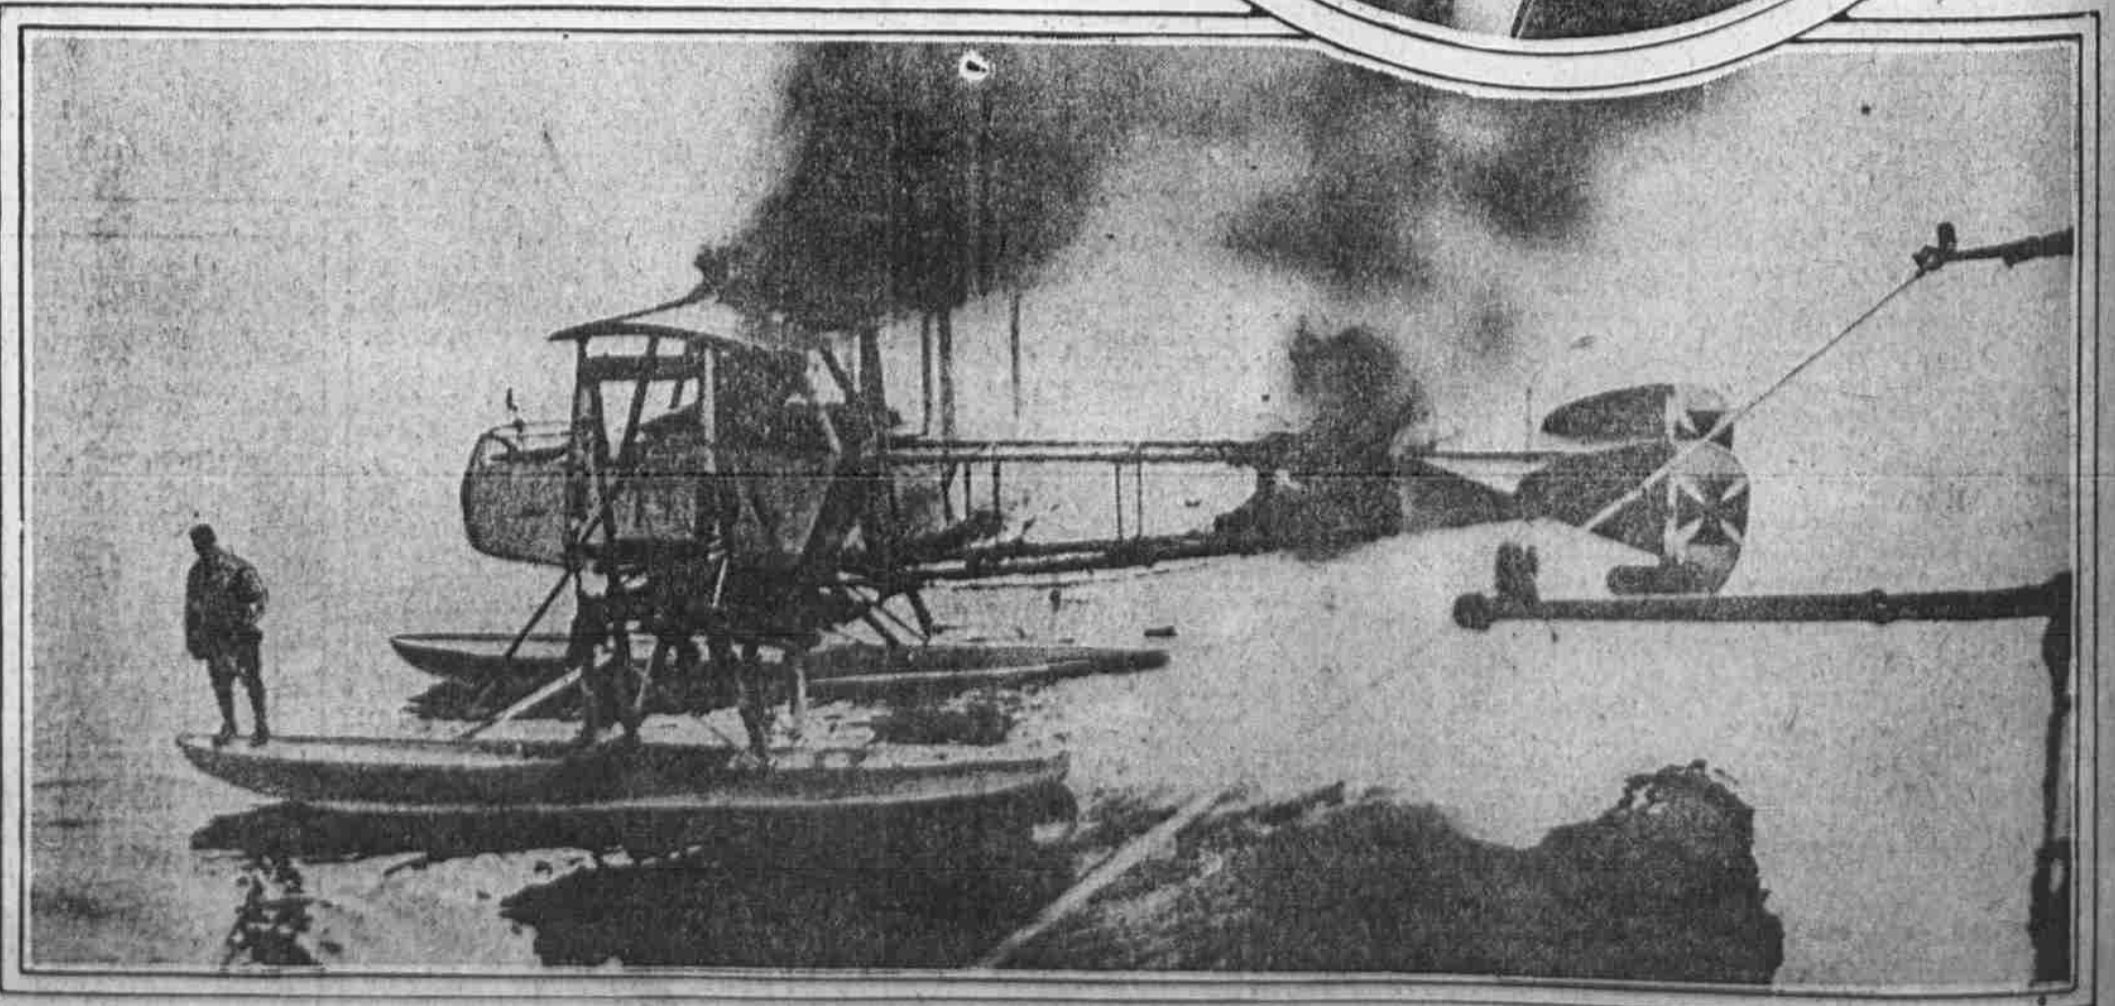

UNCLE JOE CANNON'S BIRTH-DAY PHOTOGRAPH

He is wearing a beaver hat, built after the model sacred in other days, given to him by Representative Kent. He announces it shall be his regular headpiece hereafter.

A HOT BUT HAPPY YOUTH

Typical hot-weather scene on the sidewalks of Philadelphia.

FRENCH ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUN BRINGS DOWN GERMAN SEAPLANE

The pilot of the German sea-going air craft attempted to destroy his ship by fire when a well-directed shot compelled him to land. The photograph shows the captured aviator standing in front of his seaplane; to the right is a French warship.

Copyright, Underwood & Underwood.