All this season Barry has been putting up the brand of baseball that he played against the Phillies in the world's series. Philadel phia fans know that Barry went into that series and played with all the vim and dash of a football player. He made stops behind second base and behind first and covered the entire field in the vicinity of the keystone turn so well that the Phillies had to get clean line hits to right field be-fore they could be sure that they would arrive safely at first base.

Not even Tris Speaker was missed as much as Barry will be by the Red Sox, be-cause, being an outfielder, Speaker didn't leave a gap that could not be filled almost mmediately would have been a hard game easy for Eppa Rixey. The last game of the western trip will be played today and then the team will leave for Philadelphia, and then the all-im-portant series with the league-leading Dodgers starts on Friday. To date the Phils have won six and lost six, a record which does not appear to be nearly so poor as really is the case. With an even break in the luck so far as ordinary breaks are concerned, a fair per cent of the breaks so far as close decisions go and even ordinary fielding by the in-field, the Phillies would have a record of ten victories and two defeates for the trip and now would be perched just half a game and now would be perched just half a game ahead of Brooklyn. Mayer is slated to work for the Phils today, while either Lavender or Young Nick Carter will be Tinker's selection.
