

ILLUSTRATED Evening Ledger

TUESDAY
September 5, 1916

PICTORIAL SIDELIGHTS OF THE DAY'S NEWS AS SNAPPED BY THE EVENING LEDGER'S CAMERA MEN

GERMANS CELEBRATE LABOR DAY WITH GREAT CARNIVAL AND PAGEANT AT CENTRAL PARK

The Cannstatter Volksfest drew its usual large attendance yesterday. The procession is shown passing the immense fruit column on the left, while at the right, Queen Anna Pfeiffer and King John C. Kumele are seen being greeted by the burgomeister.

MAX MARSTON'S PLAY ALWAYS DRAWS A BIG GALLERY

The Baltusrol champion is one of the dangerous competitors for national honors, and his every stroke is followed with interest by the enthusiasts at the Merion course. We see him here "teeing off" at the thirteenth hole.

YOUNG CONTENDERS FOR GOLF HONORS

Above is J. E. Boh, of Cleveland, and below, R. T. Jones, Jr., the 14-year-old Georgia wonder.

AMONG LANCASTER COUNTY'S MOST SUCCESSFUL GROWERS OF EXCELLENT TOBACCO

The view shows a typical tobacco field in full growth in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania's most fertile territory. Tobacco growing is one of the chief occupations of the Amish men; two of these are shown in the picture.