The first martyr in the war of medical science against infantile paralysis was claimed today when the mysterious disease killed Dr. Karl Curt's Peck assistant chief resident physician of the Philadelphia Hospital for Contagious Diseases, where 100 behits and children where 10 eases, where 300 babies and children, victime of the epidemic, are housed. He was Unstinting labor, day and night, over the little cripples who were brought to the hos-pital sapped the vitality of the young phy-sician so that he fell prey to the disease which he worked to check. Death came at $:30 o'clock this morning, after four days

"MARTYR." KRUSEN DECLARES. "Doctor Peck died a martyr to the ause," said Dr. Wilmer Krusen, Director Public Health and Charities, in announcing the death today. "His constitution was undermined by the unselfish way in which he gave of his talents."

Doctor Peck became ill Friday, apparently from overwork. He grew steadily worse and yesterday his case was diagmosed as infantile paralysis by Dr. S. S. Woody, chief assistant physician, and Dr. odore Le Boutillier, of the visiting staff. In spite of every known method of saving him he sank rapidly. His case was of the bulbular type, physicians said, his respiration being affected.

The death of Doctor Peck, who was graduate of the Jefferson Medical College, created a profound depression among the health chiefs who are directing the fight against the plague and among the workers. Gloom entered the walls of the hospital group at Second and Luzerne streets, where the young physician worked and died.
Doctor Peck came to Philadelphia from his home in Newtown, Conn., in 1910 to en-ter the Jefferson Medical College. He was graduated in 1914 and was appointed to the Philadelphia Hospital for Contagious Dis-eases as an interne, working in the scarlet fever and diphtheria wards.

After six months he was transferred to After six months he was transferred to the Germantown Hospital, and on July 15 of this year was appointed by Director Krusen to the post of assistant chief resident physician of the Philadelphia Hospital for Contagious Diseases. He was a member of the Nu Sigma Nu medical fraternity, the Keen Surgical Society and the New England Club. No arrangements for the funeral have been made, but it is probable that the body will be buried in Philadelphia until cold weather, when it will be sent to his home in Newtown. This is in accordance with the State quarantine regulation. Doctor Peck is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mar-shall Peck, of Newtown.

SIX DEATHS REPORTED TODAY Doctor Peck's death was one of six reported today, together with two new cases. The totals thereby were raised to 176 deaths and 583 cases in the city since the hegin-

ning of the epidemic. EXPERT BACK HOME

gent need of Pennsylvania in the infantile paralysis epidemic by releasing Dr. J. R. Rucker, Jr., chief of the State laboratories, from military duty.

Doctor Rucker, a first lieutenant in the Medical Corps attached to the Second Pennsylvania Infantry, at El Paso, Tex. re-cumed his work today at the laboratories at Twentleth and Arch streets. His resig-nation was accepted upon the earnest so-licitation of Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, State Health Commissioner, who secured the co-operation of Colonel Hamilton D. Turner, commander of the regiment. All "red tape" was cut in the efforts to allow Doctor Rucker to arrive here before the threaten-ing railroad strike set in. The services of Doctor Rucker in experimenting on remedies for the disease are indispensable, Doctor Dixon said. Doctor Rucker arrived yester-

The State Health Department's offices were closed at noon in respect to the mem-ory of former Governor Pennypacker, whose funeral was held today.

County fairs have provided a source of worry for the health authorities, following the rule that no child under 16 years of age may attend. It is needless for delegations representing these fairs to endeavor to have the rule changed, Doctor Dixon said today. Their visits have been and will continue to be fruitless, he said.

Doctor Dixon was notified today that the Catholic churches of Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Eric, Harrisburg, Scranton and Altoona have discontinued mass for children pending the duration of the epidemic.

Dr. J. M. Campbell, who is in charge of enforcing the quarantine in this district, conferred with Doctor Dixon today on the result of his investigation at Willow Grove Park, where no children under 16 years old are allowed to enter the motion-picture Park, where he children under is years old are allowed to enter the motion-picture shows or other entertainments held in build-ings. On the whole, the quarantine rules are being enforced satisfactorily, he said.

by stomach trouble. The house was not quarantined.

Health authorities are endeavoring today to tighten the quarantine against infantile paralysis atnos an 8-month-old baby, suffering from the disease, was carried in a crowded train from Atlantic (Tity to Philadelphia. A health certificate for the haby here obtained.

The baby is George Harold Hinton, whose arests live at 127 Sansom street. The aby was partly paralyzed and suffering rum a high fever when taken from the rain. The case was diagnosed and the stient sent to the Philadelphia Hospital or chiral sent to the raily on Sunday.

Health authorities are investigating conditions in Atlantic City to learn why the sails certificate was issued. Other moves the fight against the disease includes a collamance of tests of the anti-paralysis or the sail-paralysis.

"LOVERS' LANE" VICTIM SLAIN BY MASKED BLACKMAILERS

Police Accept Theory and Are Looking for Two Gunmen

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 .- Satisfied that bwight P. Dilworth, well-to-do lawyer of Montclair, N. J., was killed in "lovers' jane" in Van Cortlandt Park Sunday night by would-be blackmallers, the police announced today that their efforts now would be centered entirely upon endeavoring to find some trace of the two masked men who shot him to death.

shot him to death.

Miss Mary McNiff, who was with Dilworth when the two men suddenly appeared from the brush and ordered him to throw up his lands, was permitted to go to Long Beach today. Miss McNiff has been eliminated, so far as learning through her who was responsible for the murder is concerned. The pian to have her re-enact the incidents connected with the killing of her companion on the spot where Dilworth was shot was abandoned today. Miss McNiff told the police she would return to New York to lend such aid as she could at any time, but the police have little hope of her

The police base their conclusion that Ditworth was killed by blackmatters on the description of the hold-up and shooting given by Miss McNiff and numerous complaints that have come in revealing that the park has apparently been infented with blackmatters of the type attacking Disports.

SENATE GRANTS POWER TO USE ARMED FORCES IN CLASH ON BLACKLIST

Amendment to Revenue Bill Aimed to End British Discrimination Against American Houses

RETALIATION ALSO URGED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. - With allied diplomats in Washington protesting against retaliatory legislation already enacted by Congress to offset the British blacklist, the Senate today struck two more blows. Amendments adopted to the revenue bill are likely, some officials believe, to result in official objections taking the place of the private though positive protests against retaliation which certain diplomats here have expressed. The first act today was passage of Sen-bill empowering the President to retaliate against any belligerent commerce ship that discriminates against American shippers and Exporters. The second was adoption of Senator Phelan's amendment to the same measures refusing rights of the United States mails or the facilities of any interstate express company or of any wireless, telegraph or cable company to the citizens of belligerent countries which discriminate against Amer-ator Thomas's amendment to the revenue

Both amendments explicity empower the President to take these steps whenever, during existence of a war in which the United States is not engaged, the President shall be satisfied there is reasonable ground to believe" belligerent Governments have denied all lawful rights to all American citizens.

Violations of both proposed laws are punishable by fines of $10,000 or two years' inprisonment or both. Both admittedly are retallatory measures against Great Britain's blacklist and seizure and detention of mails.

Thomas's amendment was drawn with the approval of the State Department and the President is empowered by its terms to use "any part of the land and naval forces he deems necessary" to uphold it. It is admittedly an emergency measure aimed directly at the British blacklist, and was put through after the Senate had been informed diplomacy had failed to obtain relief for blacklisted American firms.

The clause giving the President power to use the army and navy was inserted, its backers explained, to fight possible seizure of American ships or further discriminatory action against American firms in belligerent The amendment adopted today is more vigorous than that recently inserted in the Government shipping bill. The latter merely gives the Secretary of the Treasury power to withhold clearance of any vessel that dis-criminates against Americans. No penalty is attached.

"The shipping bill amendment," said Thomas today, "is merely a piece of general legislation. It is admittedly not specific nor vigorous enough to meet the emergency caused by the British blacklist. The amendment to the revenue bill furnishes the seeded bite that should effininate discrimnation against American shippers and ex porters.

PHARMACISTS IN DILEMMA; PHARMACOPEIA OMITS RUM

Shore Convention in Quandary as to Propriety of Sales

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 5.—How to meetpressing demands for whisky and brandy for medicinal purposes in future, since both homely remedies for many of the common ailments have been deleted from the United States Pharmacopela, eighth revision, which became effective on September 1, will be one of the interesting topics before the annual convention of the American Pharmaceutical Association, which opened here today.

Delegates arriving at the Hotel Chalfonte,
where the executive council held its first session last night, were of varying minds about the future supplying of distilled products over druggists' counters. Some were of the opinion that the action of the pharmaceutical beard of revision, of which Prof. J. P. Bemington, of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy, was chairman, outlawed all alcoholic beverages, so far as pharmacy is concerned.

Others held that the technical definition man, outlawed all alcoholic beverages, so far as pharmacy is concerned.

Others held that the technical defluition of spirits framenti, as contained in the pharmacopela, eighth revision, should hold good, while others believed that the profession should suspend action until the proper Federal department at Washington has established a dependable standard for medicinal whisky.
