PHOTOPLAY CENSOR DESCENDS ON JAPAN

No Jap Producer Can Fool With Royal Prestige on the

Japan the home of the Geisha girl and renowned for its free policy in matters of public morals, has established an official prepublicity censorship of medicu pictures. For the information of English-speaking people the Japanese aughorities have translated their regulations. The version, which has reached America, is usualing and reads as follows:

The main points of police authority utrol on cinematograph films. (Having andard on the low-class spectators who ve poor common sense.)

Films seemed to arouse low passions.
Films to beluce children to do various, and sorts of mischiefs.
Films show the last success of bad men or

America wherever censorality is being agitated. Demand for official censorahip of motion pictures usually proceeds from per-sons who fail to realize that a far greater public need is adequate regulation and su-pervision of poolrooms, dance hallse and like remorts, many of which exert a positively bad or crime-producing influence upon the sublic.

public.
Some people, too, still confuse the character of the motion picture houses with the character of the films. Progressive communities have established proper requirements with secrence to the hygienic and lighting consitions in motion picture theaters. As a second line of defense, villages and municipalities can control film exhibitions from their own standpoint through their license departments by saying to the their locanse departments by saying to the motion picture exhibitor that his license will be revoked if the character of his exhibitions runs counter to local public opinion in the matter of morals.

exhibitions runs counter to local public op.nlon in the matter of morals.

Unregulated poolrooms and not infrequently those that are under control; public dancs halls, particularly those of the lower type and cheap catchpenny shows are unquestionably a source of juvenile delinquency, while the assertion made in some quarters that the film induces crime in chydren has never been adequately sustained.
Eighty-one cases of juvenile crime said to have been inspired by motion pictures have recently been investigated with the result that but one authenticated case could be found in which legal evidence could be secured, naming the film and the theater in which the alleged incentive to crime was seen.

China is pursuing a much better cours than Japan. A large committee has been formed in Shanghal, consisting of educated Chinese and Americans who, as an unoffi-chinese and Americans who, as an unofficial body, pass upon films. The movement is being led by the Young Men's Christian Assoc atlon. Large motion picture companies are co-operating by showing their films to the committee.

Harold Lockwood and May Allison are busy this week collecting southern wardrobes, which they will wear when engaged in characterizing their star parts in the Metro-Yorke picturization of Marie Van Vorst's widely circulated novel, "Big Tremaine." The popular costars are much enthused with their parts because of their great dramatic significance, which affords them unlimited acting possibilities. In addition to directing "Big Tremaine" Harry Otto prepared the working scenario.

"Manicure to the Fish"—this is the latest job that Mack Sennett has created at the Keystone studios.

The need of creating the new position first came to the notice of the directing head of the Keystone studios when if was discovered that loose scales interfered with the taking of a close-up of the fish in water. Every precaution had been taken before the fish were shoured, the water even having been filtered. Upon discovery that loose scales darkened the water, Mr. Sennett ordered that hereafter the fish be thoroughly scrubbed and cleaned. The young man placed in charge of the washing of the fish was immediately dubbed "the fish manicuriat" by "Slim" Summerville, who finds it impossible to keep still unless being choked to death in a Keystone comedy, a thrill that he experiences every once in a while.

William A. Brady, director general of the World Film Corporation, is all right again. A mere matter like an automobile smash-up, with a cracked collarbone and twisted shoul-der, not to mention a score or more of black-and-blue patches, is all in the day's work to Mr. Brady.

Nine Taken as Track Trespassers

Nine men were arraigned before Magistrate Harris in the Thirty-second street and Woodland avenue police court today, accused by the Beltimore and Ohio Railroad of trespassing on the tracks of the company at Sixtleth street and Woodland avenue. Attorneys for the railroad said the company has warned workmen repeatedly and posted many danger signs at the crossings in efforts to stop them from crossing the tracks. The men were reprimanded and discharged.
