Anglo-French Roll Back
Foe's Right Wing in Balkans

DRIVE WELL UNDER WAY

Retiring Forces Said to Have Abandoned Forts of Kavala

BUCHAREST, Sept. 12.—The War Office announced today that Rumanian artillery had bombarded the Bulgarian town of Rustchuk in retaliation for the shelling of Giurgevo by the Bulgars.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—The Bulgarian high wing has been rolled back under heavy Anglo-French attack in the first big pitched battle since the Allies began their offensive in the Balkans.

The French War Office this afternoon announced the capture of Bulgarian trenches on a two-mile front to a depth of half a mile in the region north of Majdan. An official statement from Salonica announced the capture of Yenimah by the French and British.

Press dispatches from Athens left little doubt that the great northward drive of the Allies from Salonica has begun. After thirty-six hours of heavy fighting the Bulgars are retreating with the Allies in pursuit. Athens reported.

One unconfirmed report declared that the Bulgars are also retreating from eastern Macedonia, and have evacuated the forts of Kavala.

Serbian, Albanian, French and British troops are now attacking the German-Bulgarian front in Greece, with Italian and Russian contingents ready to join in the offensive. The Bulgars attempted to stem the Serbian advance southwest of Ostrovo Lake by a counter-attack, but were checked and thrown back, suffering severely. It was officially announced at Paris. While the Bulgarian wings are being pressed back, French artillery has opened a big artillery duel in the center around Lake Doiran, as it presses a French advance up the Vardar.

The Bulgarian and German War Offices thus far have had little to say about the new Allied offensive. The German official statement reported heavy fighting along the Struma, but declared the Bulgars have been successful.

On the southeastern Rumanian front and in the western and eastern fronts no events of great importance have occurred in the last twenty-four hours. The Turkish War Office made known the presence of Turkish troops with the German-Bulgarian armies invading Rumania, and the German War Office claimed further progress for the invaders.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 12.—Rumanian forces are now advancing rapidly westward, according to reports reaching here, and are threatening the enemy troops occupying northeastern Serbia.

A Rumanian drive into this section of Serbia would be directed at the Berlin-Nish-Constantinople railway.

MACKENSEN LEADS DRIVE OF TEUTON-BULGARS INTO RUMANIA, REPORT SHOWS

BERLIN, Sept. 12.—Field Marshal von Mackensen is in command of the German-Bulgarian army invading Rumania through Dobruja Province. This was revealed today by the official War Office report on operations in the Balkans. It was as follows:

The German-Bulgarian forces, under command of Field Marshal von Mackensen, continued to advance in Dobruja.

On the Macedonian front there were artillery battles in the Vardar district. Fighting on the Struma remained successfully for the Bulgarian troops.

Heavy Bulgarian artillery is bombarding Rumanian defenses on the north bank of the Danube preparatory to a crossing of the river in a drive upon Bucharest, the Rumanian capital, according to Sofia dispatches received here today. Along a front of 100 miles, extending from Sistova to Silistra, in Dobruja, the Bulgars are attacking.

REVEAL DENS OF "DOPE" SELLERS

These amateur detectives, who in private life are Misses Beaulieu and Bryson, of West Philadelphia, made explorations in the Tenderloin which led to the arrest of three women who are said to belong to the "drug syndicate." The girls assert "dope" can be bought openly in this city.

EX-CONVICT SEEKS REVENGE FOR JAIL SERVICE; IS KILLED

West Chester Man Stole
Ham—Tried to Shoot
Employer

CAPT. MANLEY IN PRISON

Louis Phon, forty-five years old, served two and one-half years in the Eastern Penitentiary for stealing a ham. All the time he was there he had revenge in his heart. He whispered to his "climates" that when he was released he would "get" the man that sent him there.

On August 16, Phon had served his term. His partner in the ham crime, Richard Quinn, was released at the same time, partly because a former employer interceded for him and wanted him to come back to work. Quinn was released and went back to work.

Phon, determined to carry out the threat he had made for two and one-half years, last night went to the farm house of his former employer, Captain Charles W. Manley, who was clerk of the West Chester courts at the time Phon was sentenced. The Captain is now supervisor of roads in Westtown township. Phon knocked at the door and when Captain Manley appeared, he said, "I want you to come out and talk to me about some road work."

WAS READY FOR HIM.

Captain Manley did not know who the man was. His voice, however, sounded familiar.

"I can't come out and talk to you," answered Captain Manley, standing partly behind his front door. "If you want to talk to me you'll have to come in."

Phon murmured that he would go around to the back door. As he passed the side of the house, Captain Manley, peering out a side window, caught the moonlight on his face. Phon's hat was pulled down over his eyes.

"Lou, Lou, and you are here for no good," said Captain Manley.

NO BONE FRACTURED IN KILLEFER'S WRIST

Veteran Catcher Will Be Back in Line-Up After Week of Rest

By CHANDLER D. RICHTER

Dr. John A. Beger, club physician of the Phillies, announced this morning that after taking a second X-ray examination of Bill Killefer's injured right wrist he had found that no bones were broken, as he previously announced. The photograph showed no fracture nor splintering of the bone. However, Bill sustained a bad sprain when he jabbed the ball into Heinie Zimmerman's ribs as he tried to steal home in the first inning of the second game at the Polo Grounds last Saturday.

Killefer will be back in the game within a week, according to Doctor Beger's latest statement. When the members of the Phillies' club learned that Killefer would be able to come back in time to participate in the hard games with the western clubs of the National League, they were very elated.

Without Killefer, the chances of the Phillies winning the pennant were greatly reduced, because Eddie Burns would have to do virtually all of the catching. As it is, Burns will be used until Killefer gets back in the game.

Should it happen that the veteran catcher's wrist does not improve as predicted, it will be the second successive year that he has been kept out of the line-up at a critical stage of the race. Last year, on Labor Day, Killefer threw his arm out.

FRIGAR IS HELD FOR GRAND JURY WITHOUT BAIL

Lawyers for Slayer and Coroner Clash at Inquest

BAR GIRL'S TESTIMONY

Ellis D. Frigar, confessed slayer of Edward Boland on Hairyhorn in Nell Drive, Fairmount Park, August 22, was held without bail by Coroner Knight this afternoon to await the action of the Grand Jury.

The action of the Coroner was taken only after he had refused permission for Frigar's fiancée to testify in his behalf. This decision resulted in one of the bitterest clashes heard for a long time in the Coroner's Court here, in which Congressman John R. K. Scott, attorney for Frigar, and Assistant District Attorney James Gay Gordon, Jr., participated and into which Coroner Knight was drawn.

The argument was precipitated when Coroner Knight, after testimony had been heard at length from companions of the murdered man, started to say:

"The cause of death in this case—"

COURTROOM GASPS

The courtroom gasped when Congressman Scott jumped to his feet and interrupted in a loud voice:

"Before you hold that man in the case (pointing with his finger to where Frigar sat in the prisoners' dock), I know you are going to hold him for the Grand Jury. I want you to call an eyewitness, the only eyewitness in fact, to the affair."

Here Mr. Scott let his words sink in for a minute and then pronounced with dramatic effect:

"Miss Amanda Sykes!" With which he turned to where a good-looking girl sat on one side of the crowded room, sheltered from the eyes of the curious.

"I also have a man by the name of Yellin who was assaulted by one of these"

BUSINESS MEN DEMAND 80-CENT GAS INQUIRY

North Philadelphia Association
Urges Mayor to Name Investigating Commission

A commission of expert engineers to study the high gas rate in this city, with a view of reducing the price to eighty cents, is demanded by the North Philadelphia Business Men's Association in a communication addressed to Mayor Smith and both branches of Council.

The business men consider the appointment of a commission as the only method by which a lower gas rate can be put in force without the city losing its profits of twenty cents on the dollar. President Bodine of the United Gas Improvement Company announced his willingness to accept a time ago to cut the price to eighty cents, provided the city would renounce its rights to a rebate of twenty cents on every dollar. This provision, however, does not meet with the favor of the merchants, who desire the appointment of a commission, so that the city will not affect the city treasury.

The recommendation contained in a resolution adopted last night by the association, is said, presages the beginning of a fight to be waged by business organizations throughout the city for eighty-cent gas. Copies of the resolution were forwarded today to seventy-four other business men's associations, to prepare merchants throughout the city for the question when it is taken up at the first full meeting of the United Business Men's Association during the latter part of this month.

The resolution, which Mayor Smith says he will give his "closest attention," reads: "We consider the advisability of bringing about a reduction in the price of gas without the city losing its present profits. We call upon the Mayor to consider the advisability of appointing a commission of experts to see if this is not possible."

TWO GIRLS SHOW HOW EASY IT IS TO BUY DOPE HERE

Without Escort, West Philadelphia Pair Visit Tenderloin "Snow Party"

THEN INFORM POLICE

Two Girls Show Police
Where Dope Users Meet

WEST PHILADELPHIA girls obtain evidence against "dope" traffickers and cause arrest of three women.

Find it easy to buy narcotic drugs in this city.

Attend "snow" party in rear of Chinese restaurant and find six young girls "smiling" heroin. Give girls money and they buy "dope" from peddlers.

Visit Eleventh and Winter streets station and put detectives on the trail of "dope" peddlers.

Two young West Philadelphia girls, assuming the roles of amateur detectives, last night delved into the secrets of the underworld and obtained evidence that showed the police that strangers can easily purchase drugs and that the drug traffic flourishes openly in Philadelphia.

After associating with "dopes" in numerous dives, they presented sufficient evidence to District Detectives Andrew McClure and James Leary, of the Eleventh and Winter streets station, to cause the arrest of three women.

The professional manner in which the two young women, Miss Beaulieu, of 208 Hamilton avenue, Darby, and Miss Marian Bryson, of 2221 De Lancey street, conducted their work brought forth much praise from the police department. Assuming the appearance of "dope-den" frequenters, they plunged into the most bizarre Chinese restaurants, discovered that the traffic was conducted most openly and that drugs of all characters could be purchased in almost every city block which they traversed.

ACTED THEIR PARTS WELL

The two girls portrayed their assumed characters so successfully that they were soon on intimate terms with the degraded femininity of the Tenderloin. They bought cocaine and heroin from several persons and secured information that may result in the complete cleaning up of a den where narcotic drugs are distributed in large quantities.

Entering the Tenderloin district shortly before midnight, the young women went into a back room on the second floor of a Chinese restaurant at 919 Race street, where they were greeted by a half dozen young women.

The girls both signified their willingness to take a "sniff." The young women, with wan and haggard faces, said they had no more "snow," but volunteered to get the young women some if they would furnish the money to get it with.

DOPE IN PACKAGES

The young women furnished the money and were presently presented with two small packages, each about a half inch long and a quarter of an inch wide. Inside of these small packages, which were wrapped with three different sets of paper, a small portion of white powder was found.

With eager eyes the denizens of the underworld crowded around the two new members of their clique and clamored for a "sniff."

Scarcely knowing what they should do under the circumstances, the two young women turned and walked to the front of the restaurant. The denizens of the underworld followed the two young women to the street and only left them when they entered a waiting automobile.

The next stop of the amateur investigators was made at the Eleventh and Winter streets police station, where they told

The material estate of former Governor Samuel W. Pennypacker, estimated to be worth between $20,000 and $50,000, was left to his wife, according to the will which was probated by Register Robert C. Miller at Norristown today.

Upon her death the estate is to be divided into four parts for his four children, his daughter Josephine to receive the income for life from one part to be held in trust. Explicit directions were given in the will for the distribution of his heirlooms.

The will, executed May 19, 1916, empowers his wife, Virginia E. B. Pennypacker, and son, Evan Aubrey Pennypacker, executors, to sell the real estate, but states that it was the former Governor's hope that the home at Pennypacker Mills, with its appointments and contents, be maintained and preserved for his children.

To his grandson, Samuel Whitaker Pennypacker, is bequeathed the ex-Governor's decoration as a colonel in the Grand Army of the Republic, made out of captured cannon; the gold decoration presented to him by Frederick Taylor Post, No. 18, G. ## DEATH OF TWO LAID TO 'GREEN' MAN IN STRIKE

New York Motorman Loses
Control of Car on Hill

CRASHES INTO JITNEY

Carmen May Decide on Only
Sympathetic Walkout
of 70,000

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The first tragedy of the traction strike opened the sixth day of the struggle between the carmen's union and the transportation companies of the city.

A trolley car operated by a "green" motorman got beyond control as it started down a grade at 174th street and Boston road, crashing into two jitney busses. Two persons were killed and nine injured. Four of the injured were so badly hurt that their death is believed to be only a matter of a few hours.

Almost as soon as the car left the bars it was noticed that the motorman was unable to control it. Several passengers on board clung to their seats in terror. The car gained momentum as it swept down the grade and after traveling three blocks, jumped the track at a curve.

The runaway car first struck a jitney owned by Julius Grossman, in which there were three passengers. The automobile was capsized as the car struck it, and Grossman and his passengers were thrown to the pavement.

TWO JITNEYS SMASHED

Continuing its way, the car smashed into a jitney owned by Charles E. Gates, a lumberman, of Unionport, who was taking ten of his employees to work. Gates and his passengers were thrown out of the automobile and smashed to the ground.

The car finally stopped with a crash against a water stand pipe on the sidewalk.

Hurry calls were sent for ambulances as soon as the double disaster occurred. One of the victims was jammed under the forward trucks of the car, dead. His body was extricated by
