

MAYOR AND WILSON REFUSE TO REPLY TO GRAND JURY CHARGE

Director, in Defiant Mood,
Scorns Accusation of Alleged
Failure to Put Down
Vice Here

MAY ANSWER TODAY

Mayor Smith and Director Wilson refused to talk about the criticism they are subjected to in the report filed by the September Grand Jury, but they are expected to confer today over the prement and decide on what they had better say.

The report is a frank open criticism of the administration of the city and is expected to be a severe one. It is expected that the report will be a severe one.

Director Wilson was as short as he has been since he was appointed to his place.

Director Wilson admitted that he had heard of the findings of the grand jury, but said he had no comments to make.

"I am running my office and I am doing it to suit myself," he said.

"Then you are going to ignore the charges?" he was asked.

"As I said before, I am making no comment and have nothing whatever to say about it."

Mayor Smith, when asked what action he was going to take concerning the report of the grand jury, said that he had no comment to make.

"I have not seen the report," he said. "and until I do so I am not going to speculate about the grand jury's findings."

Are conditions in this city as bad as the grand jury has said it finds things?

"I do not want to discuss that or any other phase of the report. The grand jury may know a whole lot that I do not, but I know some things that the grand jury does not. When I read the report I will think it over and then, perhaps, I shall have something to say."

The efficiency of the Police Department also is attacked in the statement that the jury regrets that, although the July body of evidence given by police officers in disorderly house cases was insufficient, and recommends that the magistrates and police produce more convincing testimony in the future.

As further evidence of a lack of confidence in the police, the jury recommends that some one "well informed upon the subject and without affiliation in any way with the Police Department" take charge and co-operate with the District Attorney in a widespread investigation of the conditions here. In accusing their attitude in taking the vice matter up, the jury, in a public-spirited manner, declared that it felt the report would be incomplete without a strong and specific reference to the question of vice and the operation of disorderly houses and gambling houses and speak-easies.

Chartered clubs are also taken to task. The jury finds that a number of them are nothing more than speakeasies, legalized by a charter, but operating in an illegal manner. The report says the jury believes that this is contrary to the law and morality of the community, and is a dangerous special privilege. The report, in part, says:

The names of the police officials whom the jury say should be tried before the police board are not mentioned in the report, but those implicated at the time were Superintendent Robinson, Police Captain Kenny and Lieutenants Stinger and Van Horn. Robinson was never brought to trial, on the ground, it was said, that he had no superiors in the department who could act as his judges. Kenny, Stinger and Van Horn were reinstated. This is the personnel of the jury that filed the report.

ARTIFICIAL DAYLIGHT

Jacob Reeds' Sons Install System in Their Store

An artificial daylight by means of which a purchaser may see the exact color and quality of any goods he buys just as they will appear out in the sunlight of the store has at last been made practicable for use in stores. By pressing a button this artificial daylight is effected by means of a semipaque globe that filters out the rays per cent excess of red and orange rays from a normal 400-watt incandescent light which shines through it, leaving only pure white rays of natural daylight.

Jacob Reeds' Sons have obtained the exclusive rights to this system in Philadelphia and have installed it for the exhibit of clothing. They are planning also to install it in furnishing cabinets on the hosiery and neckwear counters, etc.
