DODGERS INCENSED OVER NEW SCANDAL IN HANDLING OF WORLD'S SERIES PASTEBOARD

ACTIVITIES OF SPECULATORS BRAND NEW PUZZLE FOR THE BASEBALL MAGNATES TO SOLVE

42,000 Tickets Sold for First World's Series Game, but Attendance Is Only 36,000-Brooklyn Players Want Matter Adjusted

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 9. BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 8.

BASKBALL magnates will have to solve absolutely a new problem as the result of certain events which transpired on Saturday. It appears that there were approximately 42,000 tickets printed and supposedly sold by the Boston American League management for three games scheduled to be played here October 7, 8 and 12. That all of the tickets, except a few which were left for sale at the last moment at the gates of Braves' field, were disposed of for Saturday's game was the substance of the management's statement. Furthermore, it is reasonable to suppose that all of the tickets were disposed of at the gates in view of the fact that many individuals are known to have been unable to purchase any of these tickets after

According to the official attendance statement given out immediately after turday's game, there were $6,000 fans at the opening contest of the world's eries. Now the question is, What became of the other six thousand tickets? Obviously they were and probably still are in the hands of speculators. That culators should be able to sell hundreds of blocks of tickets and still have six sand left is appalling to fandom, yet there are few individuals who have any real right to complain. But the players participating in the series have a greater and more just cause for complaint than the fans.

The players are given sixty per cent of the receipts of the first four games, estimated on the official attendance figures. In other words, the share of the players for Saturday's game is based or the attendance figures of approximately $6,000 and not on 42,000 which is the senting capacity of Braves field and is the number of tickets that the management stated had been printed.

Brooklyn Players Are Up In Arms.

MANY of the Brooklyn players were very indignant Saturday night and Sunday when they became fully aware of how the operations of the speculators had directly affected them in the matter of division of the spoils. The world's series mes were originally planned for the benefit of the players; that is, the players on the winning clubs in the American and National Leagues. Therefore it is not unnatural that the players should be the ones to make the first great howl if they think that they are not being treated properly by one or both clubs in the series.

Jake Daubert, George Cutshaw and a number of other Brooklyn players did not healtate to say what they thought of the matter. They figure that the six thousand tickets unaccounted for cost the players Saturday at least an average of one dollar a seat, which is a loss of six thousand dollars, according to their esti-mates. They go further and figure that if this same thing should occur in all of the first four games, a matter which is improbable but possible, they would lose a sum totaling about $24,000, or an individual personal loss of about $300 to $500, depend-

Many fans as well as the players actually have gone so far as to question he integrity of the management and ask if it can be true that any one or more persons connected with the club can be in collusion with the ticket scalpers.

It is not difficult to understand why the speculators did not dispose of all their pasteboards Saturday, that is if the six thousand unaccounted for tickets are in their hands. This is the third successive world's series for Boston and the fourth played in five years. Therefore the fans are not as baseball hungry as those who reside in St. Louis and some of the other cities of the West.

World's series contests here are taken almost as a matter of course by the majority of the fane, just as the fane of Philadelphia took the Athletics during their days of supreme baseball control, just prior to Mack's breaking up of his This apathetic mood of fandom has caused the speculators to lose oney because a man who has seen many world's series games is not going to pay double and triple prices to witness such a contest. Boston fans whi stay at home rather than be bliked out of their hard-earned cash, and they cannot be blamed for it at that.

Daubert Waxes Wordy and Wrathy

FIGHE exact view of the Brooklyn players in regard to this new baseball scandal is reflected in the words of Jake Daubert. Jake made a statement to this effect: "I'd like to know just what will be done with regard to those tickets which ere sold but for which no accounting has been given. It is true that the Jewish hely day kept the attendance down to some extent, but even if the people did not attend the game the tickets were purchased. The players are supposed to receive mixty per cent of the gross receipts of the first four days, regardless of the attend-unce, and they want their full share.

"There is another point that I would like to have cleared up, and that is the matter of tickets sold at the box office. I had some friends who came up here, and shortly before noon they went to the grounds in an endeavor to purchase seats. They were informed that every ticket had been sold. Yet after noon, just before the game started, I learned that seats were to be had.

"Now, I want to know whence the tickets came. Can it mean that some one is working with the speculators? Is it possible that the price kiters can return their tickets and have their losses covered? If it is there is work for the National

"The Brooklyn cooters have suffered somewhat in the allotment of seats. They are hiked away in the rear of the stands, unable to secure better seats, yet out on the streets the specs have whole sheaves of tickets for the choice seats. Chief Meyers was unable to get a decent seat for his wife at the box office, but he had no trouble in getting the exact location he desired from the speculators.

"Furthermore, I am not at all satisfied with the count. There were a few vacant in the leftfield stands, one block high up, and another closer to the field, but these did not make the difference between the total seating capacity of the grounds and the official figures. About the only conclusion on can form is that something is rotten in the State of Denmark."

Great Diversity of Opinion of Series

FTHE poorly played game Saturday, the first of the 1916 world's series, which was won by the Red Sox, 6 to 5, over the Brooklyn team, has caused a great diversity of opinion among the fans and the baseball writers. They declare that the Red Sox were so far superior to the Dodgers that they permitted themselves to go to aleep, as it were, and allow their opponents to come within one safe blow of victory. On the other hand, there are others who believe that the Brooklyn team has a great deal of fighting power in spite of the fact that Cutshaw, Stengel and several others completely "blew up" at critical moments in the game.

It is certainly a fact that Cuishaw on two occasions was so badly ratifed that he pot only failed to make the play lie should have made, but failed to make any at all; that is, he stood still with the ball in his hand while one Red Sox player raced across the plate and the other reached first base safely. That character of baseball surely does not denote inherent strength. At the same time it must be remembered that Brooklyn has never before been in a world's series and they were due to exhibit a little stage fright on their first day out.

As tar as the pitching Saturday was concerned, Ernie Shore, who was sup-ad to be one of the best bets on the Red Sox staff, was outpitched by Marquard, although neither of them lasted throughout the game. How the other opposing pitchers will compare is purely a matter of speculation; but it is safe to say that Robinson's men will do much better work, comparatively, than the fans generally believed they would before the series began.

Fans today are guessing who the hero of the present series will be. Those who have followed the game a long time will remember the series that was played ten years ago at Chicago between the White Sox and the Cubs. The American Leaguers won because of the phenomenal hitting of George Rohe, who was sent to third at the ninth hour in the rote of substitute. Although the hero of that series. Bohe could not make the team the following year and was sent back to

ELEGY WRITTEN IN A COUNTRY BALL PARK

By C. C. SHANFELTER

The village mourns the season's closing day,

The silent fans file slowly through the gate,

The players homeward plod their weary way,

And leave the grounds to winter and to Fate.

Now fade the echoes of the joyous ahouts
That through the season past did promptly greet |
Each lightning play; the home team's lusty clouts |
When hits meant runs to save them from defeat.

Now fade the shadows at th' approach of night,
And through the air a solemn stillness flows,
Save where a "pop" man winds his weary flight
With tinkling "empties" from the grandstand rows.

Save that, from yonder outfield gate wide-flung,
A heated fan loud to his friend complains
Of players, who, though now as heroes sung,
Play ball with hands alone, and not with brains

Upon that peaceful field, in sun and shade.

Where spreads the turf in soft, cool, velvet sweep,
The home team daily toiled and sweat and played
To earn a pennant and a winter's sleep.

The early call for practice every morn—
With coacher crabbing from the players' shed.
Not quick to praise, yet doubly swift to scorn—
No more shall rouse them from their lowly bed.

Oft to their slugging did the pitchers yield,
Their base hits oft the stubborn tie has broke;
How jocund did they swat the ball afield!
How bowed the ash beneath their sturds stroke.

Let not Ambition mock their playtime toil,
Their homely joys, their futile grasp at fame;
Nor blackened hands of scandal touch and soil
The short and simple annals of their game.

Perhaps in this neglected spot has played Some youth with highest baseball gifts endowed, Whose plays the simple village folk have swayed, And thrilled to ecstasy some Fair Week crowd.

Who knows but many a baseball find serene,
On this small field has one time lightly stepped?
Full many a Cobb is born to bunt unseen,
And waste his base hits where no score is kept.

Some village Speaker, who, with trusty club, Could hit the mighty Alex when he willed: / Some mute, inglorious Kauff, a modest cub; Some John McGraw with all ambition stilled.

Far from the madding crowd's ignoble rush,
Their deeds of local prowess never strayed
From th' oblivion of the deepest Bush;
Nor did a scout their homely realm invade.

Their names, their years, ne'er entered in the Dope
That filled up sporting columns by the score,
And to the fans brought confidence and hope
Of winning teams at home forever more.

For thee who mindful of th' unhonor'd Past,

Dost in these lines their artless tales relate,

Approach and read (for thou canst read) this last

Poor tribute to their sad, neglected state:

"Here lived to play our greatest game for naught Fair youths to Fortune and to Fame unknown. A season's pastime to the fans they brought Before Oblivion claimed them for its own."

LOCAL SOCCER TEAMS IN NATIONAL CUP SERIES

Victor and Veteran Play in Qualifying Round, Winner Meeting Bethlehem

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 9.—Eighty-one association football teams, including seven from Philadelphia and vicinity, have entered the annual national cup competition. The draw for the qualifying and first round was made yesterday at a special meeting of the United States Football Association.

The pairings for the qualifying and first round proper call for the ties to be played off on or before October 22 and Nocem-ber 19.

In qualifying round Victor, of Camden, meets Veteran on former's grounds. In the first round the winner of the Victor vs. Veteran match will go to Bethlehem to play the ougholders. Putnam will entertain Allentown Y. M. C. A. Disston will oppose Wanderers on Tacony baseball grounds.

grounds.

Last year eighty-eight clubs took part in the neries. The matches are arranged between the teams in the ten districts, including Chicago. The winners meet in subsequent rounds, one being played each

JACK HENDRIX MAY SUCCEED TINKER AS CUBS' MANAGER

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—No sooner had the Cubs been thoroughly beaten by the White Sox in their annual fall scrap than rumors were once more floating through the air that Joe Tinker will be deposed as leader of the North Side team, although no official statement can be obtained at this time from any one connected with the club.

President Weeghman declined to discuss the matter when interviewed last night. Several have been mentioned as successor to Tinker, among them being Jack Hendrix, Frank Chance, Larry Doyle and Dick Kinsella. Jack Hendrix was seen talking privately to Weeghman before the Thursday game of the Sox-Cubs' series.

American Cup Games

Benny Leonard vs. Johnny Nelson

Ryan Ath. Club. Price 20c and 30c Terry Ketchel vs. Frankie Conway TUISDAY EVENING. OCTUBER 10. 1918 FORREST—World's Series 456

Point Breeze A. C. Course Decker, Mar. GEORGE BLACKBURN vs. WILLE HANNON to ther Bouts

Hot Off the Gridiron

By no means discouraging because of the re-ult of the game with the Germantown High, the Jermantown Academy players will report this frience not coach disales flutton and pre-are for the contest with Landowne High next 'riday afternoon at Landowne. This will at-ord some comparison between the Episcopal and Machelm clevens, the Churchmen having beforted Landowne by the score of 12 to 0 ast week.

Penn Charter School was not only without a game last week when Cheatnut Hill Academy canceled, but will be without a contest next Priday unless Manager Alten Reichner can arrange to have his team meet either the University of Pennsylvania Iresiman second eleven or less that a match with the Haverford College scrabs.

Bert Lippincott, last year's guard at the Episcopal Academy, will report today when the Churchmen have their regular practice at Sixty-second and Walnut streets. Lippincott will be used seen, probably in the contest with Bayerford, this week.

Father of American Golf Dead

Georgia Tech Makes Record Score ATLANTA. Ga., Oct. 9.—Georgia Tech scored touchdowns, with 30 scale from touchdowns, gainst Cumberland Saturday for a total of 222 cints to C. The score is the 1918 season recoints to C. The score is the 1918 season rec

ALVIN BEHRER HEADS INTERCOLLEGIATE A. A.

Cross-Country Championships Set for November 25 at New Haven

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—At a regular meeting of he executive and advisory committees of the nterpollegiste Athletic Association, held yester-ay, Alvin Behrer, Princeton, was elected resident of the association, filling the vacancy nide by the graduation of D. M. Lake, also of made by the graduation of D. M. Lake, also of Princeton. It was announced that the 1916 intercollegiate championships, which were neid at the Hayvard Stadium, had realized a net profit of $4866.

The annual cross-country championship this year will be decided over the New Haven courses Saturday, November 25, prior to the Yale-Harvard football game. A special meeting of the association will convene at New Haven Priday, November 24. Proposed amendments to the by laws will be considered at this session and a change may be made in the program of the about the program of the about the program of the short of the short of the program of the short of the short of the short of the program of the short of the Chicago Soccer Team Wins GHICAGO. Oct. 9.—The Chicago Soccer Club afeated the Cleveland Club, champions of the thic League. 1 to 0.

Miss Hutchinson Won Golf Cup WOODBURY N. J., Cet. S.—In the soil contests for the President's Curs at the Country Club links. Miss Catherine Hutchinson won from Mrs. C. G. Green, Jr., in the finals and Harold Kircher defeated Charles Greens.

SUITS TO ORDER

PETER MORAN & CO. MERCHANT TAILORS S. E. COR. STH AND ARCH STS.

Spats are in good taste for every man who is careful in his dress and appreciates the smart touch they impart. Correct shades, in the best quality box and livery cloths, to wear with Patent Leather, Dull and Calfskin Shoes at $1.75 to $3.50 a pair.

NIEDERMAN

930 Chestnut 39 S. 8th

CHANT, YE BUGS, OF EX-CHAMPS BUT DODGER FANS ARE JOYFUI BROOKLYN'S ON THE MAP AGAIN

Stallings Set the League Afire With Caster Array in 1914, but Robinson Has Larger Cast in Present Winners

By GRANTLAND RICE

Shades of Anderson and McGuire, Daly, Hughes and the old-time bunch; Ghasts have risen in balldom's Tyre, Here comes Nineveh with the punch; Who was it spake of the Phoenix askes Rising up in the gap again! Here they are with the hits and emashes Brooklyn's back on the map again.

Chant, ye bugs, of the Braves and Giants, Bits the Phillies a ringing cheer; Howl your praise of the Red Sox science, On with the White Sox chanticleer; Then, torn loose from her ancient thraidom, Here where the ghosts' flogs flop again, One wild roar to the gods of balldom—BROOKLYN'S BACK ON THE MAPAGAIN!

You Never Know Your Luck

JACK COOMBS, Larry Cheney, Rube Marquard and Chtef Meyers left pen-nant possibilities to come to Brooklyn. When they arrived Brooklyn hadn't fig-ured; as a pennant possibility in fifteen

You never can tell.

The Cast-off Champs Back in 1914 George Stallings broke up a league and smashed a world's series in-stitution with a cast-off array. On that club he had Gowdy and Rudolph turned adrift by the Giants; Evers and Red Smith, turned out by Chicago and Brook-But as the cast-off champs, the Braves of 1914 are seven dusty leagues back of Note the array from the used-to-be-with-other-clubs Meyers, Marquard, Merkle-New York Glants. Coombs—Philadelphia Americans. Cheney—Chicago Nationals. Olson—Cleveland Americans. Mowrey— Cincinnati Reds, St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates.

Red Sox Pick-up

Here are seven ball players from five other clubs, no longer held an available talent. Coombs, Marquard and Cheney were considered as being all through, so far as first rank was concerned. The same was true of Mowrey and Olson and Meyers. But Brooklyn's position in the National League race is pretty fair evidence of the use Robby made of his cast-off material.

Most of the Red Sox are Boston bred major leaguers. Ernie Shore once belonged to the Giants. Hobby came from the Reds and Walker came from St. Louis. Barry is an ex-Mackman.

But Cady, Carrigan, Thomas, Ruth, Leo-

Shades of Kelley and Keeler and Sheekard,
Jennings, Rennedy, Dahlen and Jones—
Not to drag out an ancient record,
Not to ratife long contabled bones:
Shades of Casey and Dunn and Farrell,
Looming up with the rap again,
Hall to the clink in the Ebbets's barrel,
Brooklyn's back on the map agin.
Shades of Anderson and McGuire,
Daly, Hughes and the old-time bunch:
Ghosts have risem in balldom's Tyre,
Here comes Ninevch with the punch;
Who was it spoke of the Phoenis ashes
Rising up in the gap again?

By GRANTLAND RICE

nard, Mays, Scott, Janvrin, Gardner, and Hooper all began their caress
a Boston and Hooper all began their caress
a Boston and Hooper all began their caress
a Boston exhibit machine of the world are may have comes still hanging in the Portal
Two years ago on this date the Multiple Collins re-entering the Portal
Two years ago on this date the Multiple Collins re-entering the Portal
Two years ago on this date the Multiple Collins re-entering the Portal
Two years ago on this date the Multiple Collins re-entering the Portal
Two years ago on this date the Multiple Collins re-entering the Portal
Two years ago on the Multiple Collins re-entering the Portal
Two years ago on the Multiple Collins re-entering the Portal
Two years ago on the Multiple Collins re-entering the Portal
Two years ago on the Multiple Collins re-entering the Portal
Two years ago on the Multiple Collins re-entering the Portal
Two years ago on the Multiple Collins re-entering the Portal
Two years ago on the Multiple Collins re-entering the Portal
Two years ago on the Multiple Collins re-entering the Portal
Two years ago on the Multiple Collins re-entering the Portal
Two years ago on the Multiple Collins re-entering the Portal
Two years ago on the Multiple Collins re-entering the Portal
Two years ago on the Multiple Collins re-entering the Portal
Two years ago on the Multiple Collins re-entering the Multiple Collins re-entering the Machine of the Multiple Collins re-entering the Portal
Two years ago on this date the Multiple Collins re-ent

Boston never has lest a world series the other hand, a rabid Brooklyn fas in that Boston never before has me in the light of the immerse Goldberg, "We haver thought of that"

The Fugiting of Tempus
How old Doc Chronos hustles by
A. T. R. Cobb upon his feet;
But yesterday we pesied an eye
Upon young April's shorting shot.
But yesterday, in each wild too
We looked upon the appning how.
And now the gap has narranded.
To four days more.

Just four days more, maybe fee,
And we can hit the hay again,
Or loaf on through the winter drive
Unmindful of the plan again;
Unmindful of the winning clout,
Forgetful of the old box score,
Until next spring we rise and show.
"Just four days more!"

A Feature Worth While

A Feature Worth While

The meeting at match play of thirtyprofessionals today at Siwanoy at and as one of the leading goif feature the year. The pros rarely indulas selves at match play, preferring the game, but through this next week they have their chance to cast all safety and go direct for the pin.

The tournament, played for the wander trophy and about $5000 in will be at Siwanoy a first-class test.

Hate to buy Clothes?

The man who has his clothes custom tailored enjoys buying. You hate to buy ready-mades because you never find anything that suits or really fits.

The salesman over-persuades you, and for the next six months you regret it every time you put on your coat.

The man who wears made-to-hisown-measure suits goes about with the certainty of being better dressed than the majority.

Our methods of buying, our systematized workrooms, enable us to give you custom tailoring at ready-made prices. For instance, at

> For Custom-Tailored Suit or Overcoat

we give you the choice from 500 all-wool, highgrade fabrics. We'll put into your clothes our fine custom tailoring.

We make suits or overcoats as low as $16. At $20, $22.50, $25 and up to $35 we're giving you extraordinary value.

Newcorn & Green Merchant Tailors 1032 Market Street Open Monday and Saturday Evenings

