

FOR RELIEVING THAT DULL SUNDAY EVENING
Abraham Goldbacher, tireless instigator of movements, is here agitating for a place where the lonely may gather and improve the idle hour.

RETURNED GUARDMEN STILL IN UNIFORM, THOUGH RELIEVED OF DUTY
Though they have received their official welcome home, regiment members are required to report at the armory every morning till they are mustered out, probably two weeks hence. Outside the armory door is a good place to fight battles o'er again.

A SOMBRERO MAKES A GOOD SOUVENIR
One of the numerous varieties of border products brought home by thoughtful Third Infantrymen.

CAUGHT UNAWARES BY THE CAMERA
John C. Bell (left), former Attorney General, and H. L. Geyelin, said to be the first Penn athlete to don the Red and Blue.

ATTRACTIVE TREATMENT OF AN OTHERWISE BARE PORCH
Home of H. F. Lehnen, 1632 South Yewdall street, where vines and potted plants have been combined to rescue the front of the house from monotony.

A SOLDIER WHO'S AN ATHLETIC HERO GETS DOUBLE HONORS
The young man on the right is J. Howard Berry, who on his return from the border was received into pleasant surroundings, as this picture reveals.

FIRST MONUMENT IN HISTORICAL SERIES TO BE PLACED IN FAIRMOUNT PARK
This staff model recently erected near the River drive is that of the monument commemorating the arrival of the Norsemen, to be paid for out of the fund left by the late Mrs. Ellen Phillips Samuel.
