Actor-Golfer May Hold World's Record With Play Over 183 Links—"Nobility Pop"

By SANDY McNIBLICK GOLF over one hundred and eighty-three courses is the proud record of Charles Leonard Fletcher, quick-change character actor of a little renown.

Through the heat waves of South Africa, the volcanic torrid stretches of Honolulu, the sand dunes of Scotland, amidst the orange groves of Los Angeles, north the palms of Florida, to the dips and rises of the creek-coastal South, the actor has played a scorecard on a record of 183 courses.

JESS ONLY WHITE HEAVY DEVELOPED IN MANY YEARS Although Aspiring Fighters of Present Day Are Dampened, Willard Stands Alone

Can anything be stranger than the fact that only one real white fighter, Jess Willard, has been developed during the last six years?

In the olden days the pugilistic woods were full of first-class heavyweights—Sullivan, Forbert, Fitzsimmons, Jeffries, Sharkey, Choyinski, Mahoney, Egan, McCoy and a host of others. But today the bulk of those who call themselves fighters are little more than joke battlers.

Although many of them play as well as the condition makes up for an even more remarkable when one remembers that aspiring heavies of the present era have had everything in their favor: "angle" who backed them by seeing to it that they got the best possible coaching; they had managers who picked out "soft spots" for them earlier in their careers so as to develop them gradually.

Five Times Hub Teams Have Been Favored by Dame Fortune

RED SOX LUCKY IN 1903 No Boston team ever has lost a world's series, and none ever will be conquered while Dame Fortune continues to smile so sweetly upon the athletes from the city of culture and baked beans.

UNSETTLED HONUS But at that very second the Boston rooters' band struck up "Tease," then a new and popular song. It boomed out the way in the final inning of the final game, Fortune smiled again upon the Bostonians.

Evening Ledger Decisions of Ring Bouts Last Night

BALTIMORE—Jimmy McCabe got the referee's decision over Harry Hammer, of Chicago. The latter was a boxer from the neighborhood of Charles Street, Baltimore. McCabe was a Baltimore native and a member of the Baltimore Athletic Club.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Sam Babbidon (Lalor) won from Jimmie Hamilton, of Youngstown. KANSAS CITY—Bobby Leonard knocked out Ernie Hammer, of St. Louis.

Scraps About Scrappers BY LOUIS H. JAFFE The knock-out victory of Benny Leonard, in twelve rounds, over Ernie Hammer, of Chicago, was the only one of the night's events which proved the oldtime real deal. Hammer had been going along winning consistently from top-notch boxers, and in the West he was regarded as a legitimate contender for Fred Goetz's belt.

THE LURE of the squared circle finally has lured a fall out of Tommy Austin, and he will get back into the ring tomorrow night, when he will meet Al Benson, of the Central States Athletic Club, at the old Blue Bell Hotel. Austin made matches for the short-lived West Philadelphia Sporting Club, and continued in the game he has decided to take up boxing with a vengeance.

ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY POUNDS, ringside in the weight stipulated in an encounter between Leo Wooten, of Philadelphia, and Fred Young, of New York, at the Olympic Club, it was the referee's decision to stop the fight when Young was on his feet and Wooten was on his knees.

ED PFEFFER FOUND IT HARD TO BREAK INTO BIG LEAGUE

Ebbets Only Magnate Willing to Give Present Star Twirlers Chance

ZACK WHEAT A BARGAIN Edward ("Jeff") Pfeffer had a hard time breaking into the majors. It wasn't because no one thought him a good pitcher, but because the magnates who were the doings of a Pfeffer in the minors confused him with the ancient Pfeffer, who passed beyond the big leagues some years ago.

THOROUGH GUFFNEY laughed. "Why should I sign up Pfeffer?" he said to one of his associates. "He's a has-been." You see, Jim had him mixed up with the old hunk by the same name.

WHILE later it became noised around in big league circles that a chap named Pfeffer was doing great things in the Central League. But all of the magnates except C. Hercules Ebbets figured it was Pfeffer the veteran. So they passed up the chance to snare one of the best moundsmen that has been in the big time in many years.
