EPISCOPALIANS FACE CONFLICT OVER JEW

Dr. Tomkins to Offer Resolution Conceding Convert's Right to Observe Ancient Customs

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 20.—A hot fight in the Episcopal House of Deputies was predicted today if Dr. Floyd W. Tomkins introduces his resolution on the attitude of the Episcopal Church toward the Jew.

Dr. Tomkins' resolution permits Jews who have become Christian believers the liberty of following their own racial, social and national customs. Many of the deputies today said they would fight the proposed new law, on the ground that a Christian should follow Christian modes, inasmuch as they have sworn allegiance to Christianity.

Today was religious education day in both the House of Bishops and Deputies, who met in joint session, and there is a possibility Doctor Tomkins' resolution will not come up for debate before the lower house until later.

SEEK 50,000 FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL

County Organization Sets Goal for Number of New Pupils for Next Year

A goal of 50,000 new members for the 40th anniversary year of the Protestant Reformation was set last night at five big rallies comprising the twenty-fourth annual convention of the Philadelphia County Sunday School Association. Representatives of 720 schools, having an aggregate membership of 310,000 persons, participated in the convention.

The goal for 1917 was outlined by the Rev. Dr. George G. Dowe, general secretary of the Philadelphia County Association; George G. Ziegler and W. D. Reed. The speakers called attention to the 10,000 new members who joined the Sunday schools of the city last year; to 12,204 persons who united with the church, and to the $10,000 budget needed for the forthcoming year's work.

John Walton was elected president of the association, Joseph M. Steele, George G. Ziegler and Harry Palmyre vice-presidents; Theodore Brown Williams recording secretary and Edward H. Bonstall treasurer.

A rally of secondary division workers was held in Grace Reformed Church, exercises for the home department workers were conducted in the Fifth Moravian Church, and an elementary session was held in the Episcopal Church of St. Simon.

U. S. MAY PROTEST TO ALL BELLIGERENTS ON SEA WAR

Renewal of U-Boat Campaign Likely to Cause Protest to All Countries

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—It was intimated at the State Department that if Germany inaugurates a submarine campaign in close proximity to American waters, and its results seriously impair the foreign commerce of the United States, this Government may send an identical note to the Allied Governments and Central Empires.

The note would inform them that belligerent naval operations in close proximity to American waters would be construed an unfriendly act by the United States, even though such operations were not an infraction of international law.

A note of this character would have a precedent in the note sent to France during the Franco-Prussian War, when French war vessels hovered off American ports in the steamship lanes, lying in wait for enemy shipping. The presence of such ships was considered obnoxious by the American Government.

BERLIN, Oct. 20.—Members of the Reichstag are still devoting much attention to the submarine question, especially in its relation to America. The Progressive party, which is supporting the Chancellor on the submarine issue, held a meeting in Berlin last night, at which the subject was discussed frankly. Dr. Otto Wiser declared the party was supporting the Government because it did not desire the good relations with neutral countries to be disturbed.

"We do not fear America," he said, "but we value the keeping of good relations with her."

Police Court Chronicle

The monk of Mike Botts has much to contend with. When it isn't bowing and making faces for the kids, it's fighting cats and dogs which seem to be looking for trouble.

Kiddo, as the monkey is called, bears many scars of battle and is known in several of the hospitals. Mike says Kiddo is kind at heart and contends there is no reason for the anti-Simitan feeling which exists among the animals encountered en route.

The monk's greatest trouble seem to center around Thirteenth and Vine streets. There's a cat in that neighborhood that gives Kiddo battle every time he happens along. Frequently she has made the monk drop his cap full of pennies and scamper up an awning pole to escape her sharp claws. Mike put up with this for some time. But when the cat concealed herself in a doorway and pounced on Kiddo, while his back was turned, he thought it time to take action. He kicked the cat into the street.

The cat's mistress, Agnes Jones, a rather determined dame, knocked Mike down and called a cop.

When the Italian was brought before Magistrate Collins, Agnes said that Mike hit her with her baseball bat after throwing her cat under a trolley car. Witnesses, who like Mike and his little pal Kiddo, denied the woman's charges and declared that the cat had always been the aggressor.

The Judge expressed the belief that Agnes and the truth were utter strangers. He advised Mike to take another route with his monk. Little Kiddo seemed to understand the seriousness of the occasion, for tears trickled down his face. He flipped his hat when the Judge freed his master and chattered his gratitude in loud tones.

FAMINE THREATENS CARRANZA'S REGIME

Mexican Chief's Governors Said to Corner Foods as People Starve

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—A food famine, whose extent has hitherto been concealed from outsiders by General Carranza, now threatens to contribute to the early overthrow of the de facto Government in the northern States of Mexico. Reports received here today say thousands are without food in the States of Chihuahua, Coahuila and Durango, where Carranza's officials hold the necessities of life at prohibitive prices.

In these States the Carranza peso has dropped to two cents, with every prospect that it shortly will be absolutely without value. The day wages paid labor have a purchasing power of but from four to six cents. Carranza's agents meanwhile hold corn at $4 a bushel. This corn is paid for by the Government and then taken over by Carranza's military governors, who corner the market.

Corn lines are formed every evening, when women carrying tea cups gather in long columns to take their turn in exchanging the few pennies they can muster for mere handfuls of corn. Food riots take place nightly in Chihuahua, Durango, Terezon and Aguascalientes, according to today's reports, and deaths from starvation and disease which run in the wake of famine mount into the hundreds every day in these four cities.

PRaises RULE IN PHILIPPINES

"One of the Finest Pieces of Uplift Work," General Wood Says

MOHONK LAKE, N. Y., Oct. 20.—American government in the Philippines was characterized by Major General Leonard Wood as "one of the finest pieces of international uplift work ever attempted," in an address last night to the delegates of the Lake Mohonk Conference on the Indians and other dependent peoples.

General Wood said, however, that the Philippine problem would be solved only when the people in Philippine homes have been through the public schools. "We must not imagine for a moment," he warned, "that we have created a homogeneous people or a well-balanced, well-settled population. We have done good work over there, and I believe the feelings of the real people in the Philippines will be found indicative of a deep sense of gratitude."
