Cardinal Gibbons Officiates at Brilliant Wedding Ceremony in Magnificent Washington Mansion

Church Dignitaries, Diplomats and Friends of Noted Massachusetts Family Attend Event

WASHINGTON. Oct. 25.—What is generally regarded as the most brilliant instructional marriage in Washington for any years—that of Miss Margaret Draper, souther of the late General William Prankin Draper, multi-millionaire, and one line United States Ambassador to Italy, and Prince Andrea Boncompagni, of Rometok place today at the Draper residence at Connecticut avenue and K street, Northwest. Another American heiress was transformed into an Italian princess; another American fortune was drafted into the service of European artistocracy.

At noon today, in the presence of only about four score friends, representing the most exclusive elements of Washington society, with Cardinal Gibbons and Monsignor Russell officiating, and at least a dozen sore high church dignitaries lending impressiveness to the always imposing ceremonial of the Roman Catholic Church, the streaming was performed which made Margaret Draper, sometimes hailed as "the richest heiress in Massachusetts," and undoubtedly the richest girl in her own right in Washington society, the Princess Asires Boncompagni, "and then some," as ans of the bride's frivolous friends expressed it. For the bridegroom, like most inlian princes, has quite too long a string mames for every-day use.

The guests assembled in the famous tapestried balfroom of the Draper residence. The great organ which had been installed behind a sort of vine-twined lattice in the southeast corner of the room swung from the soft improvisations which filled the sir with melody into the opening bars of the great wedding march, and all eyes turned upon the stately procession of churchmen making its way to the wonderful white allar near the grand stativay.

Washington has not often seen so many high dignitaries of the Catholic Church mail the beauty of their ceremonial vestments gathered together at one altar. And, of course, everybody wanted to see the wines. The bridegroom had but one at-ments gathered together at one altar. And, of course, everybody wanted to see the prince. The bridegroom had but one attendant, Guiseppe Brambilla, counselor of the Italian Embassy.

THE BRIDAL ENTOURAGE

Down the great stairway, through the white-columned foyer connecting the drawing room with the ball room, came the little wedding party, the two little bridesmaids, Minna and Edith Biair, the bride's aleces—daughters of her half sister, Mrs. Montgomery Biair—the maid of honor, Eudera Clover, daughter of Admiral and Mrs. Richardson Clover, who has been one of Margaret Draper's life-long girl friends, and finally, leaning on the arm of William King Richardson, of Boston, who was her wardian and is trustee of her estate, Mar-Ring Richardson, of Boaton, who was her guardian and is trustee of her estate, Mar-garet Draper, a bridal vision of filmy whiteness, who, when she passed through that doorway, was transformed from an American girl to an Italian princess.

Margaret Draper had always said that he hoped when her time came she would e "just the bridiest bride that ever hap-med." And she was L" And she was. Her gown was eautiful soft, white satin, almost letely veiled in rare old lace and made completely veiled in rare old lace and made flimy with tuils. The lace belonged to the bride's maternal grandmother. Margaret Preston, for whom she was named—and it had been part of her mother's bridal at-tire. The bodice was almost completely veiled in it, and a beautiful cape of it fell over the court train of cloth of silver hanging from the shoulders. At the bottom of the train was another decoration of the lace caught here and there with natural grange blossoms.

erange blossoma.

Her tuile veil, worn over her face, was heid in place by sprays of natural orange blossoms and her bouquet was of white erchids and orange blossoms and a few lilies of the valley. It was not until after the ceremony, when the veil was thrown back, that her friends were able to see just which of the wonderful Draper jewels she saw fit to wear on this "the birthday of her life." Then it was seen that she had chosen just two splendid pieces—the beautiful necklace of pearls which her father had been collecting for her at her birth and which he had given her for her debut only a short time before his own death, and a marvelous ornament of diamonds—a great butterfly with dewdrops of diamonds—a great butterfly with dewdrops of diamonds dripping from its wings—which her mother recently had made for her in New York and which covered the front of her bodice.

THE DIAMOND CORONET

THE DIAMOND CORONET

The diamond coronet, part of the Boncompagni familiy jewels, which was one of the Prince's gifts to her and which she had at first planned to wear to hold her vell, and then planned not to since it was believed that it could not, considering the uncertainty of the high seas, be brought over safely,, she did not wear. But it has really arrived, and today's bride did wear it last night, when her mother gave a final dinner for the bridal party.

BEAUTIFUL DECORATIONS . As for the fine old Draper residence, sever in its long career as a scene of brilliant hospitality had it been so wonderfully decorated as it is for this occasion. The entire house was smothered in American beauty roses, and white chryanthemums against a background of greenery—red. white and green, the Italian colors every-

GIBBONS OFFICIATES

GIBBONS OFFICIATES

The actual ceremeny was performed y Cardinal Gibbons, and the nuptial mass said by Monaignor Russell, of St. atricks. The Drapers, although themelyes Protestants, have always been on the friendliest possible terms with lead-of Cathelic churchmen, and Cardinal Gibons has been for years one of Mrs. Drapers most valued friends. So it is quite fitting that he, who had also been a life-long that he, who had also been a life-long that he, who had also been a family that as given two Popes to the church, and has lead to the Boncompagnia—a family that as given two Popes to the church, and has lead of Italy, the party whose allegance was given to the Vatican rather than the Quiring about perform the cerebray.

BOND, Mr. and Mrs. Harry, 2926 Edgley

BIGLEY, Mr. and Mrs. James J., 1433 South Fifty-third street, a son. Mrs. Bigley formerly Miss Jennie McDonald. BROWNBACK, Mr. and Mrs. William, 2126 Sedgley street, a daughter. Eight

FLYNN, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick, 1325 Holly-

PRIZER, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Atmore, Jr. RAPPAPORT, Dr. and Mrs. D. N., 427 South Sixtieth street, a son. Eight pounds. ROBERTS, Mr. and Mrs. Albert S., Jr., Philadelphia, a son.

BOBINSON, Mf. and Mrs. A. Wayne, Jr., of Syracuse, N. Y., a son. Mrs. Robinson formerly Miss Margaret E. Atlee, daugh-ter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin I. Atlee, of

Fog Slows Up River Traffic

ferry passengers were not inconvenienced. Trains leaving the Camden terminals also were a few minutes late. Other river traffic

ROBINSON & CRAWFORD

AT ALL OUR STORES

WHERE QUALITY COUNTS

BARGAINS

The Butter market is exceedingly high for this season of the year. This fact makes our service stand out more pronounced. It has, as you know, always been our policy to protect our cus-tomers, both as regards Quality and Price. Our Prices quoted below are strong evidence that we are faithfully holding to our

GOLD SEAL

BUTTER

1b. 43°

Made from the richest golden cream, by expert butter makers. Gold Seal is the highest grade of freshly churned Butter. Particu-lar people always use Gold Seal. Are You Particular?

Hy-Lo Butter lb. 40c

Ca-Ro Butter lb. 35c

"Where Quality Counts"

ROBINSON & CRAWFORD

The Stores for particular people.

Throughout the city and suburbe.

BUTTER

was virtually at a standstill until th

pounds, five ou

wood street, a daughter, Catharine. Eight

PRINCE BONCOMPAGNI-LUDOVICI

under instruction to that end. Last Sur day, in the same tapestried baliroom which was the scene of her debut four years ago and of her marriage today, Monsignor Rus-sell received her into the Church, Chief Justice and Mrs. White acting as her spon-was served to all the invited guests, about eighty in all, seated at fourteen tables. The decorations at all were identical. Amer-ican beauties and lilies of the valley maintaining the red, white and green orlor scheme that had been adopted in deference scheme that had been adopted in deterence to the bridgeroom's nationality. At the bride's table there were seated the wedding party, all the church dignitaries, Mrs. Draper, Mr. Richardson, the Italian Ambassador and Countess di Cellere and the Russian Ambassador and Madame Bakhmeter. Ferryboats occasionally paid visits to neighboring piers instead of their home berths early today when a heavy fog ever-hung the river front. Passage was slow, the pilots "feeling their way" in order to avoid accident, while sirens and fogbells sounded warning chorus. Beyond slight delay in reaching their places of business teff. The famous Draper gold plate, which has seen service at so many notable functions, was used.

None of the Prince's family was able None of the Prince's family was able to be present. His brothers are in active service—one having recently been wounded. His parents and more distant relatives found it virtually impossible to leave Italy under present conditions. In fact, the Prince himself is due back with his regiment in December, so it will be a short honeymoon on this side of the water, and then they will sail away, and Margaret Draper will take up her new life in the Palazzo Bonoompagni, at Rome, as one of the war brides of the great struggle.

John A. Foley

RIDING ACADEMY

FIVE DAILY DUTIES BEAUTY SEEKER SHOULD PERFORM By LUCREZIA BORI

Donna of the Metropolitan Opera

WE OWE It to ourselves and posterity to perform certain daily duties that will ep up the health and beauty of the body. one who neglects these invites nature to inflict punishment in ways that are far from agreeable.

Blame only yourselwhen blackheads an pimples begin to ma the smooth surface o your skin. It is nature your skin. It is nature? method of reminding you that you have neglected to do your duty. Because you have not properly cleansed your skin and have been indiscreet in your dist the pores have becomplogged with dust and strease, which have grease, which have hardened and formed LUCREZIA BORI the so-called "blackheads." Physiologists are convinced that we eat too much and too rapidly. It is, therefore, to your advantage if you value a good com-plexion to eat less and chew more. Over-feeding causes indigestion, which prevents the skin from doing its proper work, and blackheads are the ultimate result. If you are one of the many trying to get rid of blackheads, diet for a while. Do not rid of blackheads, diet for a while. Do not infulge in ice cream, candy, pastry, cake or any of the rich foods that giris usually like. Fried foods, too, should be shunned. Drink plenty of water between meals, so that the system will be flushed of waste material. It is also an excellent plan to drink a glass of hot water a half hour before breakfast. Add the juice of half a lemon or a pinch of sait to the water.

Now for the external remedies. I advise the use of the complexion brush. Select a bland soap that agrees with your skin and bland soap that agrees with your skin and use plenty of clean, hot water. When you feel that the pores are sufficiently cleansed rinse the face with cold water to contract the pores and then apply an astringent lotten, such as this one:

Rosewater 3 ounces Riderflower water 1 ounce Simple thoture bensoin 4 ounce Tannic acid 5 grains cioth several times a day. Discontinue its use for a while when dryness results.

Exercise of some form should be counted as one of the daily duties. There are various exercises from which you can choose. Walk, ride horseback, or systematically follow a series of gymnastics. Tennis playing is one of the best and finest forms of exercise, but there are times when the weather will not permit of outdoor games. However, the tennis racket can be used indoors to advantage. Serve the ball against doors to advantage. Serve the ball against a blank wall and return it as it rebounds. This will give you plenty of healthful exercise.

One seldom stops to think that to have luxuriant hair it is necessary to have healthy hair. For the hair to be healthy daily attention is required. This is not so laborious as it sounds. Ten or fifteen minutes given to the care of the hair will do wonderful things for it.

The hair cannot be healthy if the scalp is tight and drawn. It is, therefore, necessary to massage the scalp. Use the tips of the fingers for the massage, and if the hair is dry, rub into the roots a little cantor oil or vaseline. After the massage brush the hair well to promote its growth. Use a brush with long, firm bristics. Another important thing to remember is to keep your brush and comb perfectly clean.

your brush and comb perfectly clean.

Keep your hands in such splendid condition that you will never need to be ashamed of them. Take a few minutes each day to manicure your nails and never fall to apply a lotion to the skin before retiring, so that it will be kept soft and white. It may be necessary for you to visit a manicurist twice a month in order to have the nails properly shaped and the cuticle trimmed if necessary. I never advise the cutting of the cuticle if it can possibly be avoided. Apply cold cream or sweet almond oil to the bare and sides of the nails before retiring, and in the morning push back the retiring, and in the morning push back the cuticle with the blunt end of an orange stick, and in time the half-moons will stay revealed without having to cut the cuticle

If the body is to be kept in a clean, healthy condition the daily bath is a duty that should never be overlooked. A sait rub will do much toward increasing the circulation and energy, while a cold shower is excellent for the person whose nerves are Make a firm resolution to carry out faithfully the duties which are so necessary to health, beauty and happiness.

(Copyright.) Largest Steam Hammer

TODAY'S FASHION

Moleskin coat with trimmings of gray fox.

A YOUTHFUL fur coat is hard to find, but this charming model was designed for the girl who is yet in her teens. It is of moleskin cut in fiaring lines with set-in sleeves. A generous collar and muff-cuffs of gray fox add to the youthful appearance of the coat. The lining is of a soft, figured silk of a crepe weave, having a background of pale amethyst with purplish-blue flowers scattered over its surface.

(Copyright.)

Mountain climbing in Japan was for-merly almost exclusively limited to the dosha or pilgrims, who ascended a peak

PLANS FOR SOUSA'S BIRTHDAY

Bandmasters and Composers to Join Celebration in Honor of the March King

Preparations have begun at the Me politan Opera House for the calebration John Philip Bouna's birthday, which he November & White 'Hip Hip Hoor was at the New York Hippogroms season the bandmaster's antiversary made memorable in many ways. Each the twelve hundred odd employees of big institution contributed a dime and coins were fashlened into a beautiful which is one of Mr. Sousa's most greprized possessions. Congratulations read then his latest composition.

A feature of this year's ob
be the presence at the Metro;
House on the birthday afterno
ber of the country's famous or band leaders, who in success duct the band in its perform March King's most recent n Boy Scouta," the march while to and has become the off the Boy Scouta' Organization

EMPIRE CLEANERS 48 80. STR ST

The action of a LESTER keyboard unlocks all the riches of melody and harmony for, you.

> The LESTER keyboard responds to your touch with a quick, sensitive action, suited alike to the soft whisperings of a nocturne and the resounding harmonies of a grand march — or the swaying syncopation of the latest popular hit:

Those old familiar heart melodies we all love to hear, or that "latestout every body is whist ling, your can play your self to the great joy of your family and friends with the dash and feeling of a trained pianist.

F.A.NORTH CO 1306 CHESTNUT STREET

Please mark X after style you are interested in.

This is made possible by ful ease of

pedaling and the really mar velous range of accent which has been de-veloped to the highest degree in the Lester

Player Piano.

Selling direct

on easiest

terms puts it within every-body's reach.

Branch Stores: CAMDEN 816 Broadway TRENTON 209 East State Street READING, 15 North 5th Street F. A. NORTH CO., 1306 Chestnut St., Philadelphia Gentlemen: Please send me booklet and complete description of Lester Grand 🖂 Lester Opright 🖂 Lester Player-Piano 🖂 also details of easy-payment plan without interest or extras.