HENNING TO START FOR PITTSBURGH AGAINST PITT ON SATURDAY

Return of All-America Guard Will Give Workman Needed Rest

RED AND BLUE CONFIDENT

By NEIL MATHEWS
Captains of Penn's Football Team.
Dr. J. B. Carnett's announcement that Coach Henning, our star guard, who has been out of the game since he was operated upon for appendicitis, was fit to take his regular place in the Penn line-up against Pitt on Saturday came at the psychological moment. As soon as Doctor Carnett made his report to Coach Folwell, it was decided that he should start the game, and we need him badly.

Many Workman and Ertzevaag played splendid football against State, but the former is not in very good shape. He has been handicapped in his work by a stiff neck, but has quickly insisted upon remaining in the game until Line Coach Wharton could develop a man to fill his position. The return of Henning makes it unnecessary to seek a man to take a chance on an inexperienced man.

Just before the State game the Neill case aroused the men to fighting pitch, and now, a few days prior to the all-important battle with Pitt, the return of the best guard in the country has crossed the confidence and fighting spirit of the Red and Blue.

Wray vs. Peck
Henning's presence in the game will lighten Wray's work and he will be able to give all his attention to Bob Peck, who is rated as the greatest center in the game today. Relieved of the responsibility of looking after the center, Wray is believed to be in the best of his health.

Henning is a natural football player and never gets hurt. I cannot recall him being kept out since he has been with the squad, and I hardly think he will be injured against Pitt. Henning has the natural football instinct that enables him to protect himself, even in plays where he is taken to the center. He is a hardy player and he will have any trouble going the route.

Light to Start
Hobby Light solved the quarterback problem and he is going to be even better than before. The center, Bob Peck, is a big game as the pilot and he ran the team in grand style. He also has gained confidence and now knows that he is capable of doing the job. When the Penn team takes the field on Saturday every man in the squad will feel confident that the team will be handled properly and Light will be a great asset to the team.

Team Leaves Tonight
We will leave here tonight at 10:31, arriving in Pittsburgh early tomorrow morning. The entire squad will be in practice at Schley Hotel and we will practice on Forbes Field tomorrow. I have been told that it is extremely hard to judge a punt on this field and that the sun is likely to bother the backs on the line punts late in the game. Therefore the practice will do us a lot of good, aside from limbering up the muscles.

PENN HAS SCORED ONLY 45 POINTS IN FOUR GAMES

Red and Blue Eleven Is Down in List—Vanderbilt Leads With 208

With the football season nearing the halfway mark team scores and individual scores are mounting rapidly. The totals for five and six games reaching large proportions in some cases. Among the larger institutions Vanderbilt leads with 208 points; Syracuse is second with 190, and Dartmouth and Penn State are tied for third with 174 each.

Scholastic Fumbles
The Central High School second soccer team won the West Philadelphia trophy yesterday at Franklin Field 2 to 0. The game was a hard fought one, with the Central team showing a great deal of spirit and ability. The game was played at Franklin Field, while the Central team was away from home.

Cornell Honors Richards
The Cornell football team has a great shift back in the line for Friday's game at Ithaca. The team is in excellent condition and is expected to win the game. The Cornell team has been playing very well and is expected to be a strong contender for the championship.

WITH MANAGER HENRY BACK, CAMDEN QUINTET IS DUE TO HAVE VERY SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Team Works Out Twice Each Day at the Armory. Men Seem to Be in Good Condition—Doctor Helm Optimistic Over Season's Outlook

By SPICK HALL
The individual work of the Camden, Eastern League, basketball players last season was a revelation to their supporters and to the followers of basketball in the vicinity of Philadelphia. Yet with all of its brilliancy, the best Camden could do was to land third place with a percentage of .525, six full games behind Greyhound, the pennant winners for 1915-16.

Obviously, there was something wrong with the old alpha five. The records show that it was not lack of ability, for no team in the Eastern League recorded better individual marks than did our trans-Delaware River neighbors. Therefore there are but two explanations for their failure to at least make a bid for the pennant, which they did not do. The team was either not properly trained and handled, or it was a lack of winning spirit. Those in close touch with the Camden team are inclined to think its failure was a combination of these.

Henry Is Back
We were speaking with Dr. Charles B. Helm, one of the four owners of the Camden club, on this subject. This is his view: "Of course it is a hard matter to say why a team wins and why it does not. Sometimes, as you know, the breaks are against a man. I have seen our fellows go in and play what is really a good game, yet they would continually miss the basket by inches, while it seemed that their opponents could score standing on their heads. But these breaks do not come all the time. I believe the fact that Manager Henry was blacklisted and was not directing the team last year was largely responsible for our defeat last year."

"For this reason," continued Doctor Helm, "I think we will get off to a flying start this year. Henry has been reinstated and he is taking all the interest in the boys that a man can take. And he knows the game from A to Z. He has already had the boys at work in the cage for some time and they have shown an unusual disposition to work. I think that they realize they lost last season because there was no one to make them practice as they should and no one to run the team on the floor as it will be run this season by Henry. We have full confidence in Manager Henry, and, what is more, the players have that same confidence in him."

Working Hard
"The Camden players are working out twice a day now in the armory. In the morning they work alone, and in the afternoon they work under the direction of Henry. They have their signals down perfectly, and there is every reason to think that they will make a good start, and I hope a good finish in both the pennant race this season."

Looking the Camden players over in practice it was easy to see that Doctor Helm had the right idea on his mind. The team certainly appeared to be in fine physical condition and they worked like the well-known and easily duped Trojans. The lineup for the Camden team yesterday in practice was the same as it was last year, and the same as it will be in the opening game of the Eastern League. Roy Steele and Jackie Adams were at the forward points, Eddie DeLoe was at the center, and Jimmy Brown and Neil Diegan played the guard positions. Besides the five regulars there were Frank Creedy and Haney as utility men.

Great Records
A look at the records of last year tells just what the Camden team are capable of doing. Jackie Adams led the league in foul shooting, with 627. He had a total of 669 points, or an average of 3.35 per game for 200 games. Eddie DeLoe was second in the averages, having, besides the foregoing, 43 assists to his credit. Jimmy Brown led the league in the average column with 41.5 points per game. He was the only player coming within one goal of equalling Kane's record of the previous year. Steele was

GLENN S. WARNER

GLENN WARNER SIGNS FOR FOUR YEARS MORE

Pittsburgh Coach Will Have Charge of Football Teams Until 1920

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 25.—If any college or university ever had hopes of securing the services of Glenn Warner as coach of its football team at the end of the 1917 campaign, when his three-year contract with Pitt runs out, their hopes are blasted for at least four years more. The athletic committee and the veteran gridiron leader came together yesterday and mutually agreed, at the committee's request, to forego the old contract and take up another to begin at the end of this season and go through for the next four, winding up with 1920.

The matter had been virtually decided by the authorities before the Syracuse game, but was not broached to Warner until today. He quickly acquiesced to the proposition.

MUHLENBERG DEPENDS UPON "WHITEY" PRICE TO PRODUCE WINNING TEAM UPON GRIDIRON

McCa's Successor Working Hard With Squad of Thirty-five in Hopes of Having Team in Shape for Lehigh November 4

By ROBERT W. MAXWELL
They are working hard to develop a good football team at Muhlenberg College this fall. Every afternoon thirty-five players trot out on the field and run through signals until it is too dark to see the ball. Then they gallop around the track a couple of times and wearily wander to the gymnasium. After a good night's rest and some mental exercise in the classrooms they are ready for another day's work under the direction of Dr. John B. Price, better known in football circles as "Whitey" Price.

"Whitey" is the new football coach, having succeeded George McCaa, last year's tutor. He rapidly is molding the team into shape and hopes to have it in first-class condition for the Lehigh game on November 4.

Muhlenberg is in Allentown and all Allentown is interested in the team. The town is filled with boosters, and they turn out in full force every time the home team plays on the college field. Last year the eleven did not do so well, but with a change of coaches prospects assumed a more rosy hue, and the citizens now are referring with pride to "our football team." Only one game has been lost thus far, Villanova winning by the score of 3 to 0. Large scores have been run up in the other battles.

Students Attend Practice
The students at the college, too, are enthused over the prospects. Every night they turn out to watch the practice and urge the men on with their cheers and college songs. They show more college spirit at Muhlenberg than at any college I ever visited. Last Tuesday nearly 100 rooters were on the sidelines, and led by W. Gallenough, the cheer leader, and his assistant, H. Snyder, they tried out all of their yell until they were too tired to cheer above a whisper. M. L. Wucher, the song leader, assisted with some close harmony, all of which made things pleasant for the perishing athletes on the field.

Muhlenberg is not a young college, having been founded in 1863, but nothing was done in the athletic line until 1906. In that year Dr. William H. Reese, of Lafayette College, took charge of the chemistry and physics departments and in his spare time thought out a plan to put a football team on the field. He consulted Dr. J. A. W. Haas, president of the college, and afterward the football men were called out. Doctor Reese coached the first team and laid the foundation for the team in the future. He is known as the "father of athletics" and has done more for the sport at Muhlenberg than any other man.

Faculty Severe
There has been an impression going the rounds that Muhlenberg is lax with football play-

CHARLEY HENNING TO PLAY AGAINST PITT ON SATURDAY

CHARLEY HENNING, Penn's big guard, who was operated upon for appendicitis on September 23, will start the game against Pittsburgh. This was announced by Coach Folwell this morning.

Yesterday it was known that the star lineman was pronounced physically fit by the team physician, Doctor Carnett, but it was thought unlikely that he would be permitted to play. At best it was believed that Henning would not see active service until the day of the Dartmouth game.

It will be recalled that Brickley, who was stricken early in the season, did not play until the final game of the year with Harvard, and then he went in for only a few minutes. His part was very light, merely aiding in carrying out a couple of trick plays from kick formations. It was more for sentimental reasons than for the real need of Brickley.

Henning recovered rapidly from the operation and in less than two weeks was able to walk. A few days later he was on the field and for more than a week he has been out in football togs. He has shown up so well in practice that Folwell was anxious to give him a chance. The moment Doctor Carnett pronounced him ready for action Coach Folwell said he could face the Panthers.

Henning will replace Workman. The hard-

"YIM," ORIENTAL FOOTBALL PLAYER, TEMPLE REGULAR

Comes From Honolulu, and His Real Name Is Yamashiro

When Temple Prep takes the field with La Salle College tomorrow it will have in its line-up the first Chinese football player who has ever earned a regular berth on a gridiron eleven. Several Chinese have been candidates for various college teams in years past, but the best any Celestial was able to do was to become a second or third string substitute.

The Oriental in question is called, for short, "Yim." His real name is Yamashiro, but imagine the students on the sidelines giving three rousing "Yiams," and then tacking Yamashiro on with its correct Oriental pronunciation.

Never Saw a Football
"Yim" never played football or ever saw the game before leaving Honolulu eight weeks ago to attend Temple. When he first reported in the gym for physical training Doctor Nicolai gave him 150 pounds of bones and muscle the "double-O" and immediately told him to report to Coach Geiges for practice. "Yim" went at it with a vim, and soon earned a regular position as left guard.

Prospects at Temple Prep this year are better than ever before. In other years Doctor Nicolai, director of physical education, was also coach of the football and basketball teams, but this year Coach Geiges is a graduate of the physical training department of the school, is in charge of the varsity and prep school sports, and as Temple University abandoned football several years ago, Coach Geiges is able to devote his entire time at present to the prep school squad.

This squad consists of about eighteen men, which is exceptional, in view of the fact that the prep course at Temple boasts only twenty-five students.

Some Cheering Section
Two of the other seven students are cheer leaders and the remaining five are the cheering section.

"Doc" Applegate, former Episcopal star, entered Temple Prep this fall and Coach Geiges gave him the job of directing the team. Around Applegate, who plays quarterback, the team's attack is built. Rhawn, Geisman and Phillips are the other backfield regulars, rounding out a quartet of fast and heavy men, all of whom can buck the line or skirt the ends.

Anderson is center, "Yim" and Dilauro guards, Kulp and McGough tackles and Jordan and Amos ends.

Although neither Coach Geiges nor his assistant, Smith, formerly of South Philadelphia High, would make any predictions, they are confident that the Temple lads will put up a hard fight against La Salle tomorrow.

Today's scholastic schedule consists of two soccer games, West Philadelphia High vs. North East at Northeast an Intercollegiate League game, and Germantown Friends vs. Havertown Friends at Havertown. An intracampus League game is also on the program.

St. Luke's decided not to enter a team in the Intercollegiate Soccer League, citing the number of entries down to three, Germantown Friends, Friends' Select and Havertown School. Friends' Select won the opening game on Tuesday from Havertown School, 10-0. Tomorrow only goal late in the game when he converted a penalty.

Soccer has become in recent years a very popular sport at local private and public schools, although during the regular football season little attention is paid to this branch of athletics. But when the gridiron season closes, positions for various soccer eleven will be very hard to win.

Drop kickers and long punters each year win the Intercollegiate Soccer League. In close games when a field goal decides the winner. This season it is probably Andy Gray, of La Salle, who will place himself in the net of fame. The ball has been booted over the crossbar from almost every angle. Some of Gray's kicks in practice have averaged forty, forty-five and forty-eight yards over the bar.

South Philadelphia High School not only has the best football team in its history this season, but the scrub eleven also shows signs of playing a great season. In scrimmages the first and second team have won all their games. The string team this year will come in handy for the beach next season.
