GERMANS DON NEW STYLE OF HELMET
The Germans on the Somme have been forced to follow the example of the other belligerents in adopting a headpiece to guard against shrapnel.

"PHILADELPHIA'S HAMMERSTEIN" AND HIS CONDUCTOR
William H. Rosenbach (on right) is planning to give the city real grand opera next month. On the left is Maestro Ettore Martini.

ENCROACHING ON COLORADO'S SPECIALTY
Here is a vista down Walnut street east of Seventeenth which reveals that canyons no longer remain a feature peculiar to the limitless west.

TINY FLAG MARKS LAST RESTING PLACE OF RICHARD HARDING DAVIS
The small clump of bushes on the left of the graves of his father and mother in Leverington Cemetery, Roxborough, is so far the only permanent reminder that the famous correspondent lies buried here.

BULGARIAN ARMY HAS BEEN NEWLY EQUIPPED AND OUTFITTED
Since the armies of Czar Ferdinand have come under the direction of the Germans, they have discarded the woolen-wrapped leggings and padded moccasins which formerly were a distinguishing feature.

BOY WANTED—URGENTLY
A druggist at Twentieth and Parrish streets wants a youth so badly that he has pasted this sign on all sides of his store, showing that the boy market has gone very short.
