THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

Those of you dear boys who wear patched trousers, please stand up. Those of you girls who are wearing the same dress you did two years ago, please stand up.

Thank you-you may sit down. My dears, you hear a great deal nowadays about the HIGH COST OF Some mothers (not your mother, of course) meet at bridge parties and discuss the terrible high cost of bread, and so forth. The cost of everything is going up.

Mercy me! Today we do not think of patching trousers.

Today sister must have a new dress for school-EVERY FALL. Today mothers (some of them) are too busy powdering their faces and attending bridge parties or card parties to put up their own fruit.

Today mother BUYS her bread. Bake her own? Mercy me, NO! Today father RUNS in debt to RUN an automobile. Today-see if you can't help poor, tired father get out of debt-if he

The following incident is a true one. It hap-pened on the occasion of the presentation of a cliding toard by the girls of Helena's club). crite following interest of the presentation of a sliding toard by the girls of Helena's club).

This slide was more important than the famous slide of Kelly in baseball. The stout lady laboriously climbed to the top and seated herself, quite out of breath from the exertion. She now prepared for her downward voyage. In the meantime preparations were being made to receive her at the bottom. But these preparations were in vain, for reasons which I will explain to you as you doubtless know, the heavier the body the greater the speed after it is once in motion. So it was in this case. Owing to the velocity which she gained in descending, we were unable to check her when she reached the bottom. She shot over the hottom of the board, between the hands that were outstretched to receive her, and landed—not un her feet as she should have, but in a seated position—amid the friendly laughter from the assembled multitude. Willing hands soon lifted her to her feet and found that she was unicipized. This could be expected, as the oarth at the bottom was raked up in order to prevent injuries.

Of course, I am aware of the fact that it is not could be carellist to juke about anything like

Of course, I am aware of the fact that it is not polite to juke about anything lite this, but as this was a young lady, with whom we are intimately acquainted and there was no lajury, I thought I was at liberty to describe it to you.

The next thing he knew he was asleep and the Fairy had to shake him to wake him.

Willie opened his eyes. Far away he could see the flames coming out of huge chimneys and lighting the sky for miles around.

"What is it?" asked Willie.

"What is it?" asked Willie. "That," said the Good Dream Fairy, is the factory where they make the sleepy powder which goes in little boys' eyes to make them go to sleep."
Willie felt some one shaking him. "Willie! Willie!" It was Willie's mother, and she had such a hard time to wake him up.
