

JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Subscription Dance to Be Held at Merion Cricket Club for Benefit of Children's Committee of Woman's Hospital—Other Matters Discussed

CHARITY affairs are starting up in earnest, let me tell you, and so you ought as well make up your mind to get the fact that for some time to come you will have to dig down into your pocket for a pocketbook, as the case may be, and hand out and hand out. And the wonderful thing is, no matter how many cents are gotten up for charity, there are always people who will take tickets and go, and everything of the kind is a success. Sometimes I wonder where on earth it all comes from, the sums taken at these bazaars, fairs, dances, masquerades, amateur plays—oh, yes, my dear, amateur plays—are enormous, and every one swallows all the amateurism for sweet charity. Isn't it a wonderful thing? But that to which I would refer now is not an amateur performance, but a dance pure and simple, and you know the madcos have decided that the more you dance the healthier you are, so go to it and help the children of the Woman's Hospital, which invites you to dance on Friday night, November 10, at the Merion Cricket Club.

Miss Anna Binney Brinton, Miss Brinton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ferree Brinton, of St. David. Her engagement to Mr. Joseph Heatley Dulles, 4th, was announced last week.

A fair will be given on Tuesday, November 13, at the Stevens School from 3 until 6 o'clock by the senior class. Fancy articles, cakes and candy will be for sale and a fascinating Japanese tea room will be in full swing during the afternoon. Miss Harriet Smith, Miss Annetta MacFisher, Miss Natalie Hillard and Miss Alice Bushler are among the aids.

Mrs. E. Eldredge Pennock, of Greens street, Germantown, who spent last week in New York, will return to her home today.

Miss Katherine Van Dusen, of Chestnut Hill, left last week for Glenn Summit, where she will spend several days at a house party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sharp and Miss Rosa Sharp.

Mrs. Peter Reynolds, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., spent last Friday as the guest of Miss Marion Sharpless, at Wynocte. Miss Sharpless and Mrs. Reynolds left on a motor trip Saturday to Gettysburg. They will return today.

Mrs. I. Harrison Hutchinson, of Oakwood, left last week for Lakewood, Conn., where she will spend several days as the guest of Mrs. Knight.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kuser, of Bordentown, N. J., left last week for the Blooming Grove Hunting and Fishing Club at Glen Byrne, Pa., where they will occupy their cottage for several days. They will return this week and go for a shooting trip in New Jersey on Friday.

The first annual convention of the Woman Suffrage party, in the Third Legislative District, will be held on Saturday evening, November 4, at 8 o'clock, in the College Settlement, 433 Christian street, and will be followed by a reception to Miss Lida Stokes Adams, first vice chairman of the Woman Suffrage party.

The following speakers will address the audience: Miss Lida Stokes Adams, Mrs. Mabel Barry, leader of the First Legislative District; Mr. Isaac Zeitlin, delegate from the Progressive Circle; Mr. Alexander Burck, delegate from the Self-Culture Club; Mr. Harry M. Gerish, delegate from the Young Men's Association; Mr. Wm. H. Ginsburg, delegate from the Mutual Progressive Society.

Among the young women who will assist Miss Adams in entertaining are Miss Alice Rogers Smith, Miss Amy Smith, Miss Mary Bolster, Miss Marie Wiedstrom and Miss Gladys Watson.

One of the most interesting of the Hal-lowsen functions this season was the supper dance given Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. John E. K. Scott at Glen-hardin, the Scott home near Fort Kenedy. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Vane, Mr. and Mrs. William Vane, Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. George Scott, Mr. and Mrs. William Charles Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. McLean, Mr. and Mrs. John C. McAvoy, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McConaghy, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Mir-tenes, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harry Lang, Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. McLean, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Klander and Mr. Vincent A. Carroll.

Miss Margaret Henry, of 6232 North Broad street, entertained at bridge on Saturday afternoon at her home.

Miss Hortense Greenwald and Miss Harriet Jaffe gave a bal masque at the Logan Drawing Rooms, Broad and Ruscomb streets, Saturday evening.

Miss Clara Newell and Miss Elizabeth Newell entertained a few friends at a masquerade at their home, 818 Columbia avenue, Overbrook, Saturday evening.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Anna M. Rutherford, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Rutherford, of 4411 Pine street, and Mr. James M. Dugan, of Overbrook, Pa., on Monday, October 16, Mr. and Mrs. Dugan are at present traveling in the West. They will live in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. James Timman, of 1745 North Twentieth street, Philadelphia, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Laura Virginia Timman, to Mr. John Russell Erickson, of Long Branch, N. J.

The Rev. James Williams and Mrs. Williams, of Abington, spent several days last week at Easton, Pa., where they attended the dedication of the chapel that Mrs. Milton Colton, of Jenkintown, has dedicated to Lafayette College. In memory of her husband, the late Mr. Milton Colton.

Mr. William Kaufman entertained last evening at dinner in honor of his grand-daughter, Mrs. Joseph H. Gallagher, whose marriage took place last month. Mrs. Gallagher was Miss Ada K. Bachman.

A Halloween costume dance will be given at the Overbrook Golf Club on Wednesday evening, November 1.

Miss Margaret Gaffney is spending a few days at the Traymore Hotel, Atlantic City.

The engagement of Miss Florence May Benninghoff and Mr. Charles G. Maginnis was announced by Miss Benninghoff's parents at a dinner given at their Oak Lane home last Friday.

A Halloween masked party was given at the home of Miss Isabella Burns for the members of the W. W. T. G. M. Club and their friends last week.

Weddings ERICKSON—EVANS The marriage of Miss Mary L. Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Howell Evans, of 1210 Hazel avenue, and Mr. John F. Erickson took place on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Chapel of the Mediator, West Philadelphia. The Rev. W. Waagie officiated. The wedding was a quiet one, only the immediate families attending. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Erickson will live at 6020 Cedar avenue.

CONSERVATION OF EQUINE RESOURCES

know only too well what would happen when Blase Jones and Dave Law encountered the Lewis gang; the presence of Longorio's soldiers merely made more certain the outcome of that meeting. The general was furious; it was plain that he would not tolerate this expedition, the avowed purpose of which was to prove him a liar.

It would make but little difference, therefore, whether the quest for Ricardo Guzman's body had been successful or not; even the fact that this was American soil would not deter Longorio from violent action, for the Rio Grande was no real boundary, and this part of Texas was as truly Mexican as that other river bank which lay 200 yards distant.

A confusion of such thoughts was racing through Alaire's mind as she felt her way out of the boiler room and into that part of the building where the pumping machinery stood. Dusty, cobwebbed windows let in a faint ghost-glow of moonlight, but prevented clear observation of anything outside. Alaire's fumbling fingers found the latch of the front door and began to lift it, when some one spoke just outside the building.

"What did you discover?" inquired a voice which neither woman recognized. Paloma clutched blindly for her companion; the two eavesdroppers stood rooted in their tracks. The pounding of their hearts sounded loudly. Since the building was little more than a wooden shell, they could hear the answer. "The house is full of Greasers. I can't tell you any more."

A third man spoke, this time in Spanish. "That was Tad Lewis who just came, Alaire." Paloma placed her lips close to Alaire's ear. "Who are those people?" she breathed. "I don't know. They must be the ones who are in that strange automobile."

"Paloma chattered excitedly: 'Everybody in Texas is here. I wish we'd thought of scouter tactics behind us.' 'Cautiously they opened the door back and looked out. The open space along the river bank was leveled by the moonlight. From Morales's house, to their right, came the sound of voices. The women waited for a few moments, then a number of men appeared. Paloma judged there were at least a dozen, but she was too excited to count them. As they came straggling toward the pump house one of them called back: 'Morales! Put out your damned lights.' Both women recognized Tad Lewis as the speaker.

Alaire had stubbornly refused to charge her husband with any active share in this evil business, but her faith in Ed suddenly vanished when she heard him say: 'You'd better scatter out, too, for there's no telling where they'll land.' Alaire leaned weakly against the door. 'I'm going to leave and let you all attend to the rest,' she was saying. But Tad Lewis halted him as he turned from the group. 'Where are you going, Ed? You left your car back yonder by the road. I almost ran into it.'

"Ed? What are you talking about? My car is over by Morales's house." "Senor Austin is in a great hurry," sneered some one in Spanish. "Once more he leaves all of the fighting to his friends." "That's Adolfo Urbina," panted Paloma. "I know him." Stung by this open charge of cowardice, Austin began a voluble defense, but in the midst of it General Longorio addressed him sharply: "You will stay here, senor. Nobody leaves this place."

"I told you I wouldn't be a party to the business," Ed declared hotly. "You forced me to come in the first place. And now I force you to stay." Longorio's stand appeared to please Lewis, who chimed in with the words: "That's right, Ed. You've got to stick, for once in your life." "You mean, you nearly ran into my car back yonder?" Austin asked, after a moment.

"Isn't that your machine yonder by the thicket?" inquired Lewis. "If it isn't, whose is it?" As no one answered he started in the direction he had indicated; but at that moment a man came running from the river bank, crying softly: "Look out! They come."

"I'm going to shoot," Paloma Jones gasped, but Alaire, who once again heard the sound of whispering in the shadows just outside her hiding place, managed to restrain her companion. It was well that she succeeded, for even as Paloma raised her weapon a man passed swiftly by the crack of the half-open door and scarcely ten feet beyond the muzzle of the rifle. He was followed by three others.

The first of the new comers, acting as spokesman for his party, stepped out into the moonlight and cried loudly: "Hello, men! What's goin' on here?" It was an American voice; it had a broad, slow Texan drawl, and the speaker was a man of the group of plotters turned, there was a startled murmur, then Tad Lewis answered: "Hello! Who are you? What do you want?"

"I reckon we must have got off the road," announced the stranger. Then he peered out across the river. "Say, Alaire, that a skiff coming yonder?" he inquired. "Well, it don't look like a steamboat," Lewis laughed, disagreeably. "We're havin' a little party of our own. It rookum you fellows had better beat it. Understand?"

The outposts that had been sent to cover the bank in both directions were now coming in. Through the stillness of the night

HEART OF THE SUNSET

Alaire Austin, mistress of Las Palmas, one of the best ranches on the Texas side of the Rio Grande, and La Feria, across the Mexican border, is lost among the Mesquite bushes when her horse and rider are overtaken by a Mexican outlaw. David Law, a forest ranger and former soldier of fortune, is preparing his evening meal at the water hole when he notices the approach of the outlaws. He begins her to combat and pursues her with food from his meager supply.

Alaire, who immediately falls head over heels in love with Alaire when she meets him in the effort to obtain restitution for the ranches of the Mexicans on her La Feria estate. This he accomplishes, and more so, and Alaire finds it difficult to word of his advances without smiling him.

Alaire's daughter, Paloma near Las Palmas, and when Dave arrives in the vicinity to investigate outfit thefts he moves his horse there. Dave's friend, who is in the company of the Mexican outlaw, makes the ranger promise never to marry before first speaking to him about it.

Alaire's character is made more complex by the murder of her cousin, David Law, a forest ranger and former soldier of fortune, who is the partner of "Ed" Austin, Urbina, one of the outlaws who has been captured by the forest ranger. When Dave returns from his fruitless trip to Pueblo in search of Urbina, Blase Jones tells him of his capture and the fact that he has been taken to a place where he is being held.

Alaire's character is made more complex by the murder of her cousin, David Law, a forest ranger and former soldier of fortune, who is the partner of "Ed" Austin, Urbina, one of the outlaws who has been captured by the forest ranger. When Dave returns from his fruitless trip to Pueblo in search of Urbina, Blase Jones tells him of his capture and the fact that he has been taken to a place where he is being held.

Alaire's character is made more complex by the murder of her cousin, David Law, a forest ranger and former soldier of fortune, who is the partner of "Ed" Austin, Urbina, one of the outlaws who has been captured by the forest ranger. When Dave returns from his fruitless trip to Pueblo in search of Urbina, Blase Jones tells him of his capture and the fact that he has been taken to a place where he is being held.

Alaire's character is made more complex by the murder of her cousin, David Law, a forest ranger and former soldier of fortune, who is the partner of "Ed" Austin, Urbina, one of the outlaws who has been captured by the forest ranger. When Dave returns from his fruitless trip to Pueblo in search of Urbina, Blase Jones tells him of his capture and the fact that he has been taken to a place where he is being held.

Alaire's character is made more complex by the murder of her cousin, David Law, a forest ranger and former soldier of fortune, who is the partner of "Ed" Austin, Urbina, one of the outlaws who has been captured by the forest ranger. When Dave returns from his fruitless trip to Pueblo in search of Urbina, Blase Jones tells him of his capture and the fact that he has been taken to a place where he is being held.

Alaire's character is made more complex by the murder of her cousin, David Law, a forest ranger and former soldier of fortune, who is the partner of "Ed" Austin, Urbina, one of the outlaws who has been captured by the forest ranger. When Dave returns from his fruitless trip to Pueblo in search of Urbina, Blase Jones tells him of his capture and the fact that he has been taken to a place where he is being held.

Alaire's character is made more complex by the murder of her cousin, David Law, a forest ranger and former soldier of fortune, who is the partner of "Ed" Austin, Urbina, one of the outlaws who has been captured by the forest ranger. When Dave returns from his fruitless trip to Pueblo in search of Urbina, Blase Jones tells him of his capture and the fact that he has been taken to a place where he is being held.

Alaire's character is made more complex by the murder of her cousin, David Law, a forest ranger and former soldier of fortune, who is the partner of "Ed" Austin, Urbina, one of the outlaws who has been captured by the forest ranger. When Dave returns from his fruitless trip to Pueblo in search of Urbina, Blase Jones tells him of his capture and the fact that he has been taken to a place where he is being held.

Alaire's character is made more complex by the murder of her cousin, David Law, a forest ranger and former soldier of fortune, who is the partner of "Ed" Austin, Urbina, one of the outlaws who has been captured by the forest ranger. When Dave returns from his fruitless trip to Pueblo in search of Urbina, Blase Jones tells him of his capture and the fact that he has been taken to a place where he is being held.

Alaire's character is made more complex by the murder of her cousin, David Law, a forest ranger and former soldier of fortune, who is the partner of "Ed" Austin, Urbina, one of the outlaws who has been captured by the forest ranger. When Dave returns from his fruitless trip to Pueblo in search of Urbina, Blase Jones tells him of his capture and the fact that he has been taken to a place where he is being held.

Alaire's character is made more complex by the murder of her cousin, David Law, a forest ranger and former soldier of fortune, who is the partner of "Ed" Austin, Urbina, one of the outlaws who has been captured by the forest ranger. When Dave returns from his fruitless trip to Pueblo in search of Urbina, Blase Jones tells him of his capture and the fact that he has been taken to a place where he is being held.

Alaire's character is made more complex by the murder of her cousin, David Law, a forest ranger and former soldier of fortune, who is the partner of "Ed" Austin, Urbina, one of the outlaws who has been captured by the forest ranger. When Dave returns from his fruitless trip to Pueblo in search of Urbina, Blase Jones tells him of his capture and the fact that he has been taken to a place where he is being held.

Alaire's character is made more complex by the murder of her cousin, David Law, a forest ranger and former soldier of fortune, who is the partner of "Ed" Austin, Urbina, one of the outlaws who has been captured by the forest ranger. When Dave returns from his fruitless trip to Pueblo in search of Urbina, Blase Jones tells him of his capture and the fact that he has been taken to a place where he is being held.

Alaire's character is made more complex by the murder of her cousin, David Law, a forest ranger and former soldier of fortune, who is the partner of "Ed" Austin, Urbina, one of the outlaws who has been captured by the forest ranger. When Dave returns from his fruitless trip to Pueblo in search of Urbina, Blase Jones tells him of his capture and the fact that he has been taken to a place where he is being held.

Alaire's character is made more complex by the murder of her cousin, David Law, a forest ranger and former soldier of fortune, who is the partner of "Ed" Austin, Urbina, one of the outlaws who has been captured by the forest ranger. When Dave returns from his fruitless trip to Pueblo in search of Urbina, Blase Jones tells him of his capture and the fact that he has been taken to a place where he is being held.

AMERICAN AMBULANCE WORK IN MOTION FILM

Considerable public interest is being manifested in three benefit presentations of "Our American Boys in France," a film portraying the work of the American Ambulance Hospital service.

The proceeds will be devoted to the hospital service and the productions will be offered by the Triangle Film Company under the auspices of the French Division of the emergency aid committee. The first benefit presentation will take place on the afternoon of November 20 at the Merion Cricket Club and the second on the evening of that date. On the afternoon of November 21 the film will be shown at the Forrest Theater. On Sunday, November 19, the "movie" will be produced at the home of Mrs. E. T. Stotestrey, 1215 Walnut street, but this will be a purely social affair, to be attended only by invitation. Young men who have worked in the service will speak on each occasion.

Among the women of social prominence who are working to make the undertaking a success are Mrs. Cornelius Stevenson, Mrs. Joseph Leidy, Mrs. Charles M. Lea, Mrs. Eleanor H. Hopkins, Mrs. Harold Yarnall, Mrs. C. Leland Harrison, Miss Mary Montgomery, Mrs. Charles W. Henry, Miss Letitia McKim, Mrs. Barclay Warburton and Mrs. Arthur de Heeren.

Two Cornerstones Laid for Memorial Churches Episcopalians Honor George C. Thomas, Presbyterians John C. T. Liggett

A $150,000 Episcopal Memorial to George C. Thomas and a $50,000 Presbyterian Memorial to John C. Taggart, Liggett have been begun. They are churches, the cornerstone-laying ceremonies were held yesterday.

The Episcopal Memorial is being built at Fifty-first and Spruce streets for the Chapel of the Mediator, the Presbyterian at Fifty-seventh street and Washington street. The latter will be for the Ninth Presbyterian Church.

Bishop Garland and Bishop Brent, of the Philippines, were the active participants in the Episcopal ceremony, both telling of the great work Mr. Thomas did in the Holy Apostles' parish at Twenty-first and Christian streets, and of his interest in missions.

Bishop Brent gave to Mr. Thomas credit for beginning Episcopal missionary work in the Philippines.

At the Ninth Presbyterian Church addresses were made by the Rev. Dr. David S. Kennedy, the Rev. Dr. John Axford Higgins, pastor of the church, and Craig N. Liggett, who laid the cornerstone.

The memorial building, which will cost $50,000, adjoins a Sunday school building and a manse dedicated a few years ago. A cost of $80,000, making the total cost of the church property $130,000. Mr. and Mrs. Liggett and their son Robert are erecting the church as a memorial to John D. Taggart Liggett, another son, who died two years ago. The church will be completed by spring.

To Dine Joseph McLaughlin National President of A. O. H. Will Be Entertained at Social Function Tonight

Joseph McLaughlin, national president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, will be honored with a banquet tonight by more than 1000 of his admirers. The banquet is to be held at Scotch Rite Hall, Broad and Race streets. Mr. McLaughlin has been identified with Hibernianism for many years and has served the A. O. H. as county president, state president, national vice president and national president.

The men who have been most active in arranging the dinner are Register of Wills James E. Sheehan, who is chairman; Judge Hugh C. Bonnell, vice chairman; Michael J. Fogarty, Bryan J. Tansey and Patrick Fitzgerald.

Mr. Sheehan will speak, as will Judge Bonnell, John A. Gillen and Daniel Harron.

Will Erect Muhlenberg Statue A heroic statue of Henry Melchior Muhlenberg, the Patriarch of the Lutheran Church in America, preaching the word of God, will be erected on the Parkway if the city authorities give permission and dedicated October 31, 1917, at the culmination of the Jubilee year celebrating the 100th anniversary of the Protestant Reformation. Announcement of this was made by the Rev. Dr. I. Chantry Hoffman, president of the Reformation Celebration Committee last night at a Reformation festival service in the Metropolitan Opera House.

What's Doing Tonight Lectures on "City Planning," by Dr. Jan C. Harrison, Director of the University of Pennsylvania, will be given at 8 o'clock tonight at the National Academy of Arts and Sciences, 1300 Locust street. The speaker will discuss the city of Philadelphia and its future.

What's Doing Tonight Lectures on "City Planning," by Dr. Jan C. Harrison, Director of the University of Pennsylvania, will be given at 8 o'clock tonight at the National Academy of Arts and Sciences, 1300 Locust street. The speaker will discuss the city of Philadelphia and its future.

What's Doing Tonight Lectures on "City Planning," by Dr. Jan C. Harrison, Director of the University of Pennsylvania, will be given at 8 o'clock tonight at the National Academy of Arts and Sciences, 1300 Locust street. The speaker will discuss the city of Philadelphia and its future.

What's Doing Tonight Lectures on "City Planning," by Dr. Jan C. Harrison, Director of the University of Pennsylvania, will be given at 8 o'clock tonight at the National Academy of Arts and Sciences, 1300 Locust street. The speaker will discuss the city of Philadelphia and its future.

Home-Made Bread Costs 36% Less

A 12-oz. loaf of baker's bread costs 5 cents. A 12-oz. loaf of home-made bread, baked in a gas range, costs 3-2/10 cents, or a saving of 36 per cent. on each loaf.

We are demonstrating this saving daily in our show window at Broad and Arch Streets and at the Pure Food Show at Horticultural Hall (Broad Street below Locust.) By actual test we are showing that

Have a "U. G. I." Instructor call at your home.

A baking of four 12-oz. loaves of home-made bread costs—

27 oz. best bread flour 9-5/10 cents
1/2 yeast cake 1 cent
Gas consumed (22 cubic feet) 2-2/10 cents

Four loaves cost 12-7/10 cents
One loaf costs 3-2/10 cents

Your family will prefer home-made bread. We shall be glad to send an instructor to your own home to show how simple and economical it is to always have good bread. This service is absolutely free. Write, phone or call at any of our stores.

THE UNITED GAS IMPROVEMENT CO.

Wanamaker Institute 252 & WALNUT STREETS
Cost of Tuition (Day Courses) for term of 24 weeks—Bookkeeping $25, Penmanship $25, Typing $25, Stenography $25, Dressmaking $25. Min. $140. May be paid in installments. Cost for Night Courses $8 to $15 per term of 16 weeks—Language, Music, Business, Industrial, Locky & other courses. Ph. or write for Cat. E.

Stammering—Speech Defects corrected. LIP READING for adult deaf and blind. 1111 Chestnut St., C. M. Reed, Pres.

Strayer's Business College 801-807 CHESTNUT ST., PHILA.
New students received now. Catalogue free.

RIVEIRO SCHOOL Languages and Translations 1611 CHESTNUT ST. Telephone Spruce 1517

DANCING ASHER'S COR. 222 AND WALNUT STS. Phila. Pa. Evs. 8:30
HALL CAN BE RENTED SWIMMING SCHOOL OPEN ALL YEAR

Home-Made Bread Costs 36% Less

A 12-oz. loaf of baker's bread costs 5 cents. A 12-oz. loaf of home-made bread, baked in a gas range, costs 3-2/10 cents, or a saving of 36 per cent. on each loaf.

We are demonstrating this saving daily in our show window at Broad and Arch Streets and at the Pure Food Show at Horticultural Hall (Broad Street below Locust.) By actual test we are showing that

Have a "U. G. I." Instructor call at your home.

A baking of four 12-oz. loaves of home-made bread costs—

27 oz. best bread flour 9-5/10 cents
1/2 yeast cake 1 cent
Gas consumed (22 cubic feet) 2-2/10 cents