the season and from now on let the other teams beware.

Willie Crowell, head coach, has been accorded to been having his iroubles with the football team this peen working with the squad, trying in vain to get together a winning combination to ombat the strong teams which appeared on the schedule. Fordham came first, and the result was a scoreless tie. That did not cause much rejoicing among the students, and when Swarthmore appeared the next week and carried away the game by a count of 10 to 5, the first layer of gloom was spread. Then came Urshaus and another defeat, and by the time Pronceton for through with the team, every vestige of hope had fied. Last Thursday, not even the most sanguine would predict a victory over Lebanon Valley. All the followers of the claven could see was an unbroken string of defeats.

over Lebanon Valley. All the followers of the eleven could see was an unbroken string of defeats.

It was on that evening about 5 o'clock that the hoodoo, gloom, jinx, hard luck and everything else were chased from March Field. The daily practice was over and we were talking to Coach Crowell when a young rabbitt shot out from under the grand stand and rushed across the field.

Crowell stopped in the middle of a sentence and with more entbustasm than he had shown all day, said:

"Look out for Lafayette from now on. That rabbit was the most welcome sight I have seen this year, as it means good luck."

Harold Brown, the line coach, and Cap-tain Paul Taylor also said a few words, all of which convinced us that there either all of which convinced us that there either was all kinds of superstition at Easton. Or the rushing, jumping animal really was a mascot. The result of last Saturday's game is the first victory for the rabbit. No one knew how hard it has been to get a representative football team at Lafayette this year, unless one made a trip to March Field to look over the material. Never before has there been such a dearth of football men, and Crowell and his assistants were working day and night without accomplishing anything in the way of

They were Captain Paul Taylor, quarterback: Johnny Weldon, full and halfback:
Gulick, a guard, and Woodruff, right end.
The substitute material was not exceptionally good, so it was up to the coaches to build a team from the ground up. And it has taken four weeks of actual play to lay the foundation.

Started Early

Lafayette started practice on September 7 at the Water Gap and stayed there a week, when the squad went to Easton for the finishing touches. There is a sleep cloud of gloom which has been to be filled—left end—and Crowell is working over Lafayette College for the stand in the bear dispelled and joy and more than supraine. After four weeks the hardest kind of hard luck on the gridiron—loaing three and tying one football game—the Marcon and White came into the own hast Saturday and walloped the daylights out of the strong Lebanon Valley aggregation, the final according to the first come in the through the game came the turning point of the season and from now on let the other teams beware.

to be filled—left end—and Crowell is working on three man for the place. They are Ellis, the West Philadophin High star; grandes, of Ballinger High, and Thaxter, of Exeter. Thus far Ellis seems to have the call.

With Johnny Walden and Taylor in the backfield the outlook was not so gloomy, but it soon was apparent that it would be a difficult matter to find a couple of players who could keep up with the pair of speedy veterans. However, when all hope seemed lost Jack Diamend, who had been in the throes of a slump for two years, suddenly came to life and surprised every one by playing the game which made him famous in 1913. He has won a place in the backfield and Seeley, a freeliman, is trying hard for the other. Ellis, roo, is being used in the backfield and may be shifted.

The Absentees

There is a slender hope at Lafayette these days that Duke Lake and Johnny Seeley.

It must be remembered that last year It must be remembered that last year the prospects for a winning team were almost as bad as this fall. No one accorded the eleven a chance against. Penn, yet Penn was defeated, and when it came to the Lehigh battle no one had the nerve to say that the Maroon and White even had a chance. The result of that game still is in our memories and will ramain there as the biggest upset ever sprung in football. Lafayette won by the score of 35 to 3, and entered the game a 5 to 1 shot.

The winning of this game was due to an idea of Coach Crowell. He knew the strength of Lehigh and also knew that the students and alumni of his college would rather win that game than any other. Therefore, when State College visited Easton a week before the big battle, Crowell used strategy—and got away with it. He didn't try to win the game. He refused to take a chance with his regulars. He used his scrub team most of the time and picked out flaws in their play while State was winning by the score of 35 to 3.

The losing of this game served a double The losing of this game served a double purpose. First it saved the varsity men, and second, it gave the Lehigh players so much confidence that Tom Keady, who was wise to the trick, could not drive it out of them. As a result, Lafayette played the South Bethiehemites off their feet and won by a big score.

The ball was huried to all corners of the field long passes and short passes, and every time the pigshin started to fall, a Lafayette man was under it. Lehigh was amazed and then spellbound and before they recovered the game had been lost.

game had been font.

Crowell believes in open football and is willing to try new stuff whenever possible. He is a distinctly modern coach, and has the ability to get results when all hope meems lost. He is confident of defeating positions, and Ernst, a scrub last year, was selected for the other.

That left the canter position to be filled, and Crowell found if a hard 50b. After trying out several players, he picked Gallatly, the star tackle on Haverford School last year, and the selection has proved a wise one.

TOMORROW NIGHT'S GAME Reading at Camden Armory.

By SPICK HALL

Although the majority of basketball en are inclined to believe that the doubleofficial system is too cumbersome to be effective, the first try-out showed that it may be realized. Naturally one game is not a sufficient test; nevertheless, with Bactzel acting as referee and Rumley as umpire, the opening game of the Eastern League season last night at the Trenton Armory proved that under some circumstances, at least, two men can officiate and do it effectively in the same cage.

her they would have done if the contest had been close. As Trenton was always sev-eral laps ahead of the Musical Funders they did not worry much, either about the referee or the umpire.

More Tests Needed

Several games will have to be played under the new system to ascertain the real merits. If there be any, in the two-man officiating system. Those who saw the opening fray at the big armory in Trenton, where almost 4000 gathered to see the cage men in action, were not inclined to pay much attention to the work of either the referee or the umpire. But if the game had been one of those in which a point one way or the other would have turned victory into defeat, there is no doubt that there would have been trouble on one of the decisions.

Curlette, who tossed the fouls for Trenton, overstepped the lines on one of his

Umps in Background

Umps in Background

Throughout the game Bastzel followed the balk while Rumley stood in the background and saw fouls which the referee was unable to see. This was particularly true when the ball was tossed at center and from scrimmage. During the career of the Eastern League more uncalled fouls have occurred when the ball was being tossed up than under all other conditions of play. The reason is of course, that the referee is forced to follow the ball with his eye when he throws it up. This gives the men whom he cannot see a chance to knee, elbow and commit other fouls without his being able to see them.

Last night some of these tricks were tried again, but Umpire Rumley was on the job and on each occasion gave the offended side a free shot. Of the forty-nine fouls called, twenty-five on Trenton and twenty-four on De Nert, thirty occurred in the first half. After the players saw that both of the officials had their eyes open they began to realize that it was useless to try to pull anything over.

There is no doubt that there will be more fouls called than usual under this new officialing system is the first few games, but latter on, if the ayustam is retained, infractions of the rules will become less and issu until they reach a very small figure. That is the one best feature of the system, for it will put a greater premium on field goals, which have always been at a discount because of the great chance for a team to stay in the line-up.

With these stars back is the game and a week in which to get working together with the regular team. Northeast will prove a most formidable opponent for South Philadelphia High, present favorite for the Gimbel Cup. NEW YORK, Oct. M.—The official list of requests made by the Brassball Playsus. Fraternity to the National Commission and the National Board of Arbitration for concessions to its members has been outlined by President David L. Pultz, of the fraternity as follows:

"First. That clauses in baseball contracts empowering clubs to suspend without pay, after certain periods of drability, players who are injured in service be eliministed, and that such players be entitled to full pay as long as they are held under contract.

"Second. That Rule 3s of the rules and regulations of the National Board be amended in so far as it viciates section marked first of the fraternity agreement.

"Third. That minor legsue players receive their traveling expenses from their homes to the training camps when reporting for approaching practice.

That the board shall enforce its award against the citabs."

In a brief supporting the fraternity's petition. President Fultz acting for the board of directors, states in part, referring to the various requests.

"Request 1—There exists today in many of the minor league continuous and in some of those of the American League a clause allowing clubs to suspend without pay a player who has been disabled on the field. "We believe that this rule is unjust to the player, in that it deprives him of the opportunity of carning his livelihood, not because of any breach of discipline on his part, not because he has neglected in any way to do his full duty, but because he, engaged in a dangerous occupation, disregarding his own welfare in his excessive garding his own welfare in his excessive and in the furtherance of that desire which has brought injury upon him. We believe that the worst treatment a player in this situation should receive is his unconditional release, or, in other words, his discharge, if the club does not wish to pay his salary. By the clause under consideration, however, a club is allowed to retain title to the player, pravent his going to any other club and yet pay him no salary."
