

Evening ILLUSTRATED Ledger

THURSDAY
November 2, 1916

FIRST OFFICIAL PHOTOGRAPH OF THE HUGE CHORUS OF 1200 VOICES AT THE LYON TABERNACLE, NINTH AND WRIGHT STREETS, CAMDEN

Photo by William H. Rau

CAN YOU NAME HIM?

Here is a snapshot of one of the most widely known of Philadelphians. His face has been purposely made a little indistinct, but his figure and walk are familiar. Send your guess, if you wish, on a postcard to the Pictorial Page Editor.

HERE'S A MACHINE THAT GOES HENRY FORD ONE BETTER
This little contraption, which has just invaded Philadelphia, has removed the "flivver" into the ranks of high-priced cars. The new "automobile" sells at a little more than $100.

INSPECTOR GENERAL OF THE AMERICAN AMBULANCE FIELD SERVICE AT WORK
A. Piatt Andrew is in this country on furlough to raise additional funds for the American ambulance corps now in France. He will speak at the three presentations of the film, "Our American Boys in the European War," to be given this month. The photograph shows Mr. Andrew going in advance of the field ambulance through the ruins surrounding Verdun.

THE SMALL GAME SEASON IS ON
Jess Paizer took a trip down to Wrightsdale, Lancaster County, and in a few hours out in the bracing autumn air bagged sixteen squirrels.