SOCIETY will wend Hillward this afternoon, when Dorothy E mlen Newbold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Emien Newbold, will be presented to society at a large tea which her parents will give. Dorothy is the Newbolds' youngest child, and, in fact, one of the youngest members of the Dixon connection, though her cousin, Margaretta Dixon, has yet to make her debut. Her mother was Miss Rita Dixon, a sister of Mrs. Russell Thayer, Mrs. Percy Keating, Mrs. Linton Landreth, Mrs. Francis Alison, Mrs. Wilson Sharpless, George Dallas Dixon, A. J. Dallas Dixon. Thomas Dixon and T.

Henry Dixon. A most representative number of women will receive with Mrs. Newbold at the tea this afternoon; among them Mrs. Charles Herman Krumbhaar, Mrs. Edward Bell Krumbhaar, Mrs. John H. Packard, 3d. Mrs. Henry M.

Bangs, of New York; Mrs. Norris Vaux, Mrs. George Howe, Miss Anna Ingersoll, Miss Salvadora Meade, Miss Sayres, Miss Elsie Sinkler, Miss Julia Lewis, and among the debu tantes of this year and last who will receive will be Violet Welsh, Margaret Harris, Patty Borle, Katharine Lea, Mary Lovering, Gainor Baird, Elizabeth Trotter, Eleanor Pepper, Molly Sharpless, Alfreda Lewis, Emily Welsh, Lorraine Graham, Anne Lewis, Mazie Graham and Molly Thaver.

And, my dears, speaking of Molly Thayer, have you read her book? It's quite one of the cleverest little satires on society I have read for many a day. She has dedicated it, by the way, to her cousin Dorothy, and she calls it "Advice to Will-be Debutantes." It is a scream! She says herself in her preface that she does not wish to criticize society; that she realizes the value of such an institution; but she goes on to say: "There are certain whims and eccentricities, codes of manners and of morals, and a misinterpretation of values in society which we are apt to accept without question as a kind of unwritten law, because we see others accepting them in the same way. Some of these customs are entirely trivial and foolish. Others tend, as I have mid, to depreciate in our minds the meaning of true worth and honor; still others bind us down beneath a kind of petty yoke which we may dislike, but which we have not the courage to throw off"and a lot more I should love to quote to you had I space, but she finishes up this little prelude with: "Would we have returned from their wedding journey and the little prelude with: "Would we have returned from their wedding journey and the great of the prelude with the little prelude with: "Would we have returned from their wedding to the prelude with the little prelude with the littl society simpler and more sincere? Let

Then, my dears, the fun begins. She tells you how to act during a debutante year and, believe me, it's killing. Her description of a large dinner and of the Assembly, which she designates under "How to act at a large ball," is simply perfect. And, then, what the debutantes knowledge of history should be is rich beyond words. She advises the coming buds to familiarize themselves with all the horrors of torture ever inflicted on people throughout history. What they were inflicted for, on whom and when, she declares is of no consequence whatsoever. One paragraph says: "Learn the name of the prison in Paris. It is the Bastille. B-A-S-T-I-L-E. Remember that. If you do not know where some one was guillotined or stabbed or chopped to pieces, say the Bastille. No one will contradict you."

Another charming bit of historical information tells us that "Napoleon conquered everything, and then he began losing everything and finally somebody caught him and put him on a ship and took him out to sea and left him on an island. You see he did not have a boat and it was too far to swim ashore. He spent lots of time looking at the sea with his arms crossed. After awhile he

There are also instructions on how to behave at a dinner, how to talk while sating and how to eat while talking, Firting is also spoken of, and a debutante's necessary knowledge of art, music and literature. Don't fail to read the book, my dears, it is worth it. NANCY WYNNE.

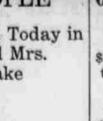

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Packard will give a theater party followed by a supper at the Ritz-Carlton on Friday, December 15.

At the dinner-dance which Mr. and Mrs. Isseph L. Woolston, of West Chestnut Arenue. Chestnut Hill, will give on Saturday of this week in honor of Miss Mary Hutchinson Lovering, 100 guests from the debutante set will be present.

Miss Elisabeth Taylor, daughter of Mrs.
Prederick Taylor, of Boxley, Chestnut Hill will leave next week for Yonkers, N. Y. where she will be the guest of Miss Marsaret Hubbard for a fortnight.

MRS. WILLIAM RAYMOND ERTEL Mrs. Ertel's marriage took place on Saturday. She was Miss Marguerite Littel where she will take a bungalow and spend several weeks this winter. Mr. Biddle is a member of Troop A, which has been sta-tioned there for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. George Brook, of Radner, will entertain at dinner tomorrow night, at Mrs. Edwin O. Perrin, of Scaradale, N. Y., who has been spending the summer at Saranac Lake, Adirondack Mountains, will come here this week to be the guest of her mother, Mrs. Austin Heckscher. The wed-ding of Miss Anna M. Heckscher and Mr. Richard Sidney Newbold will take place on Wednesday. Her sister, Mrs. Perrin, will be her attendant.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meigs, who have been living in Pittsburgh since their mar-riage a few years ago, have returned to Philadelphia and are spending some time with Mrs. Meigs's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Houston at Druim Moir. Chestnut Hill. Mrs. Meigs will be remembered as Miss Margaret Houston. Miss Margaret Housto

Mr. and Mrs. Hallowell Morgan, of Summit avenue, Jenkintown, will entertain at dinner at the Huntingdon Valley Country Club tomorrow evening before the regular club days

Mr. R. Ellison Thompson, of 1816 De Lancey place, who came up from El Paso on a furlough a few weeks ago, will return to the border as soon as he is pronounced fit by his physician. Mr. Thompson is a member of the First City Troop.

Dr. and Mrs. John H. Gibbon and their small daughter. Miss Marjorie Gibbon, of 1608 Spruce street, who have been spending the summer at their farm, Lynfield, near Media, will return to town next week for are spending some time as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ogden D. Wilkinson before occupyin their new home, 2031 Walnut street. Mrs. Headington was Miss Eliza-

Mr. and Mrs. William W. Adams, Jr., of Mermald lane, St. Martins, entertained at dinner on Saturday night at the Philadelphia Cricket Club

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer K. Mulford, of Ar. and Mrs. Spencer K. Mulford, of Church road, Wyncote, returned last week from Lodi. N. Y., where they spent several days with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Mulford, at the

Mrs. George Owsley and Miss Georgianna Owsley, who have been visiting Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Owsley at Rydal, have re-turned to Chicago. Mr. Owsley will leave

The Wyncote Bird Club met Saturday evening in Wyncote Hall. Mrs. W. B. Noble, vice president of the club, told the story of Bird Week at Buck Hill Falls last spring, the activities of which she super-intended. The Junior Club met at 10 o'clock in the morning in the hall, and the children were very much interested in making bird feeders.

Mrs. Arthur Colahan, of 7810 Lincoln drive, St. Martins, will entertain the mem-bers of her bridge club today.

Mrs. Cariton M. Moody, of 5822 Morris street, Germantown, gave a tea on Saturday atternoon in honor of her guest, Miss Caro-line Lewis, of Quincy, Mass. On Tuesday Miss Elizabeth Nassau will entertain at luncheon in honor

Mrs. Henry H. Doan, of 153 West Car penter street, Germantown, and Miss Katherine Doan, of Cieveland. O., formerly of Germantown, spent the week-end in Annapolis, where they attended a hop at the Naval Academy on Saturday. They were the guests of Miss Doan's cousin, Midshipman John Richardson.

Miss Gladys Stuits, of Morristown, N. J., who has been the guest of Miss Elizabeth Nassau, of West Chelten avenue, Germantown, has returned to her home

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Brown, of 2856 North Fleventh street, announce the en-gagement of their daughter, Miss Irene Tay-lor Brown, to Dr. Charles J. Watson, of the Frankford Hospital, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Watson, of 1420 Orthodox

Mrs. Charles J. Watsen, of 1859 Orthodox street, Frankford.

The marriage of Miss Tillis M. Ginsburg and Mr. Benjamin H. Cylinder took place on Sunday. October 22. Mr. and Mrs. Cylinder are at home at 2408 South Fourth

Mr. and Mra. M. Wolfschn announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Anna Wolfschn and Mr. Morris Kayser, on Sun-day, October 22. Mr. and Mrs. Kayser will be at home on Sunday, December 2, at 4415 North Seventh street.

Weddings

ERTEL-LITTEL Miss Marguerite A. Littel, daughter of ir. and Mrs. Albert E. Littel, of 123 South orty-seventh street, and William RZ/mond rtel, of this city, were married on Sat-day morning at the bride's bome by the ev. J. J. Melon, of St. Francis de Sales nurch.

ORCHESTRA GUARANTEE COVERS BAREST NEEDS

$500,000 Fund Asked Will Serve to Meet Fundamental Demands Only, Manager Says

The $500,000 goal set by the Philadel-phia Orchestra Association in its campaign to place the city's chief musical organiza-tion on a satisfactory financial basis will suffice only to meet the most fundamental needs of the orchestra, according to the manager, Arthur Judson.

Mr. Judson said today that a total fund of $1,500,000 will be necessary for that purpose. By attaining that figure a positive guarantee against deficits in the future will be received.

At the offices of the Philadelphia Orchestra Association, in the Pennsylvania Build-ing, many subscriptions, of various amounts, were received today. Some came from scrubwomen who added their mits to the collection, while larger sums were obtained from two the collection. from wealthy persons who could afford more substantial contributions to the cause of good music.

A Philadelphian whose name has not been revealed has made an offer to cover all deficits incurred in the course of the next five years if within that time a half million lollars to raised by public subscription. Many contributions are being made on terms of five annual payments. If, for instance, a thousand dollars is subscribed, the donor may pay $200 a year. Other piedges are being fulfilled in a single

"We shall not be content," said Mr. Judson, "merely to keep curselves going finan-cially. We intend instead to enlarge the acope of the Philadelphia Orchestra—to play the best music before a greater number of Philadelphians that we have ever played before in the past. In other words, we want to make music the great, living art of the people. And if the people will help that

ISAAC H. CLOTHIER IS 79

Merchant Observes Day at Home. Will Go to Polls Tomorrow and Vote for Hughes

Isaac H. Clothier, one of the founders of the firm of Strawbridge & Clothier, observed his seventy-ninth birthday anniversary yesterday at his home, Ballytore, at Wynnewood. Mr. Clothler does not favor elaborate birthday celebrations, and there was only an informal gathering of his fam-ily and a few friends. If the day had not ily and a few friends. If the day had not been Sunday he would have been at his office as usual.

Tomorrow Mr. Clothier will go to the colls at Ardmore and cast his vote for Charles E. Hughes, whom he recently com-mined to Abraham Lincoln "in his direct-iess of expression and his honest and easily understood language."
Mr. Clothier is a director of the Fourth Street National Bank, the Girard Trust Company and other corporations and is a runtee of Swarthmore College. RADIANT CHRYSANTHEMUMS

Show to Open in Horticultural Hall Tomorrow Will Have Fine Display of Autumn's Queen Flower

The Chrysanthemum Show will open to-morrow night in Horticultural Hall, Broad and Locust streets Thousands of plants from Wisconsin, Maine, Indiana, South Carolina, Tennessee and other States not usually represented promise to make the display the largest that has ever been shown at any of the previous exhibitions of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society. In addition to the chrysanthemums there In addition to the chryanthemums there will be magnificent entries of orchids, ferns, palms, roses, carnations, heliotropes and various foliage plants. Countess Santa Eulalia, George W. Childs Drexel, Mrs. S. R. Riddle, W. S. Ellis, George H. McFadden, John W. Pepper and C. B. Logan have placed many entries in competition.

WILLS BENEFIT ORPHANAGES

Hatboro Institution and Jewish Foster Home Get Bequests

age. Hatboro, Pa., and $200 to St. John's Church, County Derry, Ireland, are included in the will of Sarah Ennis, 116 Grape street, which, as probated today, disposes of prop-erty valued at $11,000.

An estate valued at over $120,000 is disposed of by the will of Frank Hansell, 4054 Spruce street, who died at Atlantic City October 3. The principal legatees are the widow and a son and daughter of the tea-

Bequests of $200 each to the Jewish Fos ter Home and Orphan Asylum and the Na-tional Farm School are included in the will of Jessie Lippman, 136 North Sixtleth street, who left property valued at $18,500.

Other wills probated were those of Wil-liam E. Dudley, Somerton, which, in private bequests disposes of property valued at $90,000; Charles H. Miller, 517 North Eighteenth street, $45,000; Michael Walther, 527 West York street, $4100; Laura Kell-ner, 3308 Hagert street, $2800, and Edward B. Cotterill, 2130 West Columbia avenue, $2000.

What's Doing Tonight

Philadelphia Music Teachers' Association tests, 1714 Chestnut street. Retail grocers meet, Bourse Building Musicale under auspices of Adath Jeshurum Assembly, Broad and Diamond streets; 8 o'clock. Lecture, "The Nature and Worth of Wit and furnor," by Professor Francis H. Green, Emanuel Presbyterian Cruech, Girard avenue and Forty-second street: 8 o'clock. Musical benefit for Children's Hospital, Eight-eenth and Bainbridge streets, and at Wynne-field, by Orpheus Quartet, ball room Bellevue-Stratford; 8 o'clock. Northwest Business, Men's Association, 2836 Columbia avenue; 8 o'clock, Free.

Passyunk Avenue Husiness Men's Association. Wissingming Improvement Association, omey's Hall. 3320 Vankirk street; 8 o'clock. Locture, "Italy," by Arthur Stanley Riggs, Witherspoon Hall.

MRS. WILLIAM LEFKOE

AS THE FAMILY SEES HIM

"Why don't you say good morning to your father?"

HEART OF THE SUNSET

By REX BEACH Copyright, 1916, by Harper & Brothers,

THE STORY THUS FAR

ALAIRE AUSTIN, mistress of Los Polimos, one of the finest ranches on the Texas side of the Kio Grande, and Los Pario, across the Marican border, is lost among the mesquite bushes when her horse falls and breaks a leg. After a territe struggle she finally succeeds in reaching a mater hole which she sud passed carlier in the day.

DAVID LAW, a Texas Rahaer and former spidler of fortions, is prejuring his evening meal at the water hole schen American spidler of fortions, is prejuring his evening meal at the water hole schen American policy of fortions is prejuring his evening meal at the water hole schen American policy of fortions, is prejuring his evening meal at the water hole schen American hardward, has dissipated his fortune and health. Afaire, opposed to divorce, lives in a section of the house apart from Ed. They seldow meal.

GENERAL LUIS LONGGRIO, head of the Mexican Federal troops, is a tail, sunceptible Latin, who immediately folia head-outer-heels in love with Afaire when she meat aim in an effort to obtain restriction for the ranges of the Mexicans on her La Feria selate. This he rankingly promises, and ware, too, and Alaire finds it difficult to ward of his advances without hashing him.

BLAZE JONES lives with his daughter Paloma near Lag Palmas, and when Dava critics in the vicinity in twentights eather theits he makes his home there.

ELLEWORTH, Alaire's attorney and Dave's good triend, makes the ranger promise mover to marry before first speaking to him about it.

The misner characters include Jose, who resolves a term of the Palmas, and when Palma and the control of the Control of the Control of him about it.

The misner characters include Jose, who resolves a term of the misner of the control of him about it.

A party of Americans lid by Bluse Jones and Dave raid Romero and bring the body back to American sell.

A later and Dave confess their love for each other. While Dave is in Brounswille, he calls upon Ellisworth, as he had promised, and tells the old attention of his intention to marry. El ing. "Phil was a perfect hero, for the ruffian was twice his size. Oh, it was an awful fight!. I hate to think of it."

"What made him pinch you?" Paloma

"Heaven only knows. Some men are dreadful that way. Why, he left a black-and-blue mark!"

Blaze broke into a cold sweat and cursed

"He wasn't drunk, either. He was just naturally deprayed. You could see it in his face."

"Well. I'll tell you. We chased him up across the boulevard and in among the tents, and then—" Mrs. Strange lowered her voice until only a murmur reached the listening man. A moment, then both women burst into shrill, excited laughter, and Blaze himself blushed furiously.

This was unbearable! It was had enough to have that woman in Jonesville, a con-stant menace to his good name, but to allow her access to his own home was unthink-able. Sooner or later they were bound to meet, and then Paloma would learn the meet, and then Paioma would learn the diagraceful truth—yes, and the whole neighborhood would likewise know his shame. In fancy, Blaze saw his reputation torn to shreds and himself exposed to the gibes of the people who venerated him. He would become a scandal among men, an offense to respectable women; children would shun him. Blaze could not hear to think of the him.

him. Blaze could not bear to think of the nim. Blaze could not bear to think of the consequences, for he was very fond of the women and children of Joneaville, especially the women. He rose from his hammock and tiptoed down the porch into the kitchen, from which point of security he called loudly for his daughter.

Alarmed at his tone, Paloma came run-

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES

Learn

AT THE

Berlitz School

1541 CHESTNUT STREET (Over Riker & Hegeman's Pharmacy)

By the Berlits Method students learn not only to TRIAL LESSON FREE

Wanamaker Institute SED & WALNUT

Cost of Tuition (Day Courses) for term of 44 wis -Bookkeep's $83. Sisnography $33. Bookekeep's & Stenography $45. Bookekeep's & Stenography 506. Dressmaking $46. May be paid in installments.

Cust for Night Courses $6 to $16 per term of $18 wis -Languages. Music, Business. Industrial, Cookery & other courses. Ph. or write for Cal. M.

Stammering—Speech Defects corrected: LIP BEADING for adult deef and hard-of-hearing. Philadelphia Minor Behnod.
114 Chestons areas. C. M. Redd. Free.

Strayer's Business College
SOLSOT CHESTNUT ST. FHILA.
Now students received now. Catalogue free.

Riveiro School 1611 CHESTNUT ST.
Spruce 1847
TRANSLATIONS AND LANGUAGES

AUTUMN RESORTS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.

Open at all seasons

A recognised standard

LAKEWOOD, N. J.

Terms may be begun at any tim read and write, but especially to understand to speak the foreign language.

ANGUAGES

feebly under his breath.

'How did you escape?'

CHAPTER XXII-(Continued)

VE had a long trip," he said somberly, "months—years long, it seems to me." "Well, thank God, you're back. Tell me, what did you find out?" Law closed his eyes wearily. He shook his head. "Nothing except verification I'm sorry I went. The Law blood is tainted, all right-it reeks. The whole damned outfit were crazy. On my mother's side, outfit were crasy. On my mother a sucthough, I'm healthy enough—and there appears to be some mystery or something queer about me as a baby. That's all I've discovered so far. But I've a relative in San Antone, a cousin of my mother's, who runs a curio stere. He deals in Mexican jeweiry and antiques, and all that—strange old fellow. He says he has a trunkful of stuff that belonged to his family, and he has promised to go through it for me."

"Then you still hope to prove "I haven't any hope. I've given up."
"Why?" Ellsworth asked, sharply.

"Because I know the truth. Because I'm going crazy. Fact! I can see it myself now "Why, boy, that's imagination, nothing

"Perhaps." Dave agreed listlessly.

reading everything on the subject of insanity that I can get hold of." Elisworth tried to laugh. "That in itself is enough to unbalance you."

"I'm moody, depressed: I'm getting so I imagine things. By and by I'll begin to think I'm persecuted—I believe that's how it works. Already I have hallucinations in broad daylight, and I'm afraid of the dark. Fancy! I don't sleep very often, and when I do I wake up in a puddle of sweat, shivering.

"And dreams! God, what dreams! know they're dreams now, but sooner later I suppose I'll begin to believe in 'em."
Dave sighed and settled lower in his chair.

Elisworth clapped him on the back.
"Come now! A perfectly healthy man could wreck his reason this way. You must stop it. You must do something to occupy your mind."

"Sure That's what brings me home. I'm going to the front."

"Yes. They're recruiting a rough-rider regiment at San Antone. I joined yes-terday, and I've come to get my horse." After a time Elisworth said, "Alaire has commenced her action." Dave took a deep, sharp breath and began to tremble weakly. "I didn't tell her, but—you must. We can't go on like this."

"Suppose I just go to war and—and don't come back?" thickly inquired the

"That won't do. You won't get killed—fellows like you never do. Wouldn't you rather have her know the truth than believe you to be a quitter?" Ellsworth waited a minute. "Do you want me to tell her for you. Dave?"

Law shook his head slowly, wearily. "No. I'll do it. I'm game. I'd rather she heard it from me."

Blaze Jones took the San Antonio paper out upon the perch and composed himself in the hammock to read the latest war news. Invasion! Troops! The Stars and in the hammock to read the latest war news. Invasion! Troops! The Stars and Stripes! Those were words that stirred Jones deeply and caused him to neglect his work. Now that his country had fully awakened to the necessity of R war with Mexico—a necessity he had long felt—he was fired with the loftiest patriotism and a youthful eagerness to enlist. Blaze realized that he was old and fat and nearsighted; but what of that? He could fight. Fighting, in fact, had been one of his earliest accomplishments, and he prided himself upon knowing as much about it as any one man could learn. He believed in fighting both as a principle and as an exercise; in fact, he attributed his good health to his various neighborly "unpleasantnesses," and he had more than onea argued that no great fighter ever died of a sluggish liver or of any one of the other file that beast sedentary, peace-loving people. Nations were like men—too much ease made them flabby. And Blaze had his own ideas of strategy, too. So during the perusal of his paper he bemoaned the mistakes his Goyarament was making. Why waste time with ultimatums? he argued to himself. He had never done so. Experience had taught him that the way to win a battle was to beat the other fallow to the draw; hence this diplomatic procrastination filled him with impatience. It searced almost transonable to ope of Blaze's interess patriotism.

"Oh, I've seen her, all I want to; and I heard her talkin' to you just now. I won't stand for nobody tellin' you—bad stories."

Goesn't—"

"Get her out, and keep her out," Blaze rumbled. "She sin't right; she sin't—human. Why, what d'you reckon I saw her do the other day? Makes me shiver now. You remember that big bull-snake that lives under the barn, the one I've been layin' for? Well, you won't believe me, but him and her are friends. Fact! I saw her pick him up and play with him. Who—ee! Tha gooseflesh popped out on me till it busted the buttons off my vest. She ain't my kind of people, Paloma. "Strange' ain't no name for her; no, sir! That woman's dam' near peculiar."

Paloma remained unmoved. "I thought you knew.

turbed him at first, but now an occasional word or sentence forced its meaning through preoccupation, and he found himself Paloma's visitor was a woman, and as Blaze harkened to her voice he felt his heart sink. It was Mrs. Strange. She was, here again. With difficulty Blaze conquered an impulse to fice, for she was recounting a story all too familiar to him. "Why, it seemed as if the whole city of Galveston was there, and yet nobody of-fered to help us," the dressmaker was say-manded.

"I don't know. He's queer—he's off his bean. I've had a hard time with him."
Paloma was in the carriage at Dave's side now, and calling his name: but Law, it seemed, was scarcely conscious. He had slumped together; his face was vacant, his eyes dull. He was muttering to himself a queer, delirious jumble of words.
"Oh. Dad! He's sick—sick," Paloma sobbed. "Dave, don't you know us? You're home, Dave. Everything is—all right now." "What is the matter?" she asked "Get her out!" Blaze cried savagely.

"Get shed of her."
"Her? Who?"
"That varmint."
"Father, what alls you?"
"Nothin' alls me, but I don't want that caterpillar crawlin' around my premises.
I don't like her."
Palema regarded her parent curiously.
"How do you know you don't like her when 'How do you know you don't like her when you've never seen her?"

Paloma snickered. "The idea! She Paloma remained unmoved. "I thought ou knew. She used to be a snake

"A-what?" There was no doubt about Blaze's hair lifted. He blinked through his big spectacles; he pawed the air feebly with his hands. "How can you let her touch you? I couldn't. I'll bet she carries a pocketful of dried toads and—and keeps live lizards in her hair. I knew an old voodoo woman that ate cockroaches. Get shed of her, Paloma, and we'll fumigate the house."

moment Mrs. Strange herself opened the kitchen door to inquire, "Is any-thing wrong?" Misreading Blaze's expres-sion for one of pain, she exclaimed: "Mercyl I Now, what have you done to yourself?" But the object of her solicitude backed

"Why, yes we have! I know you."

"Why, yes we have! I know you."
seamstress exclaimed. Then a you light flickered in her black eyes. "It to me we've met somewhere, but—I've so many people." She extended her l and Blaze took it as if expecting to the cold and scaly. He muttered somet unintelligible. "Twe been dying to see; she toid him, "and thank you for a me Paloma's work. I love you both for Blaze was immensely relieved that dreaded crisis had come and gene; wishing to make assurance doubly he contorted his features into a smile like of which his daughter had never and in a disguised voice inquired, where do you reckon you ever saw me
The seamstress shook her head. "I-

The seamstress shook her head. "I do know, but I'll place you before long. Ar how, I'm glad you aren't hurt. From tway you called Paloma I thought you we I'm handy around sick peopre, so I—"Listen!" Paloma Interrupted. 'Ther some one at the front door." She left troom; Blaze was edging after her when heard her utter a stifled scream and chis name.

Now Paloma was not the kind of girl to scream without cause, and her cry brough Blaze to the front of the house at a run But what he saw there reassured him me

But what he saw there reassured him is mentarily; nothing was in sight me alarming than one of the depot hacks. In a rear seat of which was huddled the flavor of a man. Paloma was flying down twalk toward the gate, and Phil Stranga waiting on the porch. As Blaze fluctured in the porch. As Blaze fluctured in the seat of the seat

What a pity she doesn't know that Resinol Soap would clear her skin

"She would be a pretty girl, if he wasn't for that pimply, blotchy complexion!" But the regular use of Resinol Soap, aided at first by a little Resinol Ointment, would probably make it clear, fresh and charming. If a poor skin is your handicap, begin using Resinol Soap and see how quickly it improves.

X.SMEPPARD & S

ALEX. SHEPPARD & SONS, Inc.

Philadelphia, Pa.

Fashionable Models in Black Kid

A Service Boot Every Woman Needs

$6

Trim, snug fitting, comfortable and serviceable. Every good feature is embodied in the almost endless variety of styles in fine black kid in stock in these two big shops.

$4.50 to $8.50

Plenty of tans in correct fall shades are in again, several with desirable buck toppings

The Harper Shoe Go. WALK-OVER SHOPS

IORR CHESTNUT ST.