Promoter of Organization Reported Slated by Tener as State Insurance Head

PLUGGING' LOST CHANCE

Millienairs grouped around the billiard table of the fashionable Duquesne Club of Pittsburgh in 1911 were offered directorships in the Pension Metual Life Insurance Company of Pittsburgh. Pa., against which a deares of dissolution has been asked by Insurance Convensioner J. Denny O'Neill. More than 1000 Philadelphia letter carriers and postoffice clerks are insured in this company. The company, which maintains a branch in this city, has a deficit of $1,-19,422,50

Unwritten political history dating back to the administration of former Governor Tener in connection with the effer to Pitts-burgh millowares to take advantage of a good in extment came to light today for the first size.

The proposition to become directors in The proposition to become directors in the Pension Mutual Lift Incurance Company, of which Lyndor D. Wood, insurance promoter, and often referred to as the "Insurance Wisard of America," came from one Perry Shanor, a resident of Pittsburgh. Shanor's missionary work in behalf of Wood, who at that time was getting ready to reorganize the company, resulted in fermer Governor Tener changing his mind about appointing him to the office of Insur-ance Commissioner.

USED GOVERNOR'S NAME

How Wood intended to increase the wealth of directors and other investors is still fresh in the memory of millionaire members of the Duquesne Club, to which Addraw Carnegie, Henry C. Frick and Charles W. Schwab belong. Some of the members of the club still recall that Shanor told them that the former Governor was interested in the company.

POLITICAL INFLUENCE

It was learned today that under the Tener administration the Pension Mutual Life Insurance Company was threatened with dissolution proceedings several times, but through mysterious political influence Pressure was brought to bear to prevent such steps being taken.

While the company was doing a rushing men steps being taken.

While the company was doing a rushing suriness in 1912, insuring the lives of men considered in the different industries that are surrough the lives of men considered in Pittsburgh and nearby, a measure over the long-distance telephone which the considered in Pittsburgh and nearby, a measure over the long-distance telephone which the considered in the Capitol reached a certain insufer warning him to get out because the Insurance Department was getting ready to take possession of the home office the company. Less than an hour after the message was received the director who realized the "tip" via telephone was on his way to the Capitol, where he was told that if he didn't wish to become mixed up a scandal ne should resign. This the director, who always fought Wood at meetings of the directors, did do.

Mr. Wood, who makes his headquarters seen in this city in the offices of the Considered Investment Company, on the sighth floor of the Finance Building, disalising any idea of "grabbing" a number of smaller life insurance companies through the instrumentality of the Consolidated Investment Company.
