An Entire Page of Real Worth-While Furs Attractively Priced for Tomorrow's Quick Selling

Ledger readers are people of known intelligence. Having intelligence, they read advertisements. Hence the phenomenal success of the largest Fur Advertising Campaign ever held in this or any other city. But to the ad in question—as this one interests us for the moment—this page is the guide and counselor of a small army of those who are planning to buy furs tomorrow. This ad whispers the name of the fur you have in mind—Fox, Seal, Beaver, Ermine, Mole, Leopard and all other desirable pelts.

As thousands of our patrons will testify, we have been in the habit of profit sharing. We find it pays—both we and you alike, and this is our line of reasoning: Many Sales—Less Profits—Logical, you will agree. Last spring, in advance of the rising prices, we bought skins—not a hundred or two, but thousands—and today we state without fear of contradiction that we have for your inspection tomorrow the largest quantity of made-up furs of any three retail specialty fur shops in Philadelphia.
