Once upon a time there were two brothers—the one rich, the other poor. The rich one had a fine house and servants, the poor one had nothing. One time the poor brother sent his son, Jack, who was very good, to get food from the rich brother. He would give him none. Tom was the rich man's son and would not give him any either.

ber who is very much interested in birds and goldfish. His fish are very tame and eat out of his ful? And it will be held in a big room all decorated with the colors of the Rainbow and you will all come and you will see ME and-goodness me, I never told you what we are going to EXHIBIT!

FARMER SMITH'S RAINBOW CLUB

That's the most wonderful part of all! We are not only going to have fun, but we are going to SPREAD A WHOLE GREAT BIG LOT OF SUNSHINE IN SOME VERY DARK CORNERS WHERE THERE IS HARDLY ANY SUNSHINE AT ALL.

A CHRISTMAS RAINBOW EXHIBITION

We are going to have a Christmas Rainbow Exhibition! Isn't that wonder-

To tell the truth, that is the main reason why we are going to have our WONDERFUL EXHIBITION.

WE ARE GOING TO EXHIBIT AND GIVE AWAY CLOTHES. New and old clothes for the little children who must suffer in the cold this winter if some one does not take the bother to see that their poor little bodies are warmly covered! WE, THE RAINBOWS, ARE GOING TO TAKE THE BOTHER!

Listen to the plan. I have thought and thought about it and I hope you will like it and, oh, I hope you will work ever so hard at the way you pick out. There are three particular ways in which our members may go about getting the clothes we will exhibit.

1. Little girls who sew can make flannel petticoats, babies' nightgowns, caps and, in fact, anything at all that they really know how to make or that mother will show them how to make. 2. Little boys and little girls who do not sew can collect as many old, outgrown garments as is possible. Everything from a pair of darned stockings to an overcoat will be acceptable. The only condition is that the clothing be clean and mended. 3. Bright Rainbows who know how to make candy can have a candy sale and buy shoes with the money they make. Branch clubs will be particularly interested in this announcement. Of course, you can sell other things besides candy, if you so choose, little dolls, for instance. Everything that is shown at the Rainbow Exhibit will be tagged with the name of the sender. Send all articles to FARMER SMITH, EVENING LEDGER. If you know of any deserving families in need of clothing, please send in their names.

The exhibition will open December 10 and will continue for two weeks. PLEASE HURRY AND GET STARTED.

Christmas is coming, and, oh, the wonder of it! And, oh, the happiness of it when we are helping others! FARMER SMITH, Children's Editor.

P. S .- If there is anything at all you want to know or you don't understand about the Rainbow Exhibition don't be afraid to write and ask. Oh, yes, and please write anyway to tell me that YOU ARE GOING TO HELP.

WILLIE WIDEAWAKE PAINTS By Farmer Smith

The night after the Mouth Painter had come to see Will's seated before an easel painting his own portrait, his mother came to tuck him in for the night.

"Kiss me, mother, dear."

It wasn't longer than a jiffy—it seemed Willie—before the Mouth Painter was bere him. "You have painted eyes, eyebrows and nose without much trouble. Now you have come to the mouth, which displays charac-ter more than anything else on the human face. "The mouth shows sadness or gladness, sunshine and shadow, lonesomenous or joy. The slightest mistake in painting your mouth on that canvass means to spell it willie looked up in wonder.

"Besides, the lips form the words you speak. In youth they resemble the petals of a rose. In old age they become straight, like the edges of a slab of marble.

"I have come to tell you this, lest your picture be apolled so that it cannot be hung in the Art Gallery of the World, where all good mothers come to see the paintings of their sons, who are, to all mothers, maints."

"Thank you," said Willie, when the
"Thank pour had finished.
"Take up your brown and proceed," fourmarging the offensor, Willia began, slowly at first and these faster and faster. In what seemed a very short while the mouth was finished. Then a strange thing happened.

to laugh! The Mouth Painter raised his hand as it to rebuke Willie. "Haste makes waste. You have painted the mouth of mirth. It will always laugh unless you can turn it down at the corners. Up means laughter and down means sor-

The mouth opened and something began

Willie looked up suddenly. "I know what "That is it. Now look very pleasant and paint your mouth as it looks now. That's it."

"Hurrah! I have it," shouted Willie "My dear, is this a holiday?"
Willie was a surprised boy when he saw his mother standing where the Mouth Painter had been.
