"HOW TO SUFFRAGE"

The re-election of President Wilson, Mrs. Brock declared, "is a blow to suffrage and a triumph for those opposed to votes for women..."

"Poh! It is to laugh," were the scornful words with which Dr. Eleanor M. Hiestand-Moore, member in the Woman Suffrage party of this city, met Mrs. Brock's statement...

"Suffrage is an issue all by itself. Mrs. Brock's attempt to link it with prohibition is ridiculous..."

MRS. DRINKER'S VIEW

Power, not weakness, was demonstrated by women in the election, according to Mrs. Frederick Drinker.

"The woman's attitude in the election," she said, "has made a great impression on the politicians..."

"Now that Wilson is in, we are perfectly satisfied and more hopeful than ever. Just as soon as Congress opens we are going to Washington to bring pressure to bear for the favorable consideration of the Susan B. Anthony Federal amendment..."

NEW YORK PRIZE STOCK AND STOCKINGS ON VIEW AT ANNUAL HORSE SHOW

Bell-Shaped Hats Replace Conical Toppers—Skirts Drop an Inch or So—Waist Lines Fluctuate

EQUINE PROGRAM ALSO

By GEORGE MARTIN NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The horse show, one of society's annual excursions for showing its prize stock and stockings, is in full swing today at Madison Square Garden.

Notable among the exhibitors is the erstwhile Eugenia Kelly. She is showing King Simon, her new hunter, and Al Davis, her new husband. Eugenia has had a great deal of trouble with both. Her mother registered front-paws objections to her marrying Davis for days and days, and King Simon tried to break her neck when she rode him.

Morning classes today were devoted to animals of special interest to breeders. High-stepping roadsters, saddle horses, pony teams, victoria and brougham pairs and water-jump hunters filled the afternoon and evening program.

Evening cravats are taut but not bolus-tous. Trousers have gone an inch below the shoe tops. So much for the men.

Black silk stockings are again quite au fait for the women. Their throats are throttled in circles of fur, preferably ermine. There are coats and scarfs and shawl-like wraps of it, too. And the skirts are so trimmed also.

Generally speaking, colors, both as to gowns and the garnishing of the garden, are a bit lower in tone than last year. Black and white, purple, gray and such like colors, our inheritance from the mourning atmosphere of Europe at war, predominate.

Skirts are longer by two inches than they were and the waistline is most anywhere.

COUNTESS BERNSTORFF NOT INVOLVED IN CASE, GRAVES, SPY, ASSERTS

Man Held in Alleged Blackmail Plot Hires Bodyguard, Fearing Assassination—Returns to New York

WASHINGTON IS STIRRED

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Armsgaard Karl Graves, self-styled international spy, who came here, following his arrest and release on bail in Washington on a charge of attempting to blackmail Countess von Bernstorff, wife of the German Ambassador, today hired a personal bodyguard. Graves declared that he had knowledge that his life was in danger.

Graves talked freely with interviewers today, and reiterated his declaration that he does not expect to be prosecuted on the blackmail charge. He is confident that the case against him will be stopped. The letters which were taken from him, he declared, contained no mention of Countess von Bernstorff, as alleged. He repeated that the letters were an inquiry from persons in Germany as to how much they were to receive from an alleged coup in the stock market following the visit of the U-53 to this side of the Atlantic.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The sensational case of Dr. Armsgaard Graves, "the master spy," under bond since Saturday night charged with attempted blackmail of Countess von Bernstorff, had today developed into that ancient problem: Now that they've got him, what will they do with him?

Washington, which seldom has been so thrilled by a mystery in its own midst, is waiting for Wednesday's preliminary hearing with great anticipation. Revelations concerning the secret service methods of the European governments are expected, particularly since it became known today that Count von Bernstorff had notified his Government that a sealed package directed to him by the Foreign Office had been broken open and part of its contents stolen.

Graves hints these letters are of the highest importance to the German Government; that they are the letters which be expected to sell to the Ambassador, not the letters addressed to Countess von Bernstorff. As for the latter letters he and embassy members are one in saying they contain nothing calculated to "embarrass" the Countess personally. The embassy has declared Graves thought they would have this effect and that he demanded money for them on that ground. Graves has made two statements in answer to this.

One is that the letters from a prominent German woman to the Countess contain hidden meanings and form an important communication from the home Government to the Ambassador. The other is that he knew they were of no importance and simply was exhibiting them to Foreign States-folks as proof that he had obtained possession of other mail for which the embassy would be willing to pay.

This is the One Most Wonderful Week of INTENSIFIED VALUES in WINTER OVERCOATS at $15

Perry & Co. has ever Prepared!

If we were to try today to duplicate the Overcoat fabrics in this assortment to sell even at $25, $22.50 and $20, we would fall down flat! It couldn't be done! And the reason is, that the prices on fabrics in general, and on all of these in particular, have soared simply out of sight; and besides that, the goods are not now to be had at any price.

Let us Repeat!

We simply wouldn't know where to turn to get them, if we wanted to duplicate these Overcoatings today even to sell at $25, $22.50 and $20! And that applies to the whole collection of 1800!

Here's the Range of the Fabrics and the Models

The Fabrics are fine warm weaves in almost every color, shade, pattern and mixture associated with a select stock—soft grays, Oxford grays, greens, reddish browns, heather mixtures, stripes, overplaids, dark checks, plaid back fabrics, with a variety of colors and shades in 26-ounce knitted fabrics. And the Models are their fit companions—single-breasted and double-breasted Overcoats, deep, roomy kimono-sleeve coats; slashed side pockets, outside patch pockets, regular flap pockets; convertible collars; staple Overcoats with button-through fronts and fly fronts; cloth collars and velvet collars—a wide range of models of unqualified $25, $22.50 and $20 fabrics and woollens, but selling for this

One Week Only at the Uniform Price $15

Our experience has been with our special Intensified Value Weeks that the sales increase in volume from day to day—more Overcoats sold the second day than the first, more each succeeding day than the day before, with a consequent thinning out of the selections toward the end of the week. Remember, not one of these coats can be replaced at anything like $15 either now or at any time now in sight. Which means that nothing can be gained by waiting for another day!
