FARMER SMITH'S RAINBOW CLUB

A FUNNY IDEA I was talking, my dears, with a charming young lady and I asked her what she thought of having a CLEAN-UP WEEK for our heads, and she said:

"What a funny idea! There is no sense in it." You know we have a clean-up week when everybody is expected to clean up his or her yard, paint the house, wash the dog and clean out the canary's cage. Well, I thought we might have a whole week in which to clean out the rubbish in our heads. These are the thoughts which come to us when we are alone and make us SHUDDER! These are the thoughts, black as night, which steal upon us in the darkness. Our heads get full of turmoil-in harmony-thoughts of sin, sickness and sorrow. Above all, we might dust our minds and clean out FEAR. Fear of sickness, fear we may have or get some terrible illness like somebody thousands of miles away. Let us think it over. Can we not put all our bad, fearful thoughts in the

"We meet every Friday night, answer Things to Know and Do, and play games. We expect to give a ministrel show, and we will have a donation for you; it may be small, but I guess it will be enough for a pair of stockings, anyhow. I hope we can surprise you! If you have any suggestions for our meetings or ministrel show we will be glad to hear from you and thank you very much, as we are all beginners. Our members are: President, Gordon Blair, vice president, Harry Hall; secretary, Christian Wirst; corresponding secretary, Christian Wirst; corresponding secretary, Wilfred Webb; ireasurer, Waiter Summers, Albert De Haven, Fred Griffills, Joseph Galiagher and George Zimmerman, More boys.

We are only too happy to think up plats for an entertainment for the "Rainbow Question Marks" who are showing such wonderful sairl about the Christmas Exhibition. As lack of space forbids our printing suggestions here, they will be mailed to the corresponding secretary of the "Question Marks" as soon as possible. Little feet are very much in need of warm stockings, and we can think of no nicer thing than for our boys to work to get them. Hurry up, other branch clubs.

MISTER ELEPHANT GETS BILLY

By Farmer Smith Ting-a-ling-ling! "That's for you, mother," said Billy Bumpus, as the jelephone bell rang.

"No, it's for you," replied his wife, going m with her dish washing. "No, it's for you-I can tell by the way it rings," answered Billy. "It is NOT!" "I say it IS!"

Ting-a-ling-ling | Br-r-r-r-r | "Now, Billy Bumpus, answer that "I tell you it for you, and I WON'T!"

Mrs. Bumpus put a dish down in the water so hard it squirted thirty drops of water in Billy's eye,
Then she answered the telephone.

Mrs. Bumpus slammed down the receiver and fairly shouted, "I told you it was for "It isn't."
"I say it is—some one asked for YOU;"
"Didn't!"

"Hello, hello, hello! Yes, he's right

"Didn't!"
Billy wiped the soap water out of his eyes ind went to the telephone.
"Helio, helio! Yes, it's me. I can't hear what! Yes, I can't hear very well. I got soap in my eye."

"Oh! it you, Mister Elephant. What can I do for you? "Certainly-delighted! I will come up right away."

"What does he want?" asked Mrs. "You should have asked him—you an-wered the telephone. He wants me—see?" "Yes, I can see; there is no soap in my yes," answered Mrs. Bumpus. Billy was soon headed for the door, glad escape another splash of dishwater.

"A nice way for you to treat your hus-band!" shouted Billy through the window; then he disappeared over the hill. Soon he was at Mr. Elephant's bungalow, "Good morning," said Billy to Mrs. Ele-phant. "Is that good husband of yours about?" Just then Bily caught sight of a pile of tin cans in the back yard. "Yum, yum!" he said to himself. "Ah, good morning, Mister Bumpus. I want you to get the rope out of my well for me."

"I guess you have made a mistake," answered Billy.
(But Mr. Elephant gets the best of Billy.
You just wait and see!)

Things to Know and Do Why is U the gayest letter in the alpha-bet? (Sent in by Wilfred Webb.)

know; but the fool horse won't go until he's stopped here the usual length
