FARMER SMITH'S RAINBOW CLUB

"MOTHER, WHERE IS MY——"

Dear Children—I wish to talk to you a few minutes this beautiful day (the day I am writing is beautiful) about having a place for your things. The cold days are here and you have more wraps than you have in summer time and some of you have rubbers. The funny thing about rubbers is, they are like sweaters, always getting lost. I think sometimes rubbers walk off by themselves. Then, some children, not you, of course, YELL, "Mother, where are my rubbers?"

Let us look at this thing in this light—Your mother did not wear your rubbers to school and she did not wear them home, therefore you are the one who must know where they are. It may seem to you at times that every time you put your sweater or rubbers down some one comes along and moves them. It may not be mother, but things NEVER seem to "stay put."

Let me ask you—Have you a place for your things?

I do not believe mother is so unreasonable as not to provide you with a place of your very own for your things. You usually find your shoes in the morning, why not your rubbers when you want them?

The more time mother takes in hunting for your things the less time she has to get you something to eat or to see that your meals are on time and properly cooked.

LEARN TO HUNT FOR YOUR OWN THINGS. Learn to have a place for them where you can put them and KNOW where they are. Some day the white angel may come and take mother away. Then you cannot yell, "Mother, where are my—" Perhaps then and not until then will you realize how many USELESS steps mother took FOR YOU!

With much love, FARMER SMITH, Children's Editor.

TOYTOWN NEWS

By Farmer Smith

"Santa Claus! Santa Claus!"

"Yes, yes," answered the jolly old fellow, looking down from his high chair at a tiny figure below him. "What is it you want, Fuss Button?"

"Please, please, Santa Claus, I did not mean to—I did not want to interrupt you. But please, a little boy way down on that speck wants a rooster."

The tiny figure pointed down where, far below, a tiny light was shining.

"Well, Fuss Button, is there any reason why the child should not be obliged? Is there any reason why we can't make a rooster for his royal highness?"

"I know you always want to give the children what they want, but feathers are very scarce this year. We have made a lot of ducks and used all the feathers we had in the toy factory." Fuss Button looked very sad as he stood there looking up at Santa Claus.

"Tut, tut! You know we are always doing the impossible here in Toytown. Send for Professor Waddlepop," commanded Santa Claus.

Fuss Button skipped away and when he returned he was leading Professor Waddlepop by the hand.

Santa Claus looked at the funny professor over his glasses and said, "Do you know how to make a rooster?"

"Indeed I do. We made two million of them last Christmas," replied the professor.

"Well, then, you get the children at the Toytown school to make one rooster. Do you hear? Just one rooster, and bring it to me, so that I may show Fuss Button what to do, and then I will try to keep him busy."

"Yes, your majesty, but will some one get me a comb? I can't make a rooster without a comb," said Professor Waddlepop.

"Listen, my dear children," said Santa Claus. "I try never to be impatient, so do not try me. You, Fuss Button, run and get the comb off my bureau, and you, Professor, run out into the field and get a straw. We will then have a comb and a straw, and that is about all there is to a rooster."

With this Santa Claus laughed so the whole of Toytown rocked as the Professor and Fuss Button went to obey their master.

The young lady across the way says justice should always be tempered with mercenariness.

His Limit

A farmer in great need of extra hands at haying time finally asked Si Warren, who was accounted the town fool, if he could help him out.

"What'll ye pay?" asked Si.

"I'll pay what you're worth," answered the farmer.

Si scratched his head a minute, then announced decisively:

"I'll be durned if I'll work for that!"
