

ARM HOLD FOR TOSSING CAPTIVE OVERHEAD
 Playing the part of the prisoner here is "Al" Kubiak, the former pugilist, who is now a policeman. His winter weight is 260 pounds. This is another of the demonstrations at the police school.

TAKING LESSONS AT THE POLICE SCHOOL
 The upper picture shows how one policeman can handle three assailants. He bends the arm of the first up his back and clubs the second as he trips the third. The lower picture shows how the "straight arm" is used on a captive, his right arm being grasped at the wrist. These are some of the courses being given daily at the Twentieth and Buttonwood streets station.

Photo by Underwood & Underwood
NEW TYPE OF ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUN BEING MOUNTED ON TORPEDOBOAT DESTROYERS OF THE UNITED STATES NAVY.

Photo by Central News
MEASURING THE BABY FOR HER FIRST SHOES
 Chio Chin, the infant elephant, lives in Boston. As she complained of chilly extremities, it was decided to provide her with boots, and this is how her measure was taken.

Photo by Central News
THE WATCH ON THE SEA
 A picture that typifies the incessant vigil Britain maintains to keep her trade and war routes clear.