Game at Franklin Field Will Be Largely Attended—Rabbit Party for Miss Newbold at Famous Little Club House—Pi Sigma Fair

THANKSGIVING DAY is here in spite of clouds and rain. Do you know I'm awfully afraid that Thanksgiving means more "aisle and football" to modern America than giving thanks for the many blessings of a free country and a peaceful country as well, which is the real idea. We have much to thank God for in this great land of ours, and it will not hurt our football joy or turkey dinners to stop for a second and say a word of thanksgiving in our hearts, at least, to the Author of all Good.

Of course from a social point of view the game is the great event of the day, and the Phi Kappa Psi and various other frat houses will keep "open house" after the game, when dancing and refreshments will delight the youngsters who will attend the festivities. It's a pretty sight, let me tell you, the charming girls with their bouquets of violets and American Beauty roses and adorning awnings rushing out over the Walnut street bridge in cars, motors, taxis and on foot to be on time for the kick-off, and then afterward to the frat houses and hotels to tea and dine and theater.

Tonight Mr. Charles Krumbhaar will entertain at the Rabbit for Dorothy Newbold, who is the debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Emlen Newbold, and a mighty popular debutante at that. She, by the way, is the one to whom Molly Thayer directed her remarks in her fascinating book on how a debutante should conduct herself during her first winter. Rabbit parties are never very large, but they are always great fun and are very exclusive. I think I told you before the membership of the club is limited to 100.

And now we turn our attention in charity doings to the Pi Sigma Fraternity Fair, which will be given next Wednesday at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel for the benefit of the Children's Seashore House, Atlantic City, and for St. Christopher's Hospital for Children in this city. There is to be dancing all afternoon, I understand. Grabs, baby clothes, useful articles, flowers and all sorts and kinds of attractions will be for sale during the season. I was talking to one of the board members, and she begged me to consider "the doubts and fears of the past summer, when none of us knew at what hour the dread infantile paralysis might enter our own nurseries; these thoughts have surely awakened our hearts more fully to the needs of poor, helpless, uncared-for little children," she said, and I think she's right. The managers of the fair include a number of the younger married women and others, including Mrs. Bob Clay, Mrs. Billie Fuller, Mrs. Quincy Gilmore, Mrs. Jack Hollingsworth, Mrs. Sydney Martin, Mrs. Tom Reath, Jr., Mrs. Lin Taylor, Mrs. Ghattin Wetherill, Elinore Bean, Marian Butler, Lucy Eastwood, Caroline Murdock, Dorothea Oberbauer and Marjorie Taylor.

Tea is to be served from 4 to 6 o'clock and there will be dancing to Hawaiian music. The waitresses will be Louise Gray, Lois Jackson, Christine Stockton, Elizabeth Wheeler, Elizabeth Wister, Caroline Brown and Lucia Warden. Quincy Gilmore, I understand, has offered a cup for the best-looking sports hat, and a good many of the leading hat shops have sent model chapeaux for the competition. The grab girls are to be two in number; they will be crowned in imitation of the Fair poster and will mingle in the crowd, selling grabs to whoever will buy.

The movies, I understand, are to be exceptionally good also, so go early, stay long and buy your Christmas presents there. NANCY WYNNE.

Mrs. Lee Eugene Daly, Mrs. Daly is Miss Marie Josephine Garity, of 910 South Broad street. Her marriage to Mr. Daly took place last Wednesday.

Lin Taylor, Mrs. Ghattin Wetherill, Elinore Bean, Marian Butler, Lucy Eastwood, Caroline Murdock, Dorothea Oberbauer and Marjorie Taylor.

THE FIRST FORMAL CALL IN PLYMOUTH COLONY

THE VACANT WORLD

By GEORGE ALLAN ENGLAND

THE STORY THIS FAR. HEATRICE KENDRICK, a stenographer, slowly rears consciousness and opens her eyes upon a scene of utter devastation and ruin. The scene is the Metropolitan Hotel, a brick wall and doors and bits of dust and twisted wreckage forming a barrier to her escape.

CHAPTER XVII. (Continued) UTTERLY worn out, exhausted and spent by the long strain, the terrible fatigues of the last thirty-six hours, she had lain down and had dropped off to sleep. There she lay at full length. Very beautiful she looked, half asleep in the morning glow, with her eyes closed, her hair falling over her forehead, her hands clasped in prayer.

CHAPTER XVIII. THE SUPREME QUESTION. Now that his course lay clear before him, the man felt an instant and a huge relief. Whatever the risks, the dangers, the adventures, was better than mere inaction, besieged there in the tower by that ugly, misshapen horde.

CHAPTER XIX. THE UNKNOWN RACE. AN ALMOST irresistible repugnance, a compelling aversion, more of the spirit made the way impassible from the third than of the flesh, instantly seized the man at the moment when he stepped into the room.

CHAPTER XX. PEARL OF THE ARMY. A Story of "America First" unmasks America's secret foes—reveals the menace that surround our country to-day—the perils of a nation that must be roused to wakefulness.

PEARL WHITE, as the American Joan of Arc. It is your patriotic duty to see this picture, and it holds a thrill for you that you will long remember. It will be shown soon, in 15 episodes, one each week, at all leading theatres. Watch for it.

He had his eyes on the clock in the wall and looked.

A tremor ran still drifted slowly among the forest trees, vailing the deeper recesses. Yet near at hand, within the limited range of vision which the engineer commanded, everything could be made out with reasonable distinctness.

Some of the things for so he mentally named them, knowing no better term was available, squatting, lying or moving about, quite close at hand. The fire by the spring had now almost died down. It was evident that the revel and feast and that the home was settling down to rest—gladly, no doubt, with the raw and bleeding flesh of the conquered foe.

Two WEDDINGS; ONE TRIP. Wilmington Couples, Chums in Youth, Marry and Leave Together. WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 29.—Chums during youth, two couples were married late yesterday in Westminster Presbyterian Church and left together on their wedding trips. The couples were Robert Richardson Devereux and Miss Reba Thompson and Willard Hamilton and Miss Anna Marie Conley.

The Thompson was given in marriage by her brother, Leonard M. Thompson, and was attended by Miss Geneva M. Dillon, of Washington, as maid of honor. Miss Conley was given in marriage by Robert Fulton, her stepfather, and was attended by Mrs. Kenneth Peacock. Earl Plumley was best man for Mr. Devereux and Kenneth Peacock for Mr. Hamilton. The two couples left on wedding trips together.

The Story of the Package Stolen From Ralph Payne

A package, containing the secret plans of the Canal fortifications, was advertised as having disappeared from an apartment in the New Ebbitt Hotel in Washington.

This package exists only in an author's imagination. Perhaps we owe you an apology for the series of advertisements that have appeared. If so, we offer it freely, gladly.

For the purpose of these announcements is a very serious and earnest purpose. Many good authorities have asserted that International spies are actively engaged in this country right now—that our future is menaced by these secret enemies.

As a nation that does its work in the open, most of us do not realize that the dangers that surround us are very REAL.

"PEARL OF THE ARMY" A Story of "America First"
