Our Postoffice Box Little girl Rainhows are working for the Christmas Rainbow party as hard as ever they can these days, and if you don't believe it just listen to these busy-bee reports.

Helena Ulmer, West Curford street, is making a hat and a petticoat and her big sister is making two petticoats. The sister will also send some things they have outgrown. Helena will dress a little doll if she has the times.

Elisle Robinson, Wyncote, is dressing two little dolls, and is making a little white dress. Elisle's two brothers. Paul and Karl, are making seraphonks.

Buth Reber, Walton avenue, is husy getting ready two hats, two petticoats and a coust. Ruths is surely coming to Farmer Smith's party.

Medeleins Magne, of Mount Airy, has something interesting to may: "I have a book called German Pairy Talan' which I wan as a prize last, rure at school I was peymound to the base of the class. I won the gring this say: dikes Larimer, my it

A VISIT TO THE EARTH

Do you suppose that Saw Sir, Santa Claus's butler, went all over Toytown hunt-ing for Peaches and Cream to send her to

I asked my pupil to tell me the result of adding seven and five and she her master?

Not at all. He simply ran up a blue and white flag to the top of the flag pole on the flfy-eighth story of the toy factory and soon that dainty miss came speeding to the dising room where Santa Claus and his good wife were slowly cating their ics I found that by adding an odd number to an even number I always got an I found that by adding an odd number to an odd number I always got an I discovered that by adding an even number to an even number the result

"Ah, ah! My lady I am glad you came, for we have a mission for you."

Then the jolly fellow got up from the table and took Peaches and Cream to the Instead of telling you the answers, I would like to have you write the answers in and send them to me. The next time you have an examination you window, which he opened, and took her out on the balcony.

"There! Do you see that tiny spec? That s the er-er- what is it, my dear? "The Earth." "The Earth."

"Yes, yes, that is the Earth, and we want you to go down there and ask all the little girls, not just one of them, but ALL of them, whether they want their talking doils to say 'mother' or 'mamma.'
"But—but—how am I to get down to that speck—down to the earth?" asked Peaches and Cream, drawing back with a shudder. One little mistake at the beginning will make everything wrong, so take You are always bumping into numbers-at the grocer's, at school, when shudder.

"You must not be afraid—no one is ever afraid in Toytown. Wife, dear, get us a dainty parased for this little lady and we will show her how to get down to the earth I do not think we will send ber in the ear—it's too much trouble."

The good wife soon returned with a dainty bitis parasod and Santa Clean raised it and handed it to Peaches and Cream. Then he took her in his strong arms, lifted her over the banister and—

Before Peaches and Cream could say "Jack Robinson" she was sailing through the sir at the rate of a mile and a half a minute, or maybe faster.

At length she felt heraelf going slower and slower until at last she fell upon a noft bed of moss in the center of a beautiful garden where a little girl was picking rises.

Feaches and Cream closed her parasod with a little "click." which attracted the attention of the little girl, who looked around anddenly.

"Oh, goodie!" she cried.

'Oh, goodie!" she cried.

"I know you are a Pairy"
"Oh, no " answered Peaches and Cream."
"I am just a little girl like you only I live in Toylown, where Santa Claus has a large factory where the toys for Christopia are "Do tell me about it," and the little gips seeking heraulf in front of Pouches and Cream What she told you shall see!
