Last Night Saturday, Dec. 30

Time brings an end to all things. Time is now about to terminate the most phenomenal theatrical engagement ever known in the history of Philadelphia.

On Saturday night, December 30th, absolutely the last performance in Philadelphia at the Adelphi Theatre will be given of the most wonderful play in America, "Experience."

During the five months' run of this play in Philadelphia the records show that it will have been given 140 times—an achievement absolutely unheard of in this city.

Think of it—140 times in a city where most attractions are booked for only two or three weeks!

Just to pile Ossa upon Pelion; to erect in this arch of triumph a never-to-be-forgotten keystone which will immortalize the history-making run of "Experience" in Philadelphia, an extra matinee will be given upon Friday afternoon, December 29th, to round out the perfect score of 141 performances of "Experience" in the city of Philadelphia.

Since more, we reiterate, NEVER BEFORE has any such proud record ever been known in the history of this city since the days when William Penn first stepped upon the shores of the Delaware.

To commemorate this remarkable achievement, special souvenir programmes, printed upon silk, and stamped in gold, will be given away on the closing night, Saturday, Dec. 30th.

Meanwhile you can figure for yourself that if you have not yet seen this remarkable play, you can only have a few more times in which to witness it.

PURITY

AUDREY MUNSON

For of the soul, the body form only take. For soul is form, and doth the body make.

It is fitting that this story, resting as it does of art and artists, should have for its leading interest the most beautiful art model in all this world, Audrey Munson—a woman of surpassing beauty and the perfection of feminine form.

She appears on various occasions in nature's original garments; again, in the simple, diaphanous garb of ancient Greece; and yet again, in the dress of modern times; and through it all she displays a subtle artistry that is indeed refreshing her winning sweetness, her ability of mind, her superb grace and finished acting are "never to be forgotten optical delights." "Nature, adorned in essentials, is pure and beautiful." "Time may be as well as a heart," Milton.
