

Photo by Sergeant J. H. Hald
TROUBLES OF A PENNSYLVANIA ARTILLERY REGIMENT
The Second Pennsylvania Field Artillery, formerly the Second Infantry, is still laboring with difficulties, animate and inanimate, down at Fort Bliss. Here they are digging a truck out of a sand bank thrown up by the storm of election day.

INDIAN MAIDENS ENACT "THE FEAST OF THE RED CORN"
Girl students of the Carlisle School last week gave their own operetta, founded on an old tribal legend and filled with the strains of the oldest American music. They are Chippewa, Choctaw, Cherokee and Seneca girls.

ONE OF THE TREASURES OF THE McFADDEN COLLECTION OF OLD MASTERS
"Lady Grantham," by Romney, is conspicuous in the eighteenth century collection which John H. McFadden has removed from his home on Rittenhouse square to the Academy of the Fine Arts, where they will be on view indefinitely.

JERSEY DUCKS FARED ILL BEFORE THIS QUARTET
On the left is Charles W. Beck, of the old engraving house, who, with three New Jersey friends, went to Beach Haven and brought back this record bag.

THE UNROMANTIC SIDE OF THE FIREMAN'S LIFE
Persons who imagine he just loaf around when he isn't eating smoke should see him at his daily clean-up tasks. He doesn't object to such work, but would welcome a little more material appreciation of it.