FARMER SMITH'S RAINBOW CLUB

THE COWARD

My Dear Children—Once upon a time there was a boy, and he was considered a coward by the other boys.

One day this boy, whom we will call Clarence, was being chased by exactly seventeen other boys, when a woman saw his plight. She ran out of her house and called for him to stop.

"Clarence," she shouted, "stop where you are!"

The boy was so surprised that he stood still.

"Now," said the woman, "you turn around and lick those boys, one at a time, and if YOU can't lick them, I WILL."

The funny part of it was, none of the boys came forward.

"Clarence, lick that boy hiding behind that tree, and if you can't, I CAN!"

To make a long story short, Clarence DID lick that boy and also presented him with a black eye.

After that the boys looked up to Clarence and THEY LET HIM ALONE!

I do not wish to encourage fighting, neither do I want to encourage COWARDICE. When I went to school in the dear old Southland, if two boys had an "argument," those boys were sent outdoors and school was dismissed until those boys FOUGHT IT OUT.

I want to tell you there were few arguments and few fights.

Inside of each of us there is a little spring called "self-preservation," and it is THE FIRST LAW OF NATURE.

Don't forget that!

If you want folks to respect you, you MUST earn that respect.

Lovingly, FARMER SMITH, Children's Editor.

WILLIE AND THE FAIRIES

By Farmer Smith

"Oh, dear! I wish the Good Dream Fairy would come," sighed Willie Wideawake one night.

He turned over, and whom do you think he saw sitting on the foot of his bed They Good Dream Fairy, of course.

"Where did the fairies come from?" asked Willie so quickly that it made the Good Dream Fairy start.

"Have you never heard how fairies started?" asked the little person sitting on the foot of Willie's bed.

Before Willie could say "Jack Sprat" he was whisked out of bed and into the fairy's airship. Up, up they went, until finally they came to Cloudland, and there Willie saw the largest building he had ever seen. It was so large that it looked like a huge mountain all covered with snow.

"That is Santa Claus's toy factory," shouted the Good Dream Fairy, although her voice sounded to Willie as if it came from miles and miles away. "We are not going to stop there, for I want to take you to the place—the very house where fairies were first made."

"Made!" exclaimed Willie in great surprise. "Why, of course. Fairies are not mortals, like you. There are—well, they are just like me."

At that moment the airship slowed up and descended upon a soft bank of snow right in front of a queer looking door all set with diamonds. The Good Dream Fairy touched a button all covered with emeralds and an old man with a kindly face came to the door.

"Why good Princess, delighted to see you!"

"And I am glad to see you too, Hannacoo, godfather to the fairies. This is Willie Wideawake, who wishes you to tell him how there came to be fairies."

"Welcome, Willie; come into the throne room and you shall hear all about the fairies. You are the first mortal who has ever heard about the wonderful little creatures like the Good Dream Fairy."

The three entered the throne room, the Good Dream Fairy taking her seat on one side of the throne and Hanna-coo on the other side, while Willie sat on the throne.

To Willie's utter amazement, the throne began slipping, slipping and he felt himself going down, down!

"Why, Willie," said a voice. "You have fallen out of bed."

Sure enough, Willie Wideawake had fallen out of bed and his mother was standing over him.

Christmas Happiness

By HATTIE JENNE, Moore, Pa.

I love to gather holly
At dear old Christmas time.
They ask me how I like it.
And I say, "I think it's fine."
Of course, you have to go and see
The grand old Christmas joy.
There you will see the Christmas tree,
Every kiddie has at least one toy!

Little Boy's Song

By CHARLES HURLEY, Danville, Pa.

I am just a tiny little boy,
And haven't much to do.
But I'm working for the Rainbow Club;
I think that's enough, don't you?

I'm going to work for the Rainbow Club
Every single day of my life,
Trying to make some one happy.
But when I'm married I'll help my wife.

FARMER SMITH,
I wish to become a member of your Rainbow Club. Please send me a beautiful Rainbow Button free. I agree to DO A LITTLE KINDNESS EACH AND EVERY DAY, SPREAD A LITTLE SUNSHINE ALL ALONG THE WAY.

The Young Lady Across the Way

The young lady across the way says a woman with natural style looks well in anything and she knows women who buy all their clothes right here in this country and you could never tell them from parasites.

As He Sees Her

She's very, very pretty,
She has a lovely face;
I'd try my best to kiss her,
If she were only Grace.

As She Sees Him

The man is almost handsome,
He certainly can flirt;
I'd try to make him kiss me
If he were only Bert.

—Froth.
