

GLITTER AND GAYETY OF THE MARCHING NEW YEAR MUMMERS AS CAUGHT BY THE CAMERA

Starting with the first picture at the upper left, the Charles Klein Association is portrayed beginning the long march up Broad street while thousands look on from street, windows and doors. The second picture is that of Fred Rossi in a novel costume incorporating the Stars and Stripes. The man wearing the pyramid of hats is Frank Winkler. The trio in No. 4 are brothers—Robert, George and William Bethan. The boy in the embroidered robe is Hughie Boyle, the Klein mascot. No. 6 reveals Charles Dumont in his original and striking collar and headgear. The seventh picture is a general view of the parade as it started up from Porter street.
