

MURDER ON LEWIS

Young Woman and Men Expected to Show He Knew Slain Model

DETECTIVES CAN'T AGREE

Some Insist Pittsburgh Coal Man's Son Was Innocent, but Feared Disgrace

Determined efforts are being made today by detectives on the Philadelphia murder against Bernard W. Lewis, who committed suicide in Atlantic City, as the mystery.

STILL A MYSTERY, SAY POLICE

It was admitted at headquarters today that the mystery of the Philadelphia murder, despite the fact that Lewis, who was slain, had been identified as the murderer.

NOT WOMAN'S MURDER

Among them were the following: First, Captain Tate has admitted that the murdered girl's telephone number was not found among the records of the city.

Second, Captain Tate has admitted that the shirt worn by the girl was not a woman's, as reported, but a regulation man's athletic shirt.

Third, although Captain Tate did not admit it, detectives said that the girl found in the murdered model's apartment was similar to the girl's own hair.

Fourth, the motive given by Captain Tate for the murder was that the girl had been found in the apartment of the man who had been identified as the murderer.

Fifth, Lewis' effort is being made by detectives in this and other cities to find out if he had any enemies.

Sixth, detectives are working on the theory that the girl who was found in the murdered model's apartment was the same girl who was found in the murdered model's apartment.

Seventh, "Sleptick" who has traced the girl's movements in this city after the crime also has been traced to the murdered model's apartment.

Eighth, employees at the Hotel Adelphi, where Lewis is said to have registered under the name of J. M. Harris, after the murder, do not believe that the stained bundle of underwear found on a couple belonged to Lewis or to the girl.

Ninth, several of the murdered girl's friends have asserted that they never heard of Bernard W. Lewis.

Tenth, the investigation made of the girl's pictures by an attorney and chauffeur in Narragansett, as Lewis was with the girl's sister at about the time he was supposed to be in Narragansett.

Members of the Colbert family have intimated that they do not feel that Lewis is the murderer, John Colbert, the girl's brother, said he would issue a statement soon.

Captain Tate issued another statement to substantiate his theory of the girl's guilt.

"Had Lewis been innocent," Captain Tate said, "and committed suicide merely because he feared the scandal of being connected with the case, even then, he would have left a note or a letter, or some explanation, but he had none."

"We had a strong circumstantial case against him, and he knew it. He knew what detectives were doing, and he was wanted for the murder. He fled the quickest and easiest way out, as I have said before. We would have had little trouble in proving his guilt in court."

Word was received by the police today that Lewis had been arrested twice in New York within the last two years. He was arrested the first time in 1915, on a grand larceny charge. The warrant was issued from Pittsburgh. He was arrested again on July 4, 1916, according to the police, after he had been arrested in French 11899 bond from Miss Lillian Behrde in New York.

KAISER GAVE RING Detectives learned positively today, they say, that the diamond ring in question was given to the girl by a man named Otto by Charles Kaiser, the brewer, of Mahanoy City, Pa.

Detectives said also today they were convinced that the girl was followed by a man's hand in the face, and the cuts on her head were caused when she fell against a radiator.

Several detectives of the "murder squad" said today that they were greatly handicapped in the case owing to regulations by which the coroner's physician does not report his findings of the autopsy until the inquest. They suggested that a legislation by which a medical examiner would be attached to the Detective Bureau, so that they would appear at the inquest, be desired. They said that the coroner's physician refused to reveal his findings in this case to them, and that for some time, therefore, they were working "more or less in the dark."

BODY IN PITTSBURGH The body of Lewis arrived in Pittsburgh early today. It was immediately taken to an undertaker's establishment on Sixth avenue. From there it will be removed to the Lewis home some time today or tonight, where funeral services will be held tomorrow.

Lost Ship's Survivors Arrive NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Surviving hardships and terrors three sailors arrived here today on the American freighter Onega from St. Michaels in the Azores. They are the only survivors of the schooner Marcus L. Dean of Boston, which was wrecked 230 miles west of the Azores in November. Among the lost were Captain J. J. Ellis, William Johnson and the steward, who was wrecked ship, and his wife. The first and second mates and six others also were reported.

Where did the New York Sun get this information? The paper says that it has found a woman who saw Lewis in the murdered model's apartment within the last year. The woman's testimony is said to have been corroborated by two men.

Accompanied by Detectives Hedges and Fargell, and two men, the young woman was escorted with District Attorney Logan and Captain Tate for more than one hour in City Hall this afternoon. The police refused to state what disclosures she made. It was intimated, however, that the important information she gave was that the young woman and the two men are said to have been in Made Colbert's company on several occasions.

"LIVE WIRES" WIN BUSINESS BACKING

Science Club Indorses Chamber of Commerce "Clean-Up" Fight

ELECTION SLATE HELPED

The "live wires" who are fighting for a "clean-up" of the Chamber of Commerce, have received the backing of the Science Club, and it is understood that more than twenty other business associations in Philadelphia will place their names on the list of directors to be elected on January 15.

During the regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, held last night, a motion was presented by H. Everett Kessler to induce and support Walter L. Rosenberger, one of the new party candidates, who is a member of the club, and the motion was unanimously adopted.

The members of the executive committee of the Science Club, who were present at the meeting, expressed their approval of the motion, and it is expected that a definite list of candidates will be announced in a few days.

About three hundred members of the Chamber of Commerce have already indicated their support of the new party, and it is expected that the number will increase to 1,000 before the election on January 15.

YOUNG LAWYER'S FIGHT FOR CAREER DIFFICULT

Struggle Strenuous and Temptations Many, Prof. Brown Tells University Audience

MANY NEW OBSTACLES Trust Companies, Compensation Laws and Keen Competition Reduce Incomes

The legal profession in the minds of many persons has lost its distinction, according to the Rev. J. H. Brown, professor of law at the University of Pennsylvania. In the course of an address at Huxton Hall this afternoon he bared the struggle and the temptations of the young lawyer, and pointed out that his increasing numbers and the broadened made on the profession by title and trust companies had made the young lawyer's career more difficult than ever.

Another great hindrance to the lawyer is his increasing numbers and the broadened made on the profession by title and trust companies had made the young lawyer's career more difficult than ever.
