

BERLET SEES MISRULE IN CHAMBER AFFAIRS

"Live Wires" Carry Fight for Reform Before City Business Club

The "live wires" of the Chamber of Commerce carried their campaign into the City Business Club luncheon at the Hotel Adelphi today by explaining their aims through H. J. Berlet, one of the leaders, and through a leaflet called "Principles Involved in the Chamber of Commerce Election" by each plate.

Mr. Berlet took the leaflet as the text of his address and assisted by inference the group of Chamber of Commerce officers who were in control with "Right Chamber Methods" and a negative atmosphere of suspicion were features of the Chamber management.

It was the "live wires" ambition to substitute for the "atmosphere of suspicion" a spirit of the "atmosphere of confidence" and to create a leadership of confidence that would put an end to mismanagement and the waste of energy in the chamber. The address was punctuated with applause.

Quiet commencing by the "live-wire" element in developing among the progressive members that the "old guard" have stolen their thunder, are likely to feel the lightning. Reports received by A. S. Murphy, campaign manager, indicate that there is a disposition to resent the action of the nominating committee in "playing politics" in the interest of the "old guard."

While at the office of General Secretary N. H. Kelly, of the Chamber of Commerce, it was said that the matter of the attempt to elect one through the official ballot in violation of the constitution and bylaws of the Chamber of Commerce had been adjusted, the incident was by no means forgotten by the "live wires" and their friends. Mr. Murphy and other members of this element that the "old guard" employ the "old guard" to stigmatize campaign literature as part of the official ballot and report will prove a boomerang and react to the benefit of the "live wires."

"Take the name of Howe Stewart as it appears on the ballot," said one of the "live wires." The bylaws provide that the business connection of a candidate shall appear on the ballot under his official name. In the case of Mr. Stewart in the "old guard" group, he is listed as "president of the Poor Richard Club." That is his office, but not his business, and if the committee wished to be consistent, why did it not print "secretary of the Poor Richard Club" after the name of W. T. Therkildson, who is one of our candidates.

"It looks to me as if there is only a petty scheme to attract the votes of Poor Richards to the "old guard" ticket. It will fall through, just as I believe the whole campaign against real business management of the chamber will fall. Even if we do not elect our entire ticket this time we will not so much as to elect our own adversaries on their good behavior and make them more than they have done for the joint advantage of the chamber and our city."

U. S. NAVAL LOSSES IN YEAR EXCEED $11,000,000

Two Cruisers, a Collier and Two Submarines Comprise List of Disasters Due to Storms

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The United States navy lost in 200 ships to the value of more than $11,000,000. This includes the cruiser Wilwaukee, wrecked last week on the California coast, and the submarine H-5, which was wrecked on the Hawaiian Islands at the time of her disaster.

TRAINMEN DEFEND RIGHT TO EXPEL ITS MEMBERS

Ringing Rocks Lodge Replies to Suit of H. F. Spayd, Ousted for Opposing Crew Law

KORRISTOWN, Pa., Jan. 15.—Altrough Pradley and Saylor today filed the answer of Ringing Rocks Lodge of Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen to the equity action brought by H. F. Spayd, who had been expelled from the lodge because he had opposed the full-crew law, and asked the court to reinstate him.

GIFTS TO CHURCH CHARITIES

The Rev. W. H. Graf Makes Bequests to Episcopal Institutions

Bequests of $1000 to the General Clergy Relief Fund of the Protestant Episcopal Church and $500 each to the Episcopal Hospital, Church Home for Girls, Angora, and St. Michael and All Angels Home for Colored Orphan Children, are a part of the will of the Rev. William Henry Graf, who for eighteen years was identified with the Holy Communion Memorial Protestant Episcopal Church.

The will, as probated today, disposes of an estate valued at $60,000. It is left in trust for the benefit of two daughters, the principal to revert to their children when they reach the majority. It is directed that in the event of the grandchildren not surviving the age of twenty-one years the principal of the trust is to be divided equally between the Episcopal Hospital and the General Clergy Relief Fund of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

A bequest of $1000 to St. John's Parish Church, Maryland, is contained in the will of Letitia R. Armstrong, Atlantic City, which disposes of $17000 in private bequests.

What will be probated today were those of William Cochran, 704 Walnut street, which in private bequests disposes of property valued at $18,000; Sarah F. Rogers, 612 North Fourth street, $13,500; Fleur-de-Lys, 3700; Agnes Coleman, 2530 West Silver street, $5000; Rosana De Angelle, 124 South Seventh street, $3000; Lena Schneider, 4614 Walton avenue, $1225; and Barbara Storch, 2341 South Twentieth street, $2200.

Ice Company Gets $2988 Verdict

The Sanitary Ice Company of Trenton, N. J., today obtained a verdict for $2988.50 damages against the Otto Gas Engine Works of this city from a jury trial in a United States court in Trenton. The case had been pending in the Federal court many months, and was the outcome of a repudiated suit instituted by the Otto company to obtain $2000 for the use of an engine. The ice company refused to pay and started a counter-suit, alleging that the engine was not up to specifications. The Philadelphia company will appeal the case, it is announced.

Last Day for Payment for City Loan

Today was final settlement day for the holders in the city bond sale of January 8, which totaled $13,714,216. Business holders made payments today. The City Treasurer's clearing statement of $281,938.82.

D. M. SHEAFFER Announcement is made today by the Pennsylvania Railroad of his appointment as express agent of the lines east of Pittsburgh and Erie. He will have his headquarters in Philadelphia and will have charge of all matters pertaining to express traffic over the lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

STAGE STARS WILL AID PEN AND PENCIL FETE

Vaudeville, Cabaret and Dance for Newspapermen's "Night in Bohemia"

Many of the volunteers from Maryland will travel several hundred miles just to entertain those who attend the "Night in Bohemia," which will be given by the Pen and Pencil Club at the Bellevue-Stratford Friday night.

In addition to George M. Colgan, the famous Yankee Doodle Boy, it is expected that Senator Peacock, Congressman Vane and others prominent in politics will be on hand to help in the general enthusiasm.

Several members of the President's Cabinet also have been invited, and it is expected that several will be present.

In a nutshell, it will be three big shows under one big tent—vaudeville, cabaret and a dance. Of course, a big feast will follow. Among other who will appear will be Walter C. Holan, in quick comedy caricatures Oscar Shaw and Beauty Chorus, of the "Very Good Eddie" company; Belle Baker, Montgomery and Perry and Miller Mack, from Keil's; Mary Barrett, formerly of Hammerstein's "Grand Opera Company"; "Maids of Philly," from the Bijou; Olga Miska, of the Nixon Grand, and a score of others.

Of course, Ralph Bingham, the boy wonder, will be there as master of ceremonies and funny stories on the side. Harry T. Jordan, general manager of the RCFI enterprises in this city, will direct the show. He will be assisted by Abe L. Einstein.

DEADLOCK IN DELAWARE LEGISLATURE CONTINUES

Democratic Members Decide to Sit Tight and Let Republican Factions Make Move

DOVER, Del., Jan. 15.—The Senate deadlock will not be broken today with Democrats, according to the statement given out by the Democratic Senators following a lengthy caucus this afternoon. The Democrats declared they had decided to "sit tight" and let one of the warring Republican factions make the first move in the game.

Today marks the beginning of the third week of the Legislature, and apparently no solution to the problem is in sight. The Republican factions are each determined to "stand pat," and now that the Democrats have refused to interfere it is possible that the deadlock may continue for another week.

COSTLY CHANDELIERS USELESS

Violet Oakley Asks Their Removal From State Senate Chamber

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 15.—Violet Oakley, who is under commission to paint a number of pictures for the walls of the Capitol, has asked the Board of Public Buildings and Grounds to remove two of the immense bronze and cut-glass chandeliers from the Senate chamber in order not to interfere with the proper lighting of several paintings she is now hanging at the front of the big apartment.

These chandeliers figured in the Capitol graft cases, it being alleged that the State paid too much for them. They are immense pieces, each weighing hundreds of pounds, and are fine examples of the metal worker's art, although generally regarded as too massive for the chamber.

Miss Oakley says the lighting of the big hall will not be spoiled by the suggested change.

Mays Quits as Canal Zone Marshal

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—William H. Mays, of Washington, D. C., has resigned as United States Marshal of the Panama Canal Zone. It was learned here today. His reason was not disclosed.

Frozen to Death on Road

OXFORD, Pa., Jan. 15.—Granville Crothers, sixty-five years old, was frozen to death west of here this morning by the roadside. He was a brother of former Governor Austin Crothers, of Maryland.

BRADBURN & NIGRO

CORRECT MEN'S TAILORS Cor. 13th and Sansom $32.50 and $30 Suitings or $25 Overcoatings to order. During our Semi-Annual Clearance Sale we offer the greatest tailoring values your money can buy. $45 and $42.50 qualities, finest wools you've seen, to order, $35

When "Grip" Prevails

Use of an effective antiseptic germicide... LLEWELLYN'S 1518 Chestnut St.

PEACE WITH VICTORY POPE'S WORD TO ITALY

Monk's Quotation of Pontiff's Message Shows Distinct Pro-Ally Stand

ROME, Jan. 15.—A sermon on the war by the Franciscan Monk Dragutius caused a great sensation yesterday in the Church of San Andrea della Valle. The church was crowded with worshippers, holding many officers and soldiers.

The monk asked the faithful to "turn their trusting eyes to Christ at this time when millions yearn for their children who have crumpled many battlefields with blood, when many wives mourn resignedly husbands who never will return, when many anxious eyes await a resolution their loved ones." He asked all to pray for "our soldiers and our sailors who on land and sea appear an iron front to the enemy's fury" and invoke from Christ "peace, but victorious peace, for our Fatherland and for our country's allies."

At this point the emotion was so great that applause mingled with sobs broke out in the congregation, which was calmed down only when the monk raised his hand in sign that he had something to add. Avoiding the mention of Italy, Dragutius had the honor to be received by the Pope this morning, the latter had intrusted him to the children of Rome and to the children of the whole of Italy, that they must invoke from God a victorious peace in the name of civilization, a peace of Christ, which is the triumph of love, brotherhood, justice, and right.

NEW TUBE ARGUMENTS RUSHED TO WASHINGTON

Bourse President Sends Records of Stop-Watch Tests in Response to Moore's Message

George H. Barst, president of the Philadelphia Bourse and chairman of the joint committee of local trust bodies interested in the pneumatic tube line, received a telegram this afternoon from Representative J. Campbell Moore, of Washington, stating that the fight on the floor of the House of Representatives for the extension of the tubes in Philadelphia, New York, Boston, St. Louis and Chicago, had not yet over and that tomorrow morning separate vote will be demanded in the House.

The Bourse president immediately sent a copy of the report of the Philadelphia joint committee's inspection of the local tube service to each member of the House, so that the Representatives may have opportunity to examine it before the vote. This report refutes by the results of stop-watches and scales the statements of Postmaster General Burleson's committee, known as to the maximum speed and capacity of the tube contracts.

"We are confident that both the House and the Senate will vote to retain the tubes," said Mr. Barst, "but it is impossible to say whether the Postoffice Department will be willing to make the proper contracts. In the event of its refusal to do so, the Senate will make an order compelling the Postmaster General to take such action. A similar order was made by the trustee chamber in spring when it directed the Postmaster General to extend the tube contracts until the first of this year."

PRESBYTERIANS BACK FIREMEN

Ministers' Association Indorses Better Pay and Day Demands

The firemen of Philadelphia received added indorsement today when the members of the Presbyterian Ministers' Association, at its weekly meeting in the minister Hall of the Witherspoon Building, unanimously passed a resolution urging the Mayor and the members of the Council to accede to the statement giving the salaries of the city firemen and arrange their hours so they can be at home often on Sundays and so they can attend church often.

The firemen sent representatives to the Ministers' Association last Monday, who told of the real conditions among firemen and made a plea for the indorsement of the campaign the firemen are waging to bring better wages and more reasonable hours. At the meeting last week the Rev. Dr. Horace C. Stanton, secretary of the organization, was appointed chairman of the committee to draft the resolution.

DEMANDS STERNER JUSTICE

Too Much Sympathy Being Shown by Public to Criminals, Judge Says

LANCASTER, Pa., Jan. 15.—Judge Charles L. Landis, President Judge of Lancaster County courts, in charging a jury this morning, said that there is too much sympathy being shown in this country towards persons who commit crimes.

He referred to two cases in this county since the last court session where men have shot women and their retainers and life. He took a determined stand against sympathy being shown criminals and intimated that it gave momentum to the crime wave which has greatly increased here in the last two years.

Four Automobiles Reported Stolen

Four automobiles were reported to the police today as having been stolen. A car belonging to John Lachman, of Brookline, Delaware County, was stolen from the front of 1521 North Fifty-sixth street. It was later recovered at Fifty-fifth and Cherry streets. The car of Rodney K. Merrick, of Onond, stolen from Wayne avenue and Hanbury street, Germantown, was recovered at Second and Christian streets. Automobiles belonging to C. D. Peterson, 2318 North Twenty-sixth street, stolen from his residence, and Albert H. Seaton, 814 Quincey street, stolen from Germantown and Maplewood avenues, have not been recovered.

TEMPLE UNIVERSITY

Is the people's college of practical instruction where EVERY DAY Student teachers teach. Law students practice law in law offices. Medical students visit the sick. Dental students work with professors on patients. Pharmacy students work in drug stores. Banking students work in banks. Realty students work in real estate offices. AND at the same time earn their own living, day as well as evening students.

Ready Money—United States Loan Society

117 North Broad St. 414 S. 5th St. 2548 Germantown Ave.

FUEL SAVER

CUTS COAL BILLS ONE-THIRD For the $3.00 Price $3.00 L. B. BERGER CO., 48 S. 2d Street

MURDER CASE WITNESS DOESN'T IDENTIFY KAIER

Cleveland Salesman Says "Champagne Charlie" Is Not Man Who Flew

Activity in the investigation of the murder of Marie Colwell was revived today. B. C. Brown, of Cleveland, the salesman who told of seeing a man jump from the plain model's apartment the night of the murder, related his story in detail to Captain Tate.

He called to identify Charles Kaier, the stationery city brewer, known as "Champagne Charlie," who was brought before him.

Customer Kaier said again he did not know Bernard W. Lewis killed the girl. He said so after conferring with the Coroner's Detective, Frank Paul, who returned from Philadelphia, where Lewis' body was exhumed for inspection. No information was obtainable as to the result of Paul's findings.

Brown came to Philadelphia late last night at the request of the Philadelphia police. He told Captain Tate he was passing the Wilton apartments on the night of the murder and saw a heavy set man jump from a window.

Brown said he was recommended by another salesman, and both started to stop the man, who stretched himself free, saying something about having had an argument with his wife. The man, Brown said, was of heavy build and wore a large diamond.

"Would you identify the man if you saw him?" Tate asked Brown.

"I think I could," Brown replied. "Captain Tate then sent detectives after 'Champagne Charlie' Kaier, who was at the Vendell Hotel.

After looking at Kaier for a few moments Brown said:

"No, he was not the man. I can answer for that."

Kaier made no protest when asked to read Brown. "I'm perfectly willing to do anything I can to solve this puzzle," he said. "I'll come to City Hall as many times as they want me."

Brown left for Cleveland shortly before noon.

"Never again," he told the newspaper men. "I'll never get mixed up in a murder case again if I can help it. Ever since I was engaged nearly a month the police have hounded me. When I want the police, it was the reporters," he concluded.

SPANELL ON TRIAL FOR DOUBLE SLAYING

Motive for Hotel Man's Murder of Wife and Army Captain Still Mystery

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 15.—Charged with the murder of his wife, Crystal Holcomb, and of Lieutenant Colonel Matthew C. Butler, of the Sixth Cavalry, U. S. A., Harry J. Spanell went on trial here today.

About one hundred witnesses, most of them from Texas, where the double tragedy was enacted on July 29, 1913, arrived early today.

Spanell was the proprietor of a hotel. His wife was the daughter of a wealthy banker and ranchman, and met Spanell while she was attending Baylor University. Lieutenant Colonel Butler was married. He was stationed at Washington for a year at the War College and had a wide acquaintance in army circles.

The motive for the killing was still a mystery when the trial opened today. The home life of the Spanells seemingly was ideal. On the evening of July 29 the Spanells, after a drive about the city of Alpine, invited Colonel Butler to join them. A few minutes later Spanell walked into the jail and surrendered to the Sheriff, saying:

"I have killed them both."

Spanell stopped his car a few blocks from the hotel, the police said, and began shooting with an automatic pistol and a six-shooter. The bodies of both Mrs. Spanell and Colonel Butler, who were occupying the rear seat, were riddled with bullets.

Supreme Court Renders Decisions

The following decisions were handed down by the Supreme Court today: Per curiam: Shoup et al. vs. Dumbare (C. P. Allegany), judgment affirmed; Dain vs. Loebber et al. (C. P. Allegany), Superior Court, judgment affirmed. By Chief Justice Brandeis: Raff vs. City of Philadelphia et al., bill sustained and injunction awarded; dissenting opinion by Justices Potter, Van Moschizker and Walling.

Two Held in Reading Assault

READING, Pa., Jan. 15.—Charles H. Martin, thirty-eight years old, in a dying quarrel in the Hopewell Hospital here today with a stab wound near the heart, and Dominio Falasco and William Meo, accused of being his assailants, are in jail on a charge of attempted murder.

Two Held in Reading Assault

READING, Pa., Jan. 15.—Charles H. Martin, thirty-eight years old, in a dying quarrel in the Hopewell Hospital here today with a stab wound near the heart, and Dominio Falasco and William Meo, accused of being his assailants, are in jail on a charge of attempted murder.

PHILADELPHIA NEGROES HELD FOR JEWEL THEFT

Two Arraigned in Camden Following Hold-up of Storekeeper and $1000 Robbery

Two Philadelphia negroes who caused a little excitement around a Camden jewelry store Thursday afternoon, when they entered the place with "six-shooters" tied the proprietor in a chair, rifled the window of thirty diamonds and sixteen watches and then calmly walked out while hundreds of persons were passing the store at the time, were held without bail for court today after they had waived a hearing before Recorder Stackhouse.

The men held are Robert A. Howard, thirty-four years old, and Howard Dixon, twenty-three years old, of Colorado street, near Wharton.

The store robbed was that of John C. Demmer, 504 Federal street. The robbery assumed the aspect of a comedy, when Demmer, with his legs tangled up in the chain, shouting at the top of his voice, ran down Federal street. Police responded to his cry and the men were captured later in a blind alley with their loot valued at more than $1000.

MURDER CASE WITNESS DOESN'T IDENTIFY KAIER

Cleveland Salesman Says "Champagne Charlie" Is Not Man Who Flew

Activity in the investigation of the murder of Marie Colwell was revived today. B. C. Brown, of Cleveland, the salesman who told of seeing a man jump from the plain model's apartment the night of the murder, related his story in detail to Captain Tate.

He called to identify Charles Kaier, the stationery city brewer, known as "Champagne Charlie," who was brought before him.

Customer Kaier said again he did not know Bernard W. Lewis killed the girl. He said so after conferring with the Coroner's Detective, Frank Paul, who returned from Philadelphia, where Lewis' body was exhumed for inspection. No information was obtainable as to the result of Paul's findings.

Brown came to Philadelphia late last night at the request of the Philadelphia police. He told Captain Tate he was passing the Wilton apartments on the night of the murder and saw a heavy set man jump from a window.

Brown said he was recommended by another salesman, and both started to stop the man, who stretched himself free, saying something about having had an argument with his wife. The man, Brown said, was of heavy build and wore a large diamond.

"Would you identify the man if you saw him?" Tate asked Brown.

"I think I could," Brown replied. "Captain Tate then sent detectives after 'Champagne Charlie' Kaier, who was at the Vendell Hotel.

After looking at Kaier for a few moments Brown said:

"No, he was not the man. I can answer for that."

Kaier made no protest when asked to read Brown. "I'm perfectly willing to do anything I can to solve this puzzle," he said. "I'll come to City Hall as many times as they want me."

Brown left for Cleveland shortly before noon.

"Never again," he told the newspaper men. "I'll never get mixed up in a murder case again if I can help it. Ever since I was engaged nearly a month the police have hounded me. When I want the police, it was the reporters," he concluded.

SPANELL ON TRIAL FOR DOUBLE SLAYING

Motive for Hotel Man's Murder of Wife and Army Captain Still Mystery

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 15.—Charged with the murder of his wife, Crystal Holcomb, and of Lieutenant Colonel Matthew C. Butler, of the Sixth Cavalry, U. S. A., Harry J. Spanell went on trial here today.

About one hundred witnesses, most of them from Texas, where the double tragedy was enacted on July 29, 1913, arrived early today.

Spanell was the proprietor of a hotel. His wife was the daughter of a wealthy banker and ranchman, and met Spanell while she was attending Baylor University. Lieutenant Colonel Butler was married. He was stationed at Washington for a year at the War College and had a wide acquaintance in army circles.

The motive for the killing was still a mystery when the trial opened today. The home life of the Spanells seemingly was ideal. On the evening of July 29 the Spanells, after a drive about the city of Alpine, invited Colonel Butler to join them. A few minutes later Spanell walked into the jail and surrendered to the Sheriff, saying:

"I have killed them both."

Spanell stopped his car a few blocks from the hotel, the police said, and began shooting with an automatic pistol and a six-shooter. The bodies of both Mrs. Spanell and Colonel Butler, who were occupying the rear seat, were riddled with bullets.

Supreme Court Renders Decisions

The following decisions were handed down by the Supreme Court today: Per curiam: Shoup et al. vs. Dumbare (C. P. Allegany), judgment affirmed; Dain vs. Loebber et al. (C. P. Allegany), Superior Court, judgment affirmed. By Chief Justice Brandeis: Raff vs. City of Philadelphia et al., bill sustained and injunction awarded; dissenting opinion by Justices Potter, Van Moschizker and Walling.

Two Held in Reading Assault

READING, Pa., Jan. 15.—Charles H. Martin, thirty-eight years old, in a dying quarrel in the Hopewell Hospital here today with a stab wound near the heart, and Dominio Falasco and William Meo, accused of being his assailants, are in jail on a charge of attempted murder.

PHILADELPHIA NEGROES HELD FOR JEWEL THEFT

Two Arraigned in Camden Following Hold-up of Storekeeper and $1000 Robbery

Two Philadelphia negroes who caused a little excitement around a Camden jewelry store Thursday afternoon, when they entered the place with "six-shooters" tied the proprietor in a chair, rifled the window of thirty diamonds and sixteen watches and then calmly walked out while hundreds of persons were passing the store at the time, were held without bail for court today after they had waived a hearing before Recorder Stackhouse.

The men held are Robert A. Howard, thirty-four years old, and Howard Dixon, twenty-three years old, of Colorado street, near Wharton.

The store robbed was that of John C. Demmer, 504 Federal street. The robbery assumed the aspect of a comedy, when Demmer, with his legs tangled up in the chain, shouting at the top of his voice, ran down Federal street. Police responded to his cry and the men were captured later in a blind alley with their loot valued at more than $1000.

Beginning Today The Season's Great Sale of FINE PERRY OVERCOATS

embracing about 2700 garments at Prices that will put 2700 men on Easy Street, so far as Overcoats are concerned, till the war is over!

- This Sale 206, formerly $45 and $50... $35 & $39 respectively
- This Sale 162, formerly $40... $31.00
- This Sale 540, formerly $30 and $35... $23 & $26 respectively
- This Sale 817, formerly $25... $18 & $19
- This Sale 715, formerly $22.50... $16.75
- This Sale 312, formerly $20... $15.50

Let's get down to facts. You've heard warnings about what you will have to pay next Fall and Winter for good Overcoats—well, here are some concrete reasons. The highest priced goods have advanced two dollars a yard over what we paid for them, so that, since it takes an average of over three yards for a coat, you can figure out the advance caused by that one item alone! But that's not all. Every other item is dearer—body lining, sleeve lining, inside and outside trimmings, velvet for the collars, the various findings, as well as the price of labor for their making; so much so, that if the Public only realized the whole truth of the matter, there would be a rush for Perry's this morning which would sweep every Overcoat out of our store, even if the buyers had to put them in storage until wanted!

This is a simple statement of facts—Do your own thinking!

This Sale is so big that every kind of Overcoat is represented—Ulsters with fur collars and Ulsters with cloth collars; Military Ulsters; great Coats with muff pockets; plain back Ulsters; Storm Ulsters; Kimono-sleeve Overcoats; Box Coats, single and double-breasted; Snappy Trench Coats with belts going all around; conservative Overcoats with velvet collars and fly fronts; in fabrics, some of which cannot be duplicated today at any price; rich imported beavers; fine fancy Overcoatings, blacks, Oxfords and shaggy chevots, heavy-weight stockinette fabrics and two-tone mixtures!

Sale for Limited Period Only!

Every garment out of our own regular stock! No special purchases! No estimated values! Strong sellers at original prices—and worth more than those prices today!

PERRY & CO.

"N. B. T." 16th & Chestnut Sts.