

MILLER NOW IDENTIFIED AS MISSING MUSICIAN

Family Here Receives Positive Information of His Re-appearance

Positive information is said to have been received by the family of Selden Miller, of this city, to have that the Philadelphia musician and choirmaster, who disappeared in 1912 and who has eluded an almost world-wide search, is alive and in hiding in Milwaukee.

Official announcement to that effect has been made by County Supervisor Louis Harms, of Milwaukee.

Miller sent word indirectly to his brother in this city saying that he was alive, well and happy in Milwaukee, but that he does not want to ever see members of his family again.

The former choirmaster said he is living an entirely new life and wishes to remain out away from his family and former friends. He refuses under any circumstances to meet his kinsmen. "I would rather work all my life as a laborer than return to the bosom of my family," he said.

Selden is heir to an estate in this city valued at $200,000 left by his father. Selden has promised to sign the necessary legal documents if he can do so by proxy. That is the only condition on which he will do so, and receive his share of the money.

Selden Miller's message to his family came through County Supervisor Harms, whom he asked to notify his family relative to the estate. If the papers which Doctor Miller wants signed are left with Mr. Harms, with either one of three notaries in Milwaukee, or with the cashier of the south side branches of any of the Milwaukee banks which have branches in that district, Selden will appear, sign the papers, have his signature in the press to the agent chosen that he really is Selden Miller and then fade back into the anonymity in which he has lived for two years.

"I am in a strange predicament," said Supervisor Harms. "I am bound by my word of honor to divulge nothing that I know of Mr. Miller except that he is well. I am authorized to act as his intermediary in arranging for his signing the papers which his brother wants signed, but only under the terms he has given. He specifies that under no condition will he meet, see or speak to his brother or his son by him. This is his ultimatum. His brother can have the papers signed in this way, or the estate can remain unsettled."

When this message was transmitted to Doctor Miller word was received that it was entirely unsatisfactory and Dr. Miller made strenuous efforts to have the entire story of Selden Miller's disappearance kept out of print. He wants to see Selden again and thinks he will be able to do so in the next twenty-four hours. Harms says there is no change from Selden's attitude. Whether it is a reconciliation that Dr. Miller seeks can only be guessed at, but there is no doubt of Selden's irreconcilable bitterness over some happening before he disappeared. Harms says that Selden Miller's only desire is to remain in his new life, with no further communication with his family.

Wilford Jordan, curator of Independence Hall, had charge of photographing the paintings and sending the prints and color descriptions to France. Mr. Rosenthal said among the paintings, which were not owned by the gallery, were Chevalier du Chambrey, Chastelloux, Dupontal, William Henry, Luzerne and Volney.

PEACEMAKER SLASHED TO DEATH IN BOOZE RIOT

Free-for-All Fight Ends Fatally at Quarry Near Lewistown. Two Held

LEWISTOWN, Pa., Feb. 19.—Alfreda Rocco, twenty-five years old, of Mount Union, was slashed about the head and breast in a free-for-all fight at the foreign quarries of the Nantony stone quarries last night and died on his way to the local hospital. Louis Best, twenty-four, and Dan Alexandro, thirty-five years, are in jail charged with the killing, while Tony Bando, Frank Butterino, Rio Chardela, Tony Palermo and Harry Gomaccia are held as witnesses.

The fight had its inception in an all-day carousal in which liquor played an important part. Rocco and Best came from Mount Union the previous night to spend Sunday with the Alexandro family, with whom they had boarded while working in the quarries some time previously. Had feeling was engendered by the refusal of the head of the household to furnish them with a bed.

A preliminary fight occurred at 9 o'clock in the morning, which included shooting and threats, but the real scene was reserved until night, when Best drew a revolver, firing four shots.

Alexandro accepted the challenge and the two men soon clinched. Rocco, acting in the capacity of peacemaker, attempted to separate the two men and was slashed by a knife in the hands of Alexandro. Patrolman M. A. Davis, of the Pennsylvania Railroad force, followed the slayers through the heart of the Seven Mountains in an automobile, overtaking them near Potter's Bank, where he arrested them.

Chester Woman Attacked
CHESTER, Pa., Feb. 19.—Mrs. John Higgins was found lying unconscious along the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks at Second and Thigman streets last night. A paving block weighing fifteen pounds evidently had been used in an attempt to murder her.

Wilmington Pickets Go to Washington
WILMINGTON, Del., Feb. 19.—Delaware women have decided to furnish its quota of pickets to the White House at Washington and fifteen members of the local organization, headed by Mrs. Margaret Haron, left here today to take part in that work.

SUFFRAGE PICKETS PLEASD

Miss Ida Rosenfelt in Party of Four Off to Capital

The effect on the public of the suffrage picket line at Washington is described as "splendid" by Miss Ada Rosenfelt, one of the four young women who today went from this city to the capital to take their places in the line on Wage Earners' Day.

"You would be surprised to know the amount of consideration given the pickets," said Miss Rosenfelt. "Every morning the President bows and tips his hat to the pickets."

The three young women who accompanied Miss Rosenfelt yesterday are Miss Yetta Gabin, Miss Lillian Levant and Miss Minnie Shoel. They are all members of local trades bodies and represent the working women of this city.

ENCORE WEEK!

Continuing for One Week More Our Special Clearance Sale of Fine Suits in answer to the very great Response of the Buying Public to our repeated Warnings as to coming higher prices!

The Public have shown such appreciation of our advice to buy next Winter's Suits now because of advancing prices, that we have determined to extend for one week more the opportunity to get fine Perry Suits at these season-end reductions.

To that end we have added 900 additional Suits to keep up the assortments and sizes!

The Suits in this Clearance Sale are going at prices lower than we can replace them for! Many of them, neither we nor anybody else can duplicate for one year after the war; for, one mill that made some of them has shut down because it can no longer obtain the grade of wool in them, nor the old fadeless colors with which these were dyed.

There isn't a cheap Suit among the assortments! Eight or nine months from now they will look mighty good alongside of Suits that will be selling for thirty to fifty dollars! For this one week the Suits that we sold all season for $43 will be $37; the Suits we sold for $40 will be $33; the $35 Suits will be $26; the $30 Suits will be $23; our fine assortments of $25 Suits will go for $19; and $16.75 will buy $20 and $22.50 Suits that can't be replaced for the money!

Just this one week at these Reductions!

Philadelphia is, perhaps, the only city in the world where it is possible to see in one room the celebrated Mason & Hamlin grand piano side by side with the Weber grand and the Steingway Pianola grand. These are all found in the grand piano room at Heppes', pictured above. Besides these, Heppes' handle their own grand, the H. C. Schomacker and the Edouard Jules.
