They also had designs on the lives of other heads of the British Government, according to secret service agents.

STRANGER WITH AUTO KIDNAPS IVYLAND BOY

Child, Seized on Way to Music Lesson, Escapes in This City

Albert Jamison, Jr., thirteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jamison, of Ivyland, near Doylestown, according to his own story, was kidnaped by a stranger in an automobile and taken to Philadelphia yesterday. Making his escape at a busy crossing on Market street, he went home by trolley.

The boy was on his way to take a violin lesson in Ardley when the autoist stopped him to ask the way to Willow Grove. When he declined an invitation to get in the car and show the way, the man struck him and forced him into the car. When they reached this city young Jamison took advantage of a delay ordered by a traffic policeman and jumped from the car. He was unable to distinguish the license number of the car because of mud. The man was young and wore a fur overcoat, the boy asserts.

FUND OF $6,000,000 IS MEDICAL MERGER NEED

Fund Necessary to Complete Union of U. of P. and Medico-Chi Schools

Following the official announcement by William Potter, president of the board of trustees of Jefferson Medical College, that a merger would not be made with the University of Pennsylvania Medical School and the Medico-Chirurgical College, Dr. William E. Ashton, of the University School, said that $6,000,000 will be needed for the full endowment and equipment of the combined University Medical School and the Medico-Chirurgical College.

The $6,000,000 fund will be needed in addition to the $1,000,000 which represents the available assets and property of the Graduate School. Doctor Ashton also announced that "there is every reason to believe that the Philadelphia Polytechnic Hospital will merge into the University and become an integral part of the Graduate School of Medicine."

"The great State of Pennsylvania," said Doctor Ashton, "should come to the support of the University and help establish the graduate school upon an enduring basis."

The post-graduate school, Doctor Ashton pointed out, was a great step toward the recovery for Philadelphia of her mantle as the greatest center of medical education in the world, lost when "Philadelphia fell asleep forty years ago."

"The life of independent medical schools," continued Doctor Ashton, "is rapidly growing to a close. One by one they will merge and eventually all the leading universities will establish a department of medicine. The universities will be confronted with the problem of conducting two departments of medicine—a graduate and an undergraduate school. Undergraduate schools of medicine must, of course, be equipped with laboratories for the investigation and treatment of disease, but the point we desire to emphasize is that they cannot be developed into centers of research work without detracting from their legitimate purpose and seriously interfering with the efficiency of undergraduate work."

EXPERTS DISCUSS FREEDOM OF SEAS AT SYMPOSIUM

Professor Stowell Opposes League to Enforce Peace—W. C. Bullitt Sees Alliance of Russia, Germany and Japan

Experts on international law gave their opinions of the effect on future American and world affairs of submarines, gas attacks, peace treaties and blockades, at a meeting of the Economic Club of Philadelphia at the Bellevue-Stratford last night. The primary subject of discussion was "What is the Freedom of the Sea?"

Elery C. Stowell, professor of international law at Columbia University, said that the world would never return from submarine and gas warfare to the older methods of attack. He scored America's benevolent neutrality and the President's advocacy of the League to Enforce Peace. Maurice Leon, of New York, an authority on international law, characterized Germany's sacrifice of noncombatants as flat piracy.

William C. Bullitt, of the Public Ledger staff, declared that the great coalition of the future would be between Germany,

LOST IN WOODS TWO NIGHTS

Children Wander Off Trying to Emulate Campfire Girls

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 22.—Lucy Williams and Ethel Webster, eleven years old, were found in an exhausted condition after having wandered for two nights in the woods about ten miles south of Norfolk. The children had become enthusiastic over the Camp Fire Girls' movement and wished to emulate the example of girls they read about who camped in the woods.

They ran away from home on Monday afternoon and started on a hike south. They soon became lost and wandered about, crying for help. They spent Monday and Tuesday nights alternately overcast by exhaustion and weeping for home and mother. Perseverant searching finally revealed a clue to the runaways and they were returned to their parents this afternoon.

SPRINKLE ASHES ON CATTLE

Upper North Penn Farmers Observed Old Custom Yesterday

LANSDALE, Pa., Feb. 22.—According to an old Pennsylvania-German custom, farmers of the Upper North Penn district yesterday sprinkled ashes on their cattle. Yesterday was Ash Wednesday and, according to the old belief, if ashes are sprinkled on the cattle on Ash Wednesday, the cattle will be immune to disease during the year.

STEINWAY Duo-Art Pianola PIANO

Steinway

Style V, upright, $550
 In Mahogany Case

If this piano was sold at its actual musical value, it would readily command a very much greater price. While it is made under the personal supervision of eight Steinways, in Steinway factories producing every part of it, the cost is little more than is asked for other pianos, all of which are practically imitations of the Steinway.

Steinway Duo-Art Pianola Piano reproduces the art of the great pianists; or you may play any standard roll on it, or play it with your fingers. No pumping.

CADILLAC

It Is With Real Pleasure that We Announce Limousines and Landaulets Available for Immediate Delivery

With the accumulation of motoring experience, the year-round advisability of the Limousine and the Landaulet becomes more and more apparent. Protection from the emergencies of the weather is as necessary and as welcome in summer as in winter. The Limousine or the Landaulet, at an instant's notice, may be made as snug as your home or as open as the air. Experience has also demonstrated that Cadillac Limousines and Landaulets represent the ultimate achievement of the enclosed-car idea.

You will find in them all that can contribute to your comfort and enjoyment. They have reached a point beyond which it does not appear possible to advance. There is great gratification for the Cadillac owner in the following fact: That the highest aim of the serious-minded manufacturer is to approximate Cadillac performance. Other types sometimes claim equality and sometimes superiority, but, consciously or unconsciously, it is always the Cadillac standard which they claim to equal or to surpass.

Fewer cylinders or more cylinders, they apparently have but one criterion, and that is the Cadillac V-type Eight-Cylinder criterion—forgetful of the fact that the high development of the Cadillac engine is only one fine phase of Cadillac performance.

It is well to remember that this has always been true—since the infant days of the industry.
