JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Arrangements Are Being Made for a Mammoth Bazaar to Be Given During Last Days of March. Other Things Discussed by Nancy Wynne

One of the biggest bazaars ever held in Philadelphia will be that of all the British societies which will take place at forticultural Hall the last of March. Approximately forty British organizations will participate, and that it will be overwhelming in its attractions and features coes without saying. Mrs. Cornelius Stevenson heads the general women's committee and Alba Johnson will act in the same capacity for the men's. The Transatlantic Society, Queen Mary's Needlework Guild, the Welsh Society, the scotch-Irish Society and others too numerous to mention are already working like beavers to make the affair a suc-

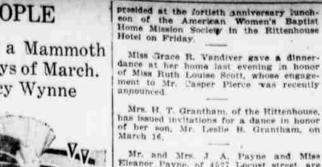

I prophesy that it will be a triumph. for the principle back of the bazaar is bomanity. All caste lines have been cradicated and on the list of patrone wes are to be found the names of society women of the most exclusive circles as well as these of many women whose ambitions run not to social achievement and who are content to labor for the suffering sol diers unknown and unsung. In fact, I know several of the latter who asked that their names be not placed on the committee, as they preferred to work in silence and obscurity. Here are just a few of those who have signified their intention of working for the cause: Mrs. John Cadwalader, Mrs. Alexander Van Rensselaer, Mrs. Sidney Keith, Mrs. George Thayer, Mrs. George Willing, Mrs. L. Webster Fox, Mrs. Joseph M. Gazzam, Mrs. Benjamin Chew Tilghman, Miss Heien Cadwalader, Miss Elizabeth Hays and Mrs. George Fritz Chandler. I think I'll have more to tell you about it later.

TTS funny how one story evokes an I other. I was still chortling over the mall boy whose ending to the Lord's Praver was "Deliver us four tons of coal tomorrow sure" when the following delightfully pious tale came to mine ears: A certain small son, whose name hears the number four after it, was taken by his fond parents to a family dinner at his grandfather's home on one of the recent holidays. As the family assembled about the table, the soup having been served at each place, the father of the family bent his head over the plate and, of course, all followed suit in saying a silent grace. But little grandson was unconsciously bent on showing up the fact that he was not used to saying grace and called out with suppressed excitement in his voice for, child like, he wanted to guess first), "I know! I know! It's chicken soup!"

Twas a source of great regret to the numerous friends of the late Miss Elizabeth Hill (who endeared herself to to many while she worked at the Emergency Aid and Preparedness Headquarters for the benefit of the poor and suffering at home and abroad) that her family decided to take her body away from the city without holding any religious services here. Of course, there were services in Augusta, Fla., where she was buried, but many of her friends felt the coldness of no prayers here. So it has been decided to hold a memorial service for her tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in St. James's Protestant Episcopal Church, at Twenty-second and Wal-soft streets, and it is hoped that all who hear of it will go.

 $\mathbf{S}^{\text{oclety}}_{\text{Little}}$ was well represented at the Little Theatre last evening, when Shane Leslie, of England, gave a lecture in the late Cardinal Manning under the auspices of the Ladies of Charity associated with the Society of St. Vincent de Paul. PENN TO BE SOCIALIZED AT MASQUE OF DRAM

Five Hundred Delegates and Co-ad Will Be in Chorus, Says Director

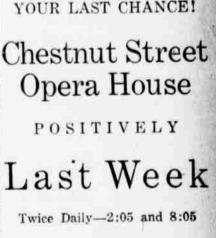

Socializing the University of Pennsyl vania by means of a dance chorus of 50 students is the purpose of the masque of American drama that received the approv-of Provent Edgar Fahs Smith today. The masque will be presented in the Botanics Gardens the second week in May.

Chorus rehearsals will begin next Thur day, following the placarding of the cam-pus today with posters calling for re-cruits. To aid the project, William J. Cromie, director of physical education, announced today that he would teach the dance steps to be used in the spectacle as a part of the gymnasium curriculum.

The aim of democratizing the Univer-sity through the channels of the dance was explained today by George F. Kear-ney, director of the production.

"Divergent groups at the U. of P. wfli be brought together by the dance chorus we are to use," he said. "Co-eds, hitherto barred from the social life, will be drafted, while fraternitles and other isolated groups will be made into one big com-munity—a big, happy family. Millionmunity—a big, happy family. Million-aires' sons will rub shoulders with off-springs of ash-cart drivers and be glad to do is with the thought they are doing something for the University,"
