PLANNING TO DEFEAT SUFFRAGE IN HOUSE

Republican Organization Doesn't Want Amendment to Reach State Senate

"DEAD ISSUE" IS EXCUSE

Shouldn't Be Asked to Suscribe to Question Defeated at Polls

By a Staff Correspondent . HARRISBURG, March 2 .- Under the plea that the people of Pennsylvania should not be asked to subscribe to an issue that was defeated at the polls only last fall, the Republican organization leaders of the House and Senate are planning to defeat the woman's suffrage amendment to the State Constitution

The amendment, which was introduced in the House last week by Representative Samuel A. Whitaker, of Chester County, stands little chance of passing the House. nothing of the Senate.

The Republican leaders of the House, regardiess of the attitude of the Democrats, have mapped out a program of action that calls for the defeat of the measure when it comes up for its first vote on second read-ing. The resolution, incidentally, is being held without explanation in the House Com-mittee on Constitutional Reform.

The House leaders are trying to prevent the measure from reaching the Senate. They figure that if it is defeated in the lower branch of the General Assembly, Pennsylvanians will think that the will of the people has been expressed, while if it passes the House and is sent on to the Senate to be defeated, the people of the State will think that a coalition of organizaleaders has defeated it.

Hence the program. When the measure comes up for its first vote in the House, every effort will be exerted to defeat it, and equal suffrage will have to wait seven years from 1816, instead of five before it is finally

Witnesses to Be Heard in Case of Woman Who Disinherited Pro-German Son

LEBANON, Pa., March 2.—Judge C. V. Henry, President Judge of the Lebanon County Courts, has issued a rule on Dr. Guido Henkle, of Freiburg, Germany, to show cause why A. M. Thackara, of Paris. France, should not be appointed a commis-sioner to take the testimony of witnesses in Paris in the suit instituted here by Doctor Henkle to break the will of his mother, the late Rosalie Parant Coleman, who dis-owned and disinherited him because he en-tered the war on the side of the Kaiser.

Testimony is to be taken on the question f her mental and testementary capacity d undue influence exercised by the bene ficiaries, as alleged by Doctor Henkle; also whether at any time she spoke of the ex-istence of a son other than Robert Cole-man, who died in infancy.

It is claimed by Doctor Henkle that his other, by codicils to her will in which she originally named him as her universal lega-tee, executed February 23 and February 25, 1915, declared him dead to her, distributed her fortume among French charities and gave her holdings in the Cornwall ore mines to J. Coleman Drayton, Ronald George de Reuter and Camille Besson.

Efforts on the part of Doctor Henkle have the Berlin court take the testimony of Prince von Donnersmark, his father, were nullified by the recent death of the Prince.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., March 2.—After a desperate attempt at a double traggdy late last night. Allen Kern, twenty-twk years old, of Slatington, is dying at the Palmerton Hospital with two bullets in his body. Kern was a promising young man when two years ago he married a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kirchner, but their wedded life was not happy and during fits of jealousy he took to drink and abusing his wife. Some time ago he lost his position and Mrs. Kern went back home to he revents, taking along their six-month-old baby.

Kern lost heart entirely and for the last week lived and slept at the police station. Several days ago he bought a revolver, which he immediately tried to self to a policeman who didn't want it. Last evening he called at the Kirchner home and asked to see the baby, but was not admitted. Bolling with rage he lucked about the premises and at about 10 o'clock, as his wife, with the baby in her arms, was about to go upstairs, Kern fired through a window into ston, Episcopal Missionary Bisnop of pac-ern Oklahoma, in his noonday address at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Tenth street, above Chestuut street, compared the ston, Episcopal Missionary Bishop of Eastpeople of today with the people at the time of the birth of Christ. He said there were three classes—the shepherds to whom was announced the birth of Christ. These are the same as the Christians of today who possess religion and have no trouble to live up to their religion; there are others, like Herod and his ilk, who would do all they could to hinder Christianity, and still others who, like the people of Judea still others who, like the people of Judea at the time of Christ, strive to do good and lead Christian lives today, but they are continually fighting for this attainment. "Lukewarm Christians," he said, "can be compared to such people as Herod, who do everything they can against Christianity, because they drag along with it, but do not lend their shoulder to push."
