

DUNDEE HERE TO TAKE AWAY MONEY—HIS MANAGER WANTS TO GIVE AWAY BANK ROLL

MONTEITH CAN'T INVEIGLE JACKSON TO TAKE $4500 CHECK FOR RETURN BOUT WITH DUNDEE; NOTHIN' DOIN'

Scotty's Philanthropic Intentions Prove Unsuccessful When Willie Refuses Bribe of Young Fortune for His Signature

By LOUIS H. JAFFE

JOHNNY DUNDEE and Scotty Monteith, gentlemen from New York city, are in Philadelphia today, each with a perfectly good and distinctly different purpose. Dundee, for giving Olympia fans tonight an exhibition of his clever boxing that has made him a flat flinger of the first water, is to carry away a large bundle of U. S. dollars. Monteith, on the other hand, is here to prove himself a philanthropist. He wants to give money away.

It is the truth, Monteith, who is so anxious—very anxious—to separate himself from a chunk of coin, has but one reason for his philanthropic intention; he manages Dundee. And Willie Jackson is the only one whom Monteith is willing to wish his little fortune upon. But before Mr. Jackson can call Monteith's money his own, he must sign for it under the name of Oscar Tobin, Jackson's real name. Willie must sign for another match with Dundee.

You know, Jackson several weeks ago knocked out Dundee in less than a round and also knocked out a lot of dough in the process. Since then Dundee's ambition, and that of Monteith, has been a return tilt with Jackson. Jackson says he will box Dundee again. Then when a contract is placed in front of him for some reason or other, he acknowledges that his penmanship is very bad, and hates to spoil a neat set of articles with his signature.

Would Pay Jackson

So to prove that he is a regular guy Monteith is out to get an encore with Dundee, and pay Willie well. Forty-five hundred dollars is the bribe Scotty wants to pay Jackson and until Monteith and his boxer left New York for Philly, Jackson had refused. Now Scotty is around town flashing a piece of paper, which represents $500 real iron, that he can't give out— to Willie Jackson.

It is safe to say that Dundee will get away with the money he came here after and that Monteith will have a check for which he wants to rid himself. Scotty, with said $4500 check in his jeans, will watch Dundee in the latter's combat tonight against Terry McGovern, and then after a little more than eighteen minutes or less—Dundee's jeans will be laden down with the jingling stuff.

Dundee will have no easy time earning his money this evening. In meeting McGovern, Dundee will be pitted against Philadelphia's most aggressive lightweight who can stand up well under punishment, and is no slouch when it comes to distributing it. Terry has been hitting the lightweight trail like a thoroughbred in the stretch, but whether Dundee will stop Mac's flying pace remains to be seen.

The usual four other bouts also are on schedule and they appear to be well matched. Eddie McAndrews and Joe Welsh will go at it again in the semifinal, and if McAndrews wins, the same decision will be rendered as before. Jimmy Coster meets Buck Taylor; Bert Spencer boxes Denny Shannon, and Jimmy Doyle, the submarine kid, faces Leo Flynn.

Three in One Bout

It doesn't sound natural, but there were three principals in the wind-up at the National A. C. Saturday night and at the final one who wasn't supposed to be in the fracas deserves honors, if any are to be handed around. Jack McKeegan did more wrestling and prying apart than Charley Thomas or Soakem Youakum, but it was evident that neither paid any attention to the referee and allowed him to win as he pleased.

If the Thomas-Youakum bout was supposed to be a boxing match we rather would like to see bulldogs in the ring than humans. There wasn't a second of clean boxing at any time, and those fascinated by wrestling probably enjoyed the bout, but no one came to see a grappling match.

Johnny Wolgast, a brother of Ad, appears to be a boxer who will make a lot of welters seek cover, even though he ran second to Henry Hauber. Hauber walloped Wolgast good and plenty, enough to be on the winning end after six rounds, but Johnny showed sufficient form in flashes to stamp him as a rising boxer.

Muggsy Taylor's stable punched at a 1600 clip, with Hauber winning and

NEWS ABOUT THE BOWLERS

LOCAL ten-pin enthusiasts will have to be satisfied with city championships this year. The calling off of the Atlantic Coast series scheduled at Syracuse was a big disappointment to the sports fans of this city. The chapter will meet shortly and decide whether or not to roll a series among teams of this city and vicinity. It has been some years since an endurance test of bowling has been staged in this city. The last event of the kind between two men teams was rolled on Casino Alley. Manager George M. Moss, of the Keystone Alley, announced that this year's tourney will be between twelve teams of two men each. They will begin to bowl next Wednesday at noon, and either one of the pair must roll continuously during the twelve consecutive hours the tourney is in progress. The pair knocking down the greatest number of pins will win the tourney.

The American Bowling Congress championship series in Grand Rapids, Mich., this year include 714 five-man teams, 1344 two-man teams and 8099 individuals. In each class the teams and individuals will bowl three games, and the day following teams and individuals complete. A share of the prize money is given to the winners who establish the best score in this tourney at Toledo some time ago that William J. Knox, of the White Horse team, knocked down the pins twelve times in succession in one game, thus setting the 300 perfect score in his individual game. Knox was awarded a medal.

Browne Receives Word of Hoosier's Departure and Garden Will Remain Dark Tonight

NEW YORK, March 5.—Grant Hugh Browne, athletic director of Madison Square Garden, encountered another obstacle in his new venture as a boxing promoter and has been compelled to announce that there would be no boxing in Madison Square this evening. He had received word from Sam Marburger, manager of Jack Dillon, the Indianapolis light-heavyweight, that the latter, as a result of some kind of a dispute had boarded a train for his home in Indianapolis. This action on the part of the Hoosier boxer automatically canceled the scheduled bout with Jim Flynn.

League Bowlers in Close Races

A game or two is the margin which separates many of the leading teams and the chances are that in some of the later games the teams are only a few games behind the successful ones. It would prevent crowding in the races.

GIRARD COLLEGE HAS STRONG TEAM

Collegians Rank With Best Quintets in This Section. Media Players Eligible

Girard College, though playing in no school league, has one of the best basketball teams in this section. In a display of speed and aggressiveness the Girard College athletes defeated the Atlantic City High School team by a large score. Selected if ever have the Girard youngsters put up a better game in the case.

Girard has a powerful field goal scoring machine with such passers as Powell, Knorr, Klotz, Gilham and Kuppinger. Powell, Knorr and Klotz showed their best form of the season against the shore quintet, Gilham was not in good shape for foul-goal scoring. He has done much better than was the case on Saturday. Perry is another very good foul shooter at Girard. Porreca also plays well.

Media High Stars Eligible Agnes and Westcott are back in basketball for Media High. These two stars were recently declared ineligible, but they made up their back work and were in the game against Catholic High, which the Media team won, 40 to 38. These two stars scored 16 of the entire total made by Media.
