"He is merely reflecting a reflection on the court," interposed Judge Martin.

TOO MANY SALOONS

In conclusion the remonstrance attorneys called upon all persons protesting against the saloon to stand up.

Remonstrance against the application by James Harrington for renewal of his license at 14 North Tenth street was withdrawn by Faught.

John Featherstone was refused a license to open a saloon at Sixty-first and Arch streets when Faught showed that there are three saloons within a radius of three squares.

Featherstone, who said he was an ex-carpenter, fifty-five years old, furnished as proof of his good character the fact that he had worked as a carpenter for one firm for twenty-eight years.

"Do you know anything about a saloon?" asked Judge Martin.

"Yes, I was a bartender for two years, about 1877," replied Featherstone.

"That is pretty long ago," commented Judge Finletter. "Do you think you could mix a Bronx cocktail?"

Featherstone admitted that he could not.

TALKS ON "THE NEW CIVICS"

Business Science Club Hears Address on School Methods

Prof. J. Lynn Bernard, of the School of Pedagogy, addressed the members of the Business Science Club at the weekly luncheon at the Hotel Adelphia today, taking for his subject "The New Civics."

Professor Bernard spoke of the change that has taken place in the matter of instructing the young, and said that under the present system the child did not have to wait until it reached the eighth grade before it became acquainted with the things it should have been trained in from the time it entered school.

The speaker said the system in vogue now had been a success and the children were quick to grasp this line of instruction.

THE CHILDREN'S DEPARTMENT is an important feature of our business—the growth of the "Big Shoe Store" is due in a large measure to our great care in selecting shoes for the young child.

MONEY ROW IN GYPSY CAMP HALTS EXODUS

King and His Assistant Quarrel and Cohorts Stop at Station

Fate seems to hold the fortune telling gypsies in Philadelphia. Thirty of them are unaroused in Broad street station because the King and assistant King got in a squabble over dividends, the police say.

The southeast corner of the station resembles a Roman camp and the incoming traveler at first glance is made to believe he has struck at a slice of either Bohemia or Egypt.

Brightly colored shawls and emphatic jewelry which clinked with every step made bold contrast with the dead walls of the station. The constant chatter of the women and the wrangling of their children showed there was much discontent in camp despite the fact that big harvests were made during their stay in this city.

The little colony has been in the station since last night. They went there to depart for Hopewell, Lyndeburg and other points and made every preparation to leave in accordance with their promise to the authorities.

Trouble between the men leaders erupted abruptly. They came to blows and two policemen took them to City Hall.

As the women could not leave without the men there was nothing to do but await the deliberations of justice.

The Pennsylvania Railroad could not put them out of the station, for the reason that the gypsies had their tickets which compel the company to act as host while they are here.

It is possible that the two leaders will declare peace tonight and be discharged, which would simplify matters considerably and enable patient tribe to quit the station.

MONEY AND PIES LAND BOY OF 14 IN PRISON

Two Bakery Women Managers Victims of Harvey Zennel's Fraud Plan

Fourteen-year-old Harvey Zennel played Mrs. Mary Cheswick against Mrs. Ella Daly for $2 and then turned around and played Mrs. Ella Daly against Mrs. Mary Cheswick for six pies—and now he is in the toils of the law, accused of obtaining money and pie under false pretenses.

Zennel, who lives at 419 Walnut street, Camden, wrote two notes, according to the police. One he presented to Mrs. Daly, who is manager of the Samuel W. Hibbs bakery, at Fifth and Benson streets, Camden, and the other to Mrs. Cheswick, manager of the Samuel W. Hibbs bakery, at 141 Broadway, Camden.

The one asked for $2 in small change in the name of Mrs. Cheswick; the other asked for six assorted pies in the name of Mrs. Daly. When the two managers checked up accounts today the fraud was discovered. Zennel's case is being held over for investigation by Recorder Stackhouse.

BELLIGERENT BRITISH JACK TAR FINDS AN AMERICAN WHO FIGHTS

Takes on Cargo of Port Richmond Booze and Tries to Rule Land Thereabout—Shows Sympathy for Allies by Chucking Belgian Block Into Saloon

Daniel La Mont, a seaman on the English steamship Covington, which is loading grain for the Allies at Cambria street wharf, was a busy old bee assuming a personal load around the gilded "gineries" of Port Richmond last night, and near midnight brought up at the saloon of James Mahoney, at Richmond and Clearfield streets, where he shouted "whisky" in the deep, salty way of his kind.

When the bartender shoved forth the decanter Daniel put it in his pocket and started for the door, singing out lustily, "The Americans—will they fight—I guess not—I guess not; how 'bout the suffering Belgians?" The bartender, grievously stunned by this unusual attitude, made no move, and when Daniel got outside he hurled a Belgian block through the saloon window by way of protest.

$12,000 WORTH OF DYES DESTROYED BY FLAMES

Fire Razes Building of General Processing Company—Loss Estimated at $35,000

Firemen battled vainly for several hours against flames of an unknown origin that completely destroyed the three-story brick dyehouse of the General Processing Company, at Amber street and Allegheny avenue, and $12,000 worth of American dyes. The entire loss is estimated at $35,000.

The fire, which began in the dryroom of the plant, was discovered shortly after 5 o'clock last night by an employee who detected smoke and was discharged, which spread rapidly owing to the many chemical preparations in the establishment.

When the firemen arrived on the scene they were greeted with a solid sheet of flames that passed through the roof and roared through the windows.

Twenty-four horses were rescued from an adjoining stable, which was slightly damaged by the fire. William C. Foy, of General Processing Company, today said that he could not account for the manner in which the blaze started. He said that all the machinery, dyestuffs and the building were rendered absolutely valueless by the flames.

WOMAN HELD IN SHOOTING

Accused of Firing Pointblank at Man. Latter Denies Her Charges

Mrs. Marie Knowles, accused of firing three shots pointblank at Thomas Haney, when she met him on the street, was held in $1000 bail today by Magistrate Costello, at the Eighth and Jefferson streets station, on charges of assault and battery with attempt to kill.

Mrs. Knowles, who lives at 1410 North Perth street, said she had suffered at Haney's hands. The first of the bullets passed between Haney's upraised arm and his ear as he was walking late yesterday with his father, Michael Haney, of 1429 North Warnock street, near Tenth and Jefferson streets, within two squares of the police station. The woman has been separated from her husband for several years. At the hearing the elder Haney declared that Mrs. Knowles had called at their home and demanded his son, saying that she would get him and no one else would. Young Haney, who is thirty-two years old, denied Mrs. Knowles's accusations.

The Legislature should enact this bill into law! On Monday, March 12, a vitally important bill is expected to come up for vote before the New Jersey Assembly. This bill affects DIRECTLY every business and business man—every farmer—every manufacturer—EVERY CITIZEN in the entire State. It is a sound, sensible, workable measure to give the Board of Public Utility Commissioners authority to determine how trains should be manned. It empowers this Board to COMPEL railroads to crew every train as the Board shall order. This new law WILL ACCOMPLISH the very things for which the "full crew" law was enacted—and in which it has failed:— Make sure an adequate, but not excessive crew for every freight and passenger train; Completely protect both trainmen and public. Railroads exist to provide adequate and safe transportation service both for passengers and freight. Public interest lies in getting such service. The railroads must have facilities to move traffic with regularity, dispatch—and do it with safety and economy. The Trustees of the State Chamber through the Bureau of State Research made an exhaustive study of the workings of the "full crew" law. The proposed bill carries out the recommendations of their report. It is an adequate, effective and workable measure. Manufacturers, business organizations, the Grange, the press and the State Chamber of Commerce ALL OPPOSE THE EXISTING LAW AND FAVOR THIS NEW BILL! Every legislator in this state will feel the responsibility that is placed squarely on his shoulders when the time comes to vote! He should be given the expressed wish—direct—of his constituents, each one. Write or telephone or otherwise communicate with your representative in the State Legislature and tell him that you feel that this bill should be enacted. He will appreciate your interest. The time is short; get in communication with him TODAY. The bill has the hearty indorsement of Boards, of Trade and Chambers of Commerce in the leading cities throughout the State; it has the strong support of intelligent, public-spirited citizens; It should be enacted. It should pass the Assembly, without delay. We urge YOU to let your Representative know that, in supporting this bill, he is voting as you would have him vote.
