Theatrical Baedeker for the Coming Week

Forrest and Adelphi to Offer Musical Comedy and Operetta, Respectively—Satire on Society-Climbers at the Little Theatre

NEW ATTRACTIONS

ADELPHI—"The Beautiful Unknown," with Lois Ewell and others. First Metropolitan production of an operetta written to the score of Oscar Straus, whose "The Chocolate Soldier" and "A Waltz Dream" have endeared him as a source of melody. Opening, Monday night.

FORREST—"Have a Heart," with Margaret Romaine, Billy B. Van, Donald MacDonald and others. Musical comedy produced by Henry W. Savage, which comes here after a run in New York city. Opening, Monday night.

LITTLE THEATRE—"The Family Tree," with Stage Society Players. A farce poking fun at ancestral pride, written by Howard Shelley, well-known as a newspaper man. It is said to have been modeled on events that took place in Philadelphia. Opening, Wednesday night.

CHESTNUT STREET OPERA HOUSE—"Womanhood, or the Glory of a Nation," with distinguished Vitagraph cast. The feminine place in preparing a nation against invasion is the film's theme. Opening, Monday afternoon.

CONTINUING PLAYS

BROAD—"Treasure Island," with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hopkins. The perfect Stevenson romance done in the perfect Stevenson manner, with an adequate company and full of thrills.

GARRICK—"Fair and Warmer," with Edna Hibberd, Ernest Cossart and Janet Beecher. Avery Hopwood's Frenchy farce about the insidious cocktail and two young married couples. Amusing.

LYRIC—"Katinka," with T. Roy Barnes and Ada Meade. A tunefully tinkling musical play, with capital music, a good cast and the usual libretto. Barnes is funny.

AT POPULAR PRICES

KNICKERBOCKER—"The Princess Pat." Inauguration of season of musical comedy with traveling companies. The first vehicle boasts music by Victor Herbert.

WALNUT—"Girl of Mine," with Sylvia ("Cuddles") De Frankie. Musical comedy, with libretto by David Wolf and music by Ray Peabody.

ORPHEUM—"Her Unborn Child." Drama based on the subject of birth control, but containing enough comedy to please most theatre-goers.

FEATURE FILMS

STANLEY—"Sapho," with Pauline Frederick. Film adaptation of Daudet's once sensational novel, played on the stage by Olga Nethersole. Travel, educational and comedies also included in the bill.

ARCADIA—"Blood Will Tell," with William Desmond, first half of week. "The Dummy," with Jack Pickford, latter half of week. Others.

VICTORIA—"A Tale of Two Cities," with William Farnum, first half of the week. "The Mortal Sin," with Viola Dana, latter half of the week. Others, including Keystone.

PALACE—"The Fortunes of Fifi," with Marguerite Clark, all week. Others, including war pictures.

REGENT—Blanche Sweet in "Those Without Sin," Monday, Tuesday; "The Girl Philippa," with Anita Stewart, Wednesday, Thursday; "The Barricade," with Mabel Taliaferro, Friday, Saturday.

STRAND—"The Argyle Case," with Robert Warwick, all week. Others.

VAUDEVILLE

KEITH'S—Gertrude Hoffmann in revue (second week); Al Herman, "The Black Laugh"; Franklyn Ardell in "The Wife-Saver"; Frank Orth and William J. Dooley; Helene Hamilton and Jack Barnes; Ed Lavine; Oscar Lorraine; Martinetti and Sylvester.

GLOBE—"Salvation Sue"; "Marcelle," musical comedy; Cardo and Noll; Fred C. Hagan and company; Zelda; Chinese musical entertainers; Four Jansleys; Sam Harris; Ben Smith; the Randalls.

BROADWAY—"The Kissing School," musical comedy; "An Innocent Bystander"; Joe Cook; Tom and Stacia Moore; Van Clove and Pete; "A Tale of Two Cities," photoplay, first half of week. "The Wedding Party"; Madison and Winchester; Morgan, Smith and company; Jim and Marian Harkins; Schrode and Mulvey; "Love's Law," photoplay, latter half of week.

GRAND—Julian Rose, Hebrew comedian; "The Seven Little Darlings"; Van Cello, foot-juggler; Neher and Kappelle, skaters; Burns and Foran; Knapp and Cornelia.

CROSS KEYS—"Won by a Leg"; "The Sicilian Serenaders"; Moore and Wood; Lew Ward; Tracey and Vincent; De Marco's baboons, first half of week. "Miss Mistaken Miss"; Paul Burns; Miller and Lyle; Clayton-Drew Players; Cunningham and Marion; Prof. Herman and company.

WILLIAM PENN—Ray and Gordon Dooley; Fields and Holliday; "Memories"; "Three in One"; "Betsy's Burglar," photoplay, first half of week. "The Kissing School"; Bert Hanlon; Hal Skelley and Eunice Sauvain; Green, Miller and Green; "Back of the Man," photoplay, latter half of the week.

BURLESQUE

CASINO—"The Sightseers," a Blutch Cooper production, with Will J. Kennedy and Jack Miller. Good cast and scenic equipment promised by the management.

TROCADERO — "The Lid Lifters," with Ora Ental, the dancer, and a company of comedians and girls, with topical satires and farces.

TRAVELOGUES

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—"The Garden of Allah," with travel lecture by Dwight Elmendorf, next Friday afternoon and the following Saturday evening.

Quicker Mail to Jersey Towns

AUDUBON, N. J., March 17.—Audubon and Haddon Heights have obtained direct mail service through Camden, which removes a complaint made repeatedly to postal authorities. Hereafter, it is announced, all mail from Camden will be sent direct to each borough, in separate pouches, by regular mail trains, thus facilitating delivery often by thirty-six hours.
