

ERAGE MAN'S ATTITUDE TOWARD FIANCEE—AND WIFE
Why This Difference After Marriage?—The Girl Who Will Discuss Business Secrets in Public.
The Unheroic Level of Some Men's Lives

Why cannot men keep for always the chivalrous attitude they adopt toward their wives before marriage? Several years ago I ran across some acquaintances, a man and his young wife, whom I had known for some time, but had not seen since their marriage.

When the man first met the girl his essential manner charmed her. During their engagement the observer could detect a self-satisfied look—that proprietary air—some men adopt toward their fiancées. Now, two years after their marriage, the man's attitude toward his wife, the mother of his young son, is entirely different.

An evening cap of chiffon, gathered in the back on elastic bands, so that it may be easily slipped over the coiffure without disturbing it. The top is round and flat, almost a hat in itself! At least the ladies of 1860 would have so considered it.

RECENTLY I heard a man who was a keen judge of men say that any man who amounted to anything in this world had "a touch of the saint and a taint of the sinner" in him. The men who live their lives without assuming any responsibilities, who avoid all issues, would if weighed in the balance be found wanting, whereas those who are vigorous, who accomplish much good in spite of a few backslidings belong to the higher order.

- ANSWERS TO YESTERDAY'S INQUIRIES
1. Grape stains can be removed with soap-suds and a little ammonia water.
2. A beefsteak should be thoroughly wrapped with a knife and in order to insure its being tender, it should be seasoned with a rotund number. Be careful not to salt the steak before or in the process of cooking. This renders it tough. After it is taken from the broiler put a little butter over it and sprinkle with salt and pepper before serving.

Baked Calves' Liver
Dear Madam—Liver is such a homely dish yet housekeepers are often surprised at the ways of cooking it than by simply frying with butter. Baked calves' liver is delicious. Take one and a half pounds of calves' liver, one cupful hot water, two tablespoonfuls thick cream, one tablespoonful flour, lump butter, salt and pepper to taste. The liver should be in a whole piece. After removing the skin and wash it with cold water. Dip in flour, dip in egg, salt and pepper and brown in butter. Then add the hot water, wash with cold water in a stock oven. Baste twice, the second time with cream and butter.

Chicken Croquettes
Dear Madam—One cupful cold chicken, chopped and added to a pint of thick sauce, well mixed and shaped into rolls, dipped in cracker crumbs, and fried in deep fat. This is a very simple and delicious recipe for chicken croquettes. (Mrs. M. O'H.)

Feeding the Child
Dear Madam—My little girl was born and just beginning to take solid foods. I am not sure that I am doing it right. I am so nervous, as it was narrow and pointed, and I am a better fit for the little mouth. What can I give her now?

Substitute for Graham Flour
Dear Madam—If I had been substituted for graham flour in a recipe, would it be as good as the original? I have a recipe for a little hamper and in more ways than one it is a good substitute for graham flour. (Mrs. M. O'H.)

Fallen Arches
Dear Madam—Can you tell me whether there is any way to have fallen arches corrected? I have had them since I was a child and they are very painful. (Mrs. M. O'H.)

"Mr. Ernest Moore," she continues, "in an address delivered last spring emphasized a truth which Americans for the most part ignore or deny—that the child does not belong to its parents, but to the State, to organized society as a whole."

FRENCHWOMEN PREPARED
"The Frenchwomen always were prepared. The Englishwomen have proved themselves wondrous. They have done work that women have never before done in England. They have worked in the fields and in the factories and in the public institutions. They have worked—these young women—far more long hours and we have wondered how they stood it. Something like that we could do."

HOUSEHOLD HELPS

Why Your Housecleaning Should Begin on Paper
THE "spring drive" of the foreign armies is begun many months before it actually happens—on paper. It is the planning ahead that makes possible the pushing forward of orderly attacks. So, too, the housewife who knows that a strong "spring drive" must be made on the microscopic enemies in the household, must plan in advance.

Governess Is Power
One of the most influential women in Italy at present is Miss Margaret Brown, the English governess of the young princess of the Italian royal family. Since the publication of the arrangement of a marriage between the youthful Prince of Wales, heir-apparent to the English throne, and Princess Yolanda, eldest daughter of the King and Queen of Italy, the position of this humble governess as the domestic power behind the throne, is said to have become particularly interesting, and to have gained amazingly in power and prestige.
