

EPISCOPAL CLERGY PLAN RESERVE CORPS

Enthusiasm Marks Meeting in Church House With View to Aiding Preparedness

150 MINISTERS ATTEND

Bishop Rhinelander Presides—Bishop Suffragan Garland's Militant Resolution

A resolution to provide for the organization of a "Clergy Reserve Corps" of Episcopalian pastors in the diocese of Pennsylvania was adopted today at a special meeting of clergy of the diocese called by Bishop Philip M. Rhinelander at the Church House, Twelfth and Walnut streets.

That the purpose of the clergy reserve corps may be more efficient than the offer of service as chaplains in the army and navy was gathered from the enthusiastic tone of addresses urging participation in military preparedness.

No official announcement was made of the purpose. The resolution providing for the corps was offered by the Rev. Dr. John Mockridge, of St. James's Church. It was adopted unanimously by the meeting, which was attended by more than 150 clergymen.

The text of the resolution was as follows: "Be it resolved, That a committee be appointed to arrange for the formation and organization of a clergy reserve corps, and be it further resolved that the corps be made up of clergy of the diocese of Pennsylvania and that the committee be empowered to extend the size of the corps.

Adoption of the resolution followed a vigorous address by Bishop Suffragan Thomas J. Garland, calling attention to the steps taken by manufacturers, colleges and other groups to aid the United States in preparedness.

He pointed out the enthusiasm with which Canadian and English clergy had undertaken support of their countries, and said that some of them had even gone to the extent of bearing arms. In response to his question, "What can the clergy here do?" the resolution was offered.

Later Bishop Garland offered a resolution calling on clergy of the diocese to pledge their services for use of the nation "in any way they might be called upon to give." The committee which will deal with the clergy reserve corps formation is as follows: The Rev. Dr. Edward M. Jefferys, St. Peter's Church; the Rev. John Mockridge, the Rev. John Harding, of St. Mark's Church, Frankford; the Rev. James A. Montgomery, Philadelphia Divinity School.

VARE TITLE TO CHELSEA FRONT FOUGHT IN COURT

Archibald S. Lambert Brings Suit to Test Ownership of Valuable Property

ATLANTIC CITY, April 2.—Chelsea beach front valued at $50,000 is involved in the suit of Archibald S. Lambert, formerly of Baltimore, against Mrs. Ida S. Vares, wife of Representative William S. Vares, of Philadelphia, holder of title to the Vares mansion at Berkeley Square and the beach front, called for trial this afternoon. Lambert is suing to quit title to a strip known as "Port Lambert," between the Vares mansion and the Boardwalk, which also is claimed by the Vares. Under the action the Vares will have to disprove the validity of Lambert's title, which is based on a riparian grant. The Vares hold a similar grant.

JEW'S SUPPORT ALLIES

The promise of Jewish support to the cause of the Entente Allies because victory against the Central Powers "is essential to freedom of the world over," is given in an open letter signed by sixty-eight of the leading Jews in the United States. Three of the signers are Philadelphia, they are Dr. Solomon Solis-Cohen, Louis Edward Levy and Oscar Loeb. The others come from cities all over the United States. The declaration refers to the freedom of opportunity granted to Jews years ago by Great Britain and France, and points out that an added reason for Jewish support for the Allies lies in the extension of liberty to the Jews in Russia through the revolution.

EMPLOYERS' PROBLEMS TEXT FOR CONFERENCE

National Employment Managers' Association Discusses High Cost of Labor

RAP SHUTDOWN OF PLANTS

Declared This Policy Would Not Bring Hired Help to Terms, but Would Promote Trouble

That many managers of large manufacturing corporations think wages at present abnormally high and are considering shutting down their plants when the war is over, with a view to reducing wages, was the opinion expressed at the first session of the National Employment Managers' conference in Houston Hall, of the University of Pennsylvania this morning by Boyd Fisher, vice president of Detroit Executives' Club. Mr. Fisher put himself on record as opposed to such a policy, which he said was suicidal.

"The buying power of work will be cut off," he said, "and credit will vanish. The worst of such a situation," he continued, "will be, if even only a few adopt this policy, that it will scare the others and they will think they should do it also." Mr. Fisher said he hoped such a movement would not be necessary.

"When the 'time comes,'" he said, "the proper thing to do will be for the employers to tell the men frankly how matters stand and I believe they will readily consent to a readjustment. If any other policy is followed," he added, "we stand to lose our best workers."

Speaking on the subject of discharging help Mr. Fisher said that the Ford Company has a rule that it will not discharge any man, but is finding that it is a mistake; that it interferes with other arrangements which had been made for the benefit of employees, and defeats the carrying out of other philanthropic plans, and it is now considering a change in that policy. Mr. Fisher also said that the hardest problem before the executive entrusted with the employment and discharge of help is the employment of those found to be below normal.

He advocated the application of the single tax idea as a panacea for the continuous demand for higher wages.

The National Employment Managers' Association is made up of the executives and other responsible employees who hire and discharge the help in the large establishments, both manufacturing and mercantile, in the country. Its members are holding a two days' conference in this city. At their opening session this morning they were welcomed by Provost Smith, who entertained them at luncheon this afternoon. The papers read this morning were by Meyer Bloomfield, of Boston, and Magnus W. Alexander, of the General Electric Company, West Lynn, Mass. They were largely technical and were devoted to plans for the elimination of the waste incurred in employing and discharging help.

The afternoon session was held in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce in the Widener Building, when the papers read at the morning were discussed, and papers on "Tabulating of Labor Turnover," "Figuring Cost of Labor Turnover" and "Labor Turnover Records" were read by E. H. Fish, Worcester, Mass.; Boyd Fisher, Detroit, and Charles F. Winslow, Indianapolis, respectively.

STOLEN AUTO FOUND AFTER 18-MILE CHASE

Thieves, Whom Motorcycle Policeman Tried in Vain to Overtake, Arrested in Camden

An eighteen-mile pursuit on a motorcycle of two youths who had ridden away from Camden in an automobile they did not own ended early today with the capture of the car near Philadelphia, N. J. Motorcycle Policeman Laib, of the Camden police force, was the pursuer. The youths were caught later in Camden. They are Frank Bush, twenty, of 1107 Lewis street, Camden, and Steven Syvolobsky, nineteen, of 1121 Liberty street, Camden.

Policeman Laib picked up the car just before daylight while he was cruising about Camden on his motorcycle, having been warned an hour before at the police station that an automobile had been stolen from Benjamin Ostroff, 1249 Kaighn avenue. When he recognized the car Laib shouted to the occupants to stop. This was near the Kaighn avenue ferry. Instead of stopping the men put on more speed and raced to Kaighn avenue. Laib followed, but could not overhaul the car. When the car took the Woodbury pike Laib opened fire with his revolver. He emptied the weapon without effect and settled down to following the car. Outside Paolioboro the car was deserted after it had been run around a curve, which hid it from Laib's view for a moment. Descriptions of the men were sent back to Camden and both were arrested in a railroad station later.

STRAWBRIDGE & CLOTHIER CHORUS TO ENTERTAIN

Members Will Give Sir Arthur Sullivan's "Golden Legend" at the Metropolitan April 25

The annual concert of the Strawbridge & Clothier Chorus will be held at the Metropolitan Opera House on April 25, when "The Golden Legend," a cantata by Arthur Sullivan, will be presented.

The soloists for the concert are all noted in musical circles. They are Herbert Witherspoon and Mrs. Florence Hinkle-Witherspoon, of New York; Miss Mabelle Addison and W. L. Pontius, of Philadelphia.

Mr. Witherspoon will sing the part of Lucifer, for which his bass voice is well fitted, while Mrs. Witherspoon will sing the part of Marie. Miss Addison the part of Ursula and Mr. Pontius that of Prince Henry. Those who have attended rehearsals so far say the concert will excel any of those previously presented.

PULLMAN $860 the synonym for Pulling Power THE mechanical specifications of a motor car are of interest to the purchaser only in so far as they indicate the car's ability to do the things it ought to do. They are important as a means to the desired end—touring comfort, hill-climbing power, tire and gasoline economy, beauty of appearance. Owners appreciate the mechanical perfections of the Pullman, but they enthuse over its performance as the real reason for urging their friends to buy a Pullman and for re-ordering a car of the same make for themselves. Pullman Specifications 114 inch wheel base. 50 1/2 inch full cantilever rear springs. Four cylinder, L-head motor, 32 h. p. by actual brake test. Two-unit starting and lighting equipment. Stromberg carburetor, new type float valve. Genuine full floating rear axle. Thermo-siphon cooling system. Squatted brakes with Raybestos brake lining. Seventeen gallon gas tank in rear. Carter vacuum feed. Genuine honeycomb radiator—extra large tank. Six inch rad. wall. Firestone non-skid tires on all four wheels. Pullman Performance Takes you where you want to go and home again—sturdily. Climbs hills with ease and grace—unfalteringly. Travels 20 to 25 miles on a gallon of gasoline—economically. Gives you pride of personal possession through its true steamline, custom-made body of satin green and black finish, its real leather plated upholstery and extra deep cushions.
