LEGISLATURE AIDS CITY TRANSIT PLAN

Three of Four Measures Reported Out of Committee

FIRST READING DUE TODAY

By a Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, April 18.

The Philadelphia high-speed transit lines have received their first encouragement from the Legislature.

Three of the four measures introduced for the purpose of placing the city in a position whereby it could command the situation with the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company during the negotiations with the company for the operation of the extensive system of subways and elevated lines that are to be built, are on the first reading calendar for today.

All three of the measures were reported out of committee late yesterday afternoon and last night. Included among them is the Salus-Gans bill, which is the one the Public Service Commission insisted be disposed of before it could grant the certificates of public convenience that are necessary before any additional contracts can be awarded for the construction of the Broad street subway or any of the other high-speed lines except the Frankford elevated.

The Salus-Gans bill would enable the city to force the Philadelphia Rapid Transit to connect with the subway and elevated system and to co-operate in a system of transfers and universal rate of fare, should the city decide to operate the high-speed system itself or to lease it to an independent company.

This bill was in the Judiciary General Committee of the Senate, having already passed the House, and was reported out through the efforts of Senator Edwin H. Vare. As reported, however, it has been amended slightly, but only in minor details.

The two other bills reported out were the Hecht measures, which have been lying in the Judiciary Special Committee of the House for a month, or ever since they were introduced.

One of them is a resolution proposing an amendment to the State Constitution that would enable the city to purchase he existing system. The other would give the Public Service Commission the same power over street railways as they now have over steam and electric railroads, and would place in the hands of the commission the power to regulate the rate of fare that would be charged when the new high-speed system is completed.

The fourth bill was introduced yesterday by Senator Vare, and would permit the city to borrow additional funds as a county.

No member of the commission would discuss the situation today, or give an idea of when that body could be expected to return a decision in the application for certificates of public convenience.

Governor Brumbaugh also today failed to give any intimation as to when he could be expected to appoint the seventh member of the commission, and thus break the deadlock that had tied up the granting of the certificates for months.

PLEADS NATION'S NEED TO HALT COAL STRIKE

Coal Operators' Chief Points to Crisis at Conference With Miners

An appeal to the miners to stand by the nation in this hour of need and refrain from industrial disturbances was made by B. M. Clark, president of the Operators' Association today at a conference of miners and operators at the Bellevue-Stratford.

The conference is being held on the eve of a strike by 55,000 soft coal miners in the central Pennsylvania fields. The operators are considering the demands for a higher wage scale and improved working conditions.

"I appeal to the patriotism of you men at this time," said Mr. Clark. "In this hour of trial you should first consider your country, and a coal strike at this time would be seriously detrimental to the interests of the United States. In the impending struggle you should know that all of the profits of the operators and much more will be expended in the interests of the United States Government. We are prepared to give all to our country, and if you are really patriotic you will show a like disposition."

Red Cross Auxiliaries Formed

A series of meetings to organize Red Cross auxiliaries began today in various churches throughout the city. One meeting was held in the Church of the Incarnation, Broad and Jefferson streets, where Mrs. Charles H. Frazier spoke. Another was in the Calvary Church, Germantown, where the Rev. F. S. Moore presided. A meeting will be held tonight in the Blockley Baptist Church, Fifty-third street and Wyalusing avenue.

VARE BLOCKS WAR BILL IN SENATE

Obtains Reconsideration After Penrose Measure Had Passed Second Hearing

BRUMBAUGH BARS SNYDER

By a Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, April 18.

The two factions of the Republican organization will fight out the question of who shall direct the expenditure of the funds to be appropriated by the State for war emergency purposes on the floor of the Senate next Monday night. This was decided upon today.

The measure was passed on second reading in the Senate while Senator Vare, the administration leader in that body, was absent. When Vare returned to the Senate chamber he forced a reconsideration of the vote, and action on the bill was postponed.

The bill was drafted by the Penrose leaders after Governor Brumbaugh had notified them that he would not stand for Auditor General-elect Snyder being placed on the board that would supervise the expenditures.

The measure created a board composed of the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, the Military Board, which consists of the Adjutant General, Atterbury and A. W. Mellon, of the Public Safety Committee of Pennsylvania.

The Cook resolution indorsing selective conscription was unanimously adopted by the House.
